U. S. BILL GRIEVES POWERS

DEMAND PUBLIC BUDGET TRIMS OF $90,000,000

Citizen Group Plans 31% Cut from 1930.

Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, said yesterday that the committee's experts were working on the budgets of the local government in Cook county with a view to keeping the total tax levy for 1933 under $200,000,000. The committee is expected to have a report and recommendations on the budgets ready within a month.

FRED SARGENT. [Matzene Photo.]

The tax levy for the local governments for 1930, which is still in collection, was $290,283,770. Of this amount 45.26 per cent still remains uncollected. If the levy for 1933 is no more than $200,000,000 that will mean a reduction of 31 per cent from the 1930 levy.

The 1930 levy is used for purposes of comparison in this connection because, while the levies for 1931 and 1932 as called for in the official ordinances of the local governments are known, the amount of taxes that actually will be extended for those years depends on the assessed valuations of property which have not been completed.

Sargent Explains Plan.

"The committee's experts are working to estimate what the total income from taxes for all the local governments will be for 1933," said Mr. Sargent, "and that figure can be used as a basis from which to determine what their levies should be. I believe, however, that the tax levies for all Cook county's local governments should not exceed $200,000,000.

"It is hoped that reductions in the budgets of all the local governments can be attained through cooperative efforts with those directly charged with the responsibility for making those budgets and spending the taxpayers money.

"In the past each local government agency has appropriated and expended the tax money without regard to what the other governments were doing or without taking into consideration the ability of the taxpayers to pay. There should be coördination between the governments so that the total of their budgets will be a sum that the taxpayers can contribute to their operation."

Will Show Uses of Taxes.

The report of the citizens' committee will contain information, according to Mr. Sargent, that will advise the taxpayers as to the amounts the governments are spending and for what purposes.

The 1930 tax extensions for the major local governments—city, county, schools, municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, public library, south, west and Lincoln parks, forest preserves, sanitary district and pension funds—totaled $240,495,842, or approximately 83 per cent of the total extension of $290,283,770. This percentage applied to a 1933 tax levy of $200,000,000 would cut the levies of the major governments to $164,000,000.

For the city's corporate fund, City Controller Szymczak has estimated a 1933 levy of $42,032,000, a reduction of $8,929,825 from the extension of $51,961,825 for this fund for 1930. The controller has estimated the city's total corporate budget at $43,219,000, of which he expects $12,705,000 to be financed by miscellaneous revenues.

Mayor Seeks Further Cuts.

Mayor Cermak, however, has called a meeting of all department heads in his office for today for the purpose of cutting below the controller's estimated budget, even if some of the city's many bureaus have to be sacrificed. The mayor's dictum at the meeting will be that the budget has to be reduced as much as possible to lower tax bills.

The controller's estimates of 1933 appropriations will be sent to the city council at its meeting on Dec. 1 to meet a requirement of the law. But, working with the mayor, the controller will go over the estimates of each department for the purpose of paring them to the lowest figure possible, and these revised estimates of appropriations will be submitted to the council finance committee.

Although the controller's estimates are before Dec. 1, the council has until then to be submitted to the council on March 31, 1933, to adopt the budget.

HITLER LOSES FIGHT TO RULE; OTHERS CALLED

Predict Papen Will Be Reinstated.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—President Paul von Hindenburg today rejected Adolf Hitler's proposal to form a cabinet under the national socialist leader's chancellorship and equipped with the same powers granted his predecessors. The president then resumed negotiations with other political party leaders with the view of forming a parliamentary government.

Political observers in Berlin tonight declared that Von Hindenburg has decided to reinstate the Franz von Papen "monocled" cabinet equipped with dictatorial powers. They insist that if Von Papen finds it advisable to withdraw from the limelight, Von Hindenburg will form a government from men of Von Papen's aristocratic and militaristic clique.

Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, minister of defense, has expressed a fear that the increased idleness will result in hunger riots this winter. He is known to be advising the president to nominate a chancellor who is less compromised by reactionary policies than Von Papen.

Doors Still Open.

Both the presidential palace and Hitler's headquarters stress that relations between Von Hindenburg and the Nazi leader are not broken off. In a letter rejecting Hitler's proposal, Dr. Otto Meissner, Von Hindenburg's secretary of state, emphasized that "the door to the president is always open for you since he does not abandon hope that in due time it will be possible to induce you and your movement to coöperate all constructive powers of the nation."

Hitler and his followers also are certain that the day is not far off when Hitler will be called in by the president "to help save the country." In his reply to the president's rejection, Hitler also leaves the door ajar for future negotiations. Nevertheless he and his followers make it clear they are convinced the offer of the chancellorship is only a trap set by Von Hindenburg's advisers and Von Papen's associates in an effort to win control of the power Hitler holds without "giving the German people proper legal safeguards."

Voices Respect for Constitution.

In his entire correspondence with the president, Hitler has consistently emphasized his respect for the constitution. In his final message to Von Hindenburg Hitler pointed out that he refused to accept the offer because the conditions attached to it conflicted with the constitution and that it was impossible to form a constitutional cabinet if its formation was based on the violation of provisions of several paragraphs of the constitution protecting the rights of parliament.

"I have always stressed the necessity for the chancellor to coöperate with the reichstag and I would be willing to work only under legal conditions," he said.

"I have not asked for dictatorship for my party, but I am willing to negotiate with all parties able to coöperate constructively with the government. Last summer and now my negotiations were doomed to failure because authorities were determined to cling to Von Papen's presidential cabinet. I refuse to work with this type of presidential cabinet because it is not a constructive force. So far my expectations that its schemes would fail have been proved right. Its experiments can lead only to a brutal reign of violence.

Will Fight Future Chancellor.

"The movement I represent will serve only the interests of the people, none other. I feel responsible to the German people for the sake of my conscience and for the sake of the honor of my movement of millions of Germans who, through recent political experiments, are being driven steadily to increasing misery."

Capt. Hermann Goering, Nazi speaker of the old reichstag, tonight announced that his party will fight

JOLIET BRIDGE, WATERWAY LINK, OPEN TOMORROW

The new Jefferson street bridge across the Des Plaines river in Joliet will be opened to traffic tomorrow, engineers announced yesterday. Work of tearing out the temporary bridge at Van Buren street, the last barrier to the opening of the Illinois waterway, can then be started.

Removal of the Van Buren street bridge before completion of the one at Jefferson street was restrained by an injunction obtained by Joliet citizens who feared the fire department would be handicapped if too many of the bridges were taken out at once. As soon as the temporary bridge is removed it will be possible to build the retaining wall at that point and flood the Brandon pool, permitting navigation on the waterway.

Another bridge, at Ruby street in Joliet, must still be rebuilt, and still another new bridge constructed at McDonough street, but these structures will be high enough so that they will not interfere with navigation.

FIGHT $25,000 FIRE IN HARVEY BUSINESS AREA

While more than 1,000 persons viewed a motion picture in the Harvey theater at 15408 Center avenue, Harvey, last night firemen fought to control a fire in an adjoining two story brick building. Fire Chief William Phebus of Harvey estimated the damage at $25,000.

The fire started in a rubbish heap in the basement of a confectionary store at 154th street and Center avenue. Dense smoke prevented the firemen from reaching its source and the flames spread to a cleaning and dyeing shop, a shoe store and a shoe shining parlor on the first floor and to doctors' and dentists' offices on the second floor. The building is owned by George A. Stevenson, former Harvey bank president.

EDDIE GUERIN PUT IN JAIL FOR YEAR AS BAG SNATCHER

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Eddie Guerin, notorious criminal who once escaped from "Devil's island," went to jail for a year today for snatching a handbag which contained about $15. He is 72 now, broken in health, but still a confirmed lawbreaker. Today, with tears on his cheeks, he told the court that he never had "had a chance," that his wife and four children were ill, that he already had "paid dearly" for his mistakes, and that if he were let off this time he would go straight. Guerin began his criminal career in Chicago, where he was associated with the notorious "Chicago May."

Old $177,000 Cowpath Gets a Cow Today

At 10 o'clock this morning Northwood Susan VI., a pure bred milking shorthorn, will nose her way through swinging doors at the western end of the 100 West Monroe street building in the middle of the loop to make history for her kind. She will be the first cow in more than a half century to tread a path which has been reserved for cattle for a century.

She will walk the 177 foot path with her three weeks old calf, Buttercup. There will be no grazing for Susan and her calf and no whistling boy to hurry her to her milking. In his place will be photographers, reporters, and officials of the International Live Stock exposition.

William Jones Comes to West.

Northwood Susan's right to walk the path was established in 1833 when one William Jones came to a young city in the wild west and purchased for $200 a lot, 200 feet wide, on Clark street with a depth of 90 feet on Monroe street, at the northwest corner. He built a house and a barn and his son drove his milk cow along the block line to a pasture now fittingly the site of the Board of Trade building.

Beginning in 1844 he sold strips of his lot, in each case reserving the right to continue to use the cow path and also granting the buyer the privilege. In the years that followed the rights of the various purchasers became so complicated that the cow path was kept open indefinitely.

Jared Basset, a sagacious gentleman, who purchased a parcel in 1853, chose an inside lot to avoid shoveling snow from two sidewalks. Stores came. Cows no longer used the path. A cow owned by one Mrs. O'Leary brought the whole tribe into disrepute by kicking over a lamp to start the Chicago fire. An irate city council, without giving the cow a fair trial, passed an ordinance forbidding cows the use of streets, but Jones' rights remained in the deeds.

Club Erects Building.

At the turn of the century the Hamilton club erected a building occupying 80 of Jones' original 90 foot frontage on Monroe street. A peanut vender's stand for a time usurped the mouth of the path, but a cow might have forced him to move his stand.

In 1928 a 23 story building was erected on the 100 West Monroe street site. The owners circumvented the path by utilizing the air rights over it. The path was left, however, 10 feet wide with an 18 foot clearance.

It is estimated that the annual loss in rent on the path is $10,000 and its value $177,000.

After the historic trip Northwood Susan and her calf will be put aboard their truck and taken to the Union Stock Yards to await the opening of the stock show tomorrow. Susan and her calf will be rewarded with extra fare.

FROM CHIVALRY TO CUSSEDNESS AND BACK AGAIN!

Charles Black, 30 years old, stepped across the line that divides chivalry from cussedness early yesterday. Arriving at his home, 713 Brompton place, and finding the door locked, he battered his way in and slapped his wife, Flossie.

Mrs. Black seized a pistol and shot him in the left ankle. The wounded man fled to the home of his sister, Mrs. Carl Hamesfahr, 3443 Herndon street. There, a few minutes later, Mrs. Black arrived with a physician.

"He will have to go to a hospital," said the doctor.

"No," he said, "if I do that the police will have to lock up Flossie. I can't have that. Let me alone."

He replaced the shoe that had been taken off for the doctor's examination and hobbled out the front door. His sacrifice was useless. The police learned of the shooting last night and arrested Mrs. Black. She hopes he will hear that she is already in jail and will have his wound tended.

China Charges Japs Kill 2,700 in Manchuria

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 25. [Friday].—Japanese troops killed 2,700 Chinese men, women, and children, the inhabitants of the three Manchurian villages of Pingtingshan, Chienchinpao, and Litsekou, about 15 miles northeast of Fushun [east of Mukden], according to an official report issued by the Nanking foreign office last night. The report caused great excitement here.

A Japanese detachment visited each of the villages searching for concealed Chinese rebel "volunteers," according to the foreign office, and ordered the villagers to assemble in a ditch near Pingtingshan while the search went on.

Ordered to Kneel.

To prevent the villagers from escaping or communicating with the alleged rebel volunteers, the Japanese compelled them to kneel, meantime placing behind them ten machine guns some 70 yards distant, the report asserted. When the villagers started to run the Japanese opened fire, the dispatch continued, and the stampeding mass of screaming men, women and children were mowed down.

Between 60 and 70 were reported killed by the first fusillade. About 160 escaped, but refugees claim that the remainder were wounded or bayoneted, the communique stated. The bodies were collected on pyres, covered with fuel oil and burned, it was said.

The Chinese declared that similar outrages occurred in the villages of Tiehwanpao and Wangshapo, southwest of Mukden.

The Japanese foreign office in a message received last night here denied the massacre report and stated that the Fushun area has been quiet. The Japanese claim the report is a complete fabrication for the purpose of influencing Geneva.

Orders Japs from Russia.

TOKIO, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A rift occurred today in the heretofore friendly coöperation between Russia and Japan in connection with the rebellion of Chinese "loyalists" in northwestern Manchuria against the Manchukuo régime.

This information came from Eiji Amoh, Japanese chargé d'affaires in Moscow, who sent a Russian government communication to the foreign office asking that the Japanese military mission at Machevskaya leave Siberia soon.

The mission has been at Machevskaya to negotiate with the rebel Chinese general Su Ping-Wen, who captured and held nearly 300 Japanese a few weeks ago when he took charge of a large slice of Manchuria near the soviet border.

Hold 100 Jap Prisoners.

Through the good offices of Russia, 120 Japanese women and children were released, and 42 more were reported set free last week, leaving about 100 still in the hands of Su's irregular Chinese troops.

The Russian request was handed to Amoh by L. M. Karakhan, vice commissar for foreign affairs, whose statement said the hope of negotiating with Gen. Su was apparently futile. The soviet vice commissar also asked the Japanese to stop using the airfield at Dauria, near by, where supplies intended for the captive Japanese had been landed.

The communication was received unfavorably in Tokio, especially M. Karakhan's accompanying comment that the soviet government was certain from the beginning that Gen. Su would refuse to treat with the Japanese.

Jap Suspicions Strengthened.

The foreign office said this statement by the Russians tended to reinforce the long held suspicions here that soviet influence was involved in Su's rebellion against the new state of Manchukuo.

It is understood Tokio will ask Moscow to withdraw the request for the departure of the mission on the ground that there was still hope Gen. Su would negotiate.

A $150 SAVINGS DEPOSIT SOARS TO $804 IN 36 YRS.

Stockton, Cal., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Gus Miller, Stockton tennis player, gave thanks today for $150 which in 36 years has grown by interest jumps to $804.

Workmen razing the old Miller family home in Sacramento found an old safe. In it was a bank savings account pass book showing a deposit of $150 made to his credit on his first birthday, Dec. 3, 1896, by his mother, Mrs. D. H. Miller.

Subsequently the family forgot the account. Miller checked up with a Sacramento bank yesterday and found the account still existed.

Leaders Say Hoover Plan Is Doomed.

War Debt Front

PARIS.—French threaten to reinstate heavy German reparations payments and charge that President Hoover's request to pay the war debts will block disarmament progress and kill the world economic conference. They carefully refrain from saying they won't pay on Dec. 15.

LONDON.—British plead for friendly war debt attitude on the part of the United States; President Hoover's message received and studied by Prime Minister MacDonald and Chancellor of the Exchequer Chamberlain.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Great Britain, France, and the more responsible of the other debtor nations will pay their installments of the war debts due to the United States on Dec. 15 and the question of modification of the debt settlements will go over to the Roosevelt administration.

This is the upshot of the recent flurry over debt revision, in the opinion of congressional leaders, Republicans and Democrats alike.

It may be that the debtors will be allowed to make their payments in their currencies instead of in dollars, on condition that the full amount of dollars is forthcoming later, as was suggested by President Hoover yesterday, but this is universally regarded as the utmost extent of the concessions they will receive at this time.

Fated for Burial in Congress.

The President's proposal of the creation of a commission, analogous to the war debt funding commission, empowered to negotiate reductions of the debt terms contingent upon European disarmament and trade concessions to the United States, is fated to receive ultimate burial in a congressional pigeonhole. Mr. Hoover is expected to submit this plan either in his annual message upon the reconvening of congress next month or in a separate message later, but it will get it nowhere.

On this proposition the President lacks the support of as much as a corporal's guard of the national legislature. Not even the blindest of partisan Republican supporters of the administration have come to the defense of the President in this affair. The Republicans with rare unanimity have declared against the reconstitution of the debt funding commission or any other step toward reconsideration of the 11 billion dollar debt settlements.

With no less unanimity the Democrats have rejected the Hoover proposals and taken their stand with President Elect Roosevelt that any representations of present incapacity to pay any individual debtor may care to make can be dealt with through diplomatic channels.

Modification of Terms.

The theory of the Roosevelt procedure is that if any debtor can convince the executive branch of the government that it is unable to continue payment of the amounts fixed in the settlement the executive will recommend modification of the terms by congress.

As matters now stand, the President has failed to bring about that reopening of the debt settlements which he led the European debtors to believe he could accomplish and the President elect has put them off with a soft answer.

This is the outward manifestation of the public sentiment of the country, which is overwhelmingly against any further reduction of the debts. The propaganda for cancellation or reduction of the debts emanates chiefly from the financial interests of the eastern seaboard, which have loaned billions of dollars to Europe and are fearful that these billions will not be so readily repaid if full payment of the war debts be exacted, and from the Atlantic coast newspapers dominated by such interests or moved by traditional instincts of subserviency to Europe.

From such sources emanate the arguments that Europe cannot recover prosperity unless relieved of payment of the war debts, and that until it recovers prosperity Europe cannot afford to pay liberality of American products. Hence, according to this propaganda, it would be good business for America to cancel the war debts and rehabilitate a customer whose purchasings would bring good times to this country.

The Europeans are no less eager to sell to us than we are to sell to them. But so far from no European source has emanated the argument that the war debts should be paid in full lest American taxpayers should be so impoverished that they would be unable to purchase European products with that liberality which would assure a restoration of European prosperity.

The cancellation and reduction sentiment is not only confined to the eastern seaboard, but to an exceedingly small part thereof, as is evidenced by the opposition of such eastern leaders as Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] to revision of the settlements. West of the Alleghenies the country virtually is solid against any modification of the terms, the opinion being that the taxpayers of the countries that borrowed the money are fully as able to pay as are the taxpayers of the country that loaned it.

But the Hoover administration has proved a sore disappointment to the debtors and the American cancellationists. President Hoover told Premier Laval that if German reparations were reduced America would do her part, meaning, according to his spokesman at the time, that the war debts would be scaled down. He was unable to deliver.

'ALDERMEN MEET TODAY TO REVISE TAXI ORDINANCE

Members of a city council subcommittee will meet today to start work on a revision of the ordinance governing the operation of taxicabs in Chicago. The ordinance has been attacked by several aldermen on the ground that a provision in it prevents the operation of taxicabs by independents, practically giving a monopoly to the Yellow and Checker Cab companies.

This monopolistic feature was repealed by the council last August, but was subsequently reinstated over protests. At the time the whole subject matter of taxicab regulation was referred to a subcommittee with resolutions asking for an investigation of the public vehicle license commission, which has refused cab stand licenses to independents.

The aldermen declare that the task of writing a new ordinance is a difficult one. The demands before them, they state, are to lower the existing rates, protect the public against irresponsible cab companies, and provide, by some restriction on numbers, against traffic congestion.

Advises Cut of 227 Millions from British Local Budgets

LONDON, Nov. 24.—National economies, estimated to save $200,000,000 yearly for England and Wales and $27,000,000 for Scotland, were recommended by two committees on local expenditure, whose reports to the chancellor of the exchequer were issued tonight. The proposals include abolition of the housing subsidy, saving of $25,000,000 in municipal salaries and closure of redundant schools. A reduction of 8,500 teachers is suggested spread over three years.

WE'LL RESUME REPARATIONS! FRANCE'S THREAT

Nation Angry at Hoover for Request to Pay.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 24.—Behind a smoke screen of threats to plunge the world deeper into chaos by tearing up the Lausanne reparations agreements and demanding that Germany resume payments under the Young plan, the master minds of the Quai d'Orsay, headed by Premier Edouard Herriot, spent today mulling over President Hoover's message to pay up.

As far as could be learned tonight, the French policy on war debts will be one of watchful waiting. A spokesman for the government said that no answer to the note or any other direct diplomatic move is being prepared.

Press Bitter and Gloomy.

Inspired editorials in the semi-official press are bitter against President Hoover and gloomy over the outlook, but they carefully refrain from stating that France will refuse to pay the $19,261,452 to the United States on Dec. 15.

The sedate Temps asserts that the United States would bear the responsibility for checkmating the disarmament conference and for killing the world economic conference "from which the Americans expect considerable advantages to remedy the depression." In other words, tariffs!

How far the French would be willing to go in carrying out this threat to destroy the reparations agreements is conjectural, but it is certain that France is perfectly able to do so. The famous secret gentlemen's agreement at Lausanne declares that ratification of the Lausanne accords ending reparations will not be made by the creditor governments until they have secured a satisfactory adjustment of their own debts to the United States.

Revert to Previous Status.

In case such a settlement can be effected, the gentleman's agreement stipulates that the legal position of the interested governments reverts to the state which existed before the Hoover moratorium.

It is interesting to note that a necessary corollary to putting the Young plan of reparations payments back into force is a resumption of payments to the United States, and it is doubtful if the French chamber of deputies would consent to this, thereby leaving the situation without any particular status.

Secondly, everybody in Paris is aware of the absurdity in the claim that European powers are not all working hand in glove in the debt attack. Although differences in viewpoint exist between the French and British, it is incorrect to suppose that the united front has broken down.

How United Front Is Maintained.

The united front is maintained by an annex to the gentlemen's agreement which binds the British not to fix terms for a war debt funding definitely until a general settlement has been reached with the United States. In case the settlement falls through and the situation reverts to the premoratorium state, "the French and British together will have to examine the situation thus created."

This raises the question of the forthcoming French debt payment to Britain. The sum is about the same as the payment due America. It is known that a tacit understanding already exists regarding this payment, which is necessarily linked to the Washington payment. The consequence of these interlocking agreements would be to plunge the international situation into confusion if anybody defaults any one of them, which appears to be just what the European diplomats intended.

Pertinax, famous political writer, will reveal in tomorrow morning's Echo de Paris that high officials are working out a plan whereby if France and Great Britain pay, they will not turn the sum directly over to the United States, but will place it in the Bank for International Settlements.

Would Keep Money in Bank.

Such a procedure is seen as the "maximum compliance possible," says Pertinax. He explains that the plan is are to put the money into this account, which cannot be drawn upon, and keep it there "until negotiations are eventually engaged in for revision or the contracts are terminated."

Meanwhile, it is too early to venture any prediction as to the policy Herriot intends to follow in the chamber. With him, it will be a game of politics with the premiership as the stake. He may advocate defaulting the Dec. 15 payment, which would save his neck, or he may attempt to club the payment through the house, which would seal his doom.

PLEAD FOR ENGLAND

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Pleas for American consideration and sympathy for England's hard case were made at the American society's Thanksgiving dinner in London tonight, at which the American colony was present in full force.

There was no British speaker, but two dominion ministers, Stanley Bruce, resident minister for Australia, and Howard Ferguson, high commissioner for Canada, were put up to plead for poor England.

Bruce appealed for complete understanding and cooperation between the United States and the British empire to save the world from the trials and tribulations besetting it. He insisted the greater opportunity and responsibility rested on the shoulders of the people of the United States.

"Knowing the American people as I do, I believe their one desire is to do the right thing," he said.

Appeals for Consideration.

Appealing for special consideration on the part of the United States regarding Britain's war debt payments, Bruce said that Britain, by her efforts in man power and finance during the war and her generous treatment of her debtors after the war, had exhausted herself.

"The issue at the moment is only whether the interest due Dec. 15 should be paid or postponed. The interest already has been deferred 15 months," he said. "Would further postponement make such a difference? I do not think it would."

No mention of the debt question was made by Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon, who presided. The United States, he said, had many reasons for being thankful. The ambassador added that Americans have weathered the depression remarkably well and "have adhered to the orderly processes of government" under conditions which in other nations might have produced "violence and upheaval."

Hoover's Note Received.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister MacDonald and Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain studied copies of President Hoover's reply to the British plea for a suspension of the $95,550,000 payment due the United States on Dec. 15. The note was received in London this morning.

It was learned tonight that the government will make no decision regarding payment or a default until England dispatches another note to the United States detailing further reasons for a suspension and its reply is received. This note is expected to be sent to Washington over the weekend.

The special cabinet committee meets tomorrow to consider the nature of the reply.

WOULD LINK INTERNAL, WAR DEBTS IN ANY REVIEW OF QUESTION

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, declared yesterday that any review of the war debt situation should be accompanied by consideration of the internal debt situation in the United States. He made the statement in a letter to Alfred P. Sloan Jr. of New York, chairman of the committee for consideration of intergovernmental debts. Mr. O'Neal is a vice chairman of that organization.

"The moratorium on payment of European debts to us, so generously granted by the President and congress," states Mr. O'Neal, "has not, during the last year, succeeded in stimulating trade (between American and the debtor nations), and I am wondering if a permanent reduction in these debts would have any different effect from that which we have observed during the last year.

"If we could make, as a condition incident to the scaling down of these debts, a provision that the nation so benefited should agree to buy certain quantities of goods from this country, then it seems to me there might be some justification for a scaling down of these debts.

"Of much more importance than consideration of any settlement of the foreign debt must be consideration of ways and means whereby commodity values can be raised to a point where we will be enabled to pay off our farm indebtedness."

VON HINDENBURG REJECTS HITLER FOR CHANCELLOR

"any new government that may be formed and overthrow it the same as we overthrew the Von Papen cabinet."

After many months of bitter recriminations Hitler and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, the Nationalist leader, met today and discussed the political crisis.

Dr. Ludwig Kaas, Catholic Centrist leader, called on Von Hindenburg this afternoon. The president asked whether Dr. Kaas believed he could successfully act as intermediary in the formation of a cabinet based on a reichstag majority. Dr. Kaas reserved his reply until tomorrow.

May Resume Parleys.

Thus indirect negotiations between Von Hindenburg and Hitler may be renewed, but political circles are convinced that Dr. Kaas will be compelled to tell Von Hindenburg that only a presidential cabinet now is possible.

Hitler's final words to Von Hindenburg are being circulated on handbills among Hitler's followers tonight in order to relieve their disappointment that their leader has not been selected as chancellor.

The majority of the Nazi party, which still controls almost a third of the reichstag members, approves Hitler's refusal of Von Hindenburg's conditioned offer. They are confronted by serious financial difficulties. Hitler's "storm troops" have not received their weekly pocket money, but are still being fed in Hitler's kitchens. His bodyguards received full pay.

Nazis Still Confident.

Leaders of Nazi groups, confident that even if the party should be unable to pay the small party doles the men will remain true to the party, continue to hope for Hitler's appointment "after a new presidential cabinet fails and Hitler is called in to save the country."

INSANITY BATTLE LOOMS AT TRIAL OF SAXE KILLER

Murder Indictment Is Expected Today.

Plans for a battle of alienists—unless the state agrees to some lenient penalty for Charles Bertrand Arnold Jr., 16 year old killer of his grandmother—were mapped yesterday afternoon at a conference in the office of Dr. James Whitney Hall. Dr. Hall made a tentative report at this conference which was attended by the defense attorneys and the parents of the youth, to the effect that young Arnold is legally insane.

Besides Dr. Hall ad Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Arnold of 264 Stenstone road, Riverside, the boy's parents, the holiday conference was attended by Attorneys Weymouth Kirkland and David Jacker. No formal statement was issued other than a copy of the report made by Dr. Hall to the attorneys, but it was reliably reported that even the parents of the youth do not want him set at liberty. On the other hand, it was said, they do not want too severe a penalty imposed.

Two Courses Open.

The report of Dr. Hall leaves open two courses for the defense. Either imprisonment in the penitentiary for the youthful killer or incarceration in the Chester asylum for the criminal insane at Menard.

Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Thomas Johnson, who are in charge of the prosecution, expect to seek the indictment of young Arnold this morning. They will ask for an immediate arraignment, which is expected to place the youth under the observation of Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of the Behavior clinic, an independent institution operated by the courts.

At present the prosecutors have reports from two state alienists, Dr. H. Douglas Singer and Francis Gerty, to the effect that the killer is legally sane. No mention, however, was made in the reports on the question of the medical sanity of the boy. The fact for legal sanity, it was pointed out, is whether the prisoner knows the difference between right and wrong.

Believe Boy Had Accomplice.

The report issued by Dr. Hall indicates that the defense is not at all satisfied that young Arnold was alone in the crime, at least insofar as disposing of his grandmother's body in the cistern is concerned. The alienist admitted that this conclusion might be drawn from the language of his report, but he refused to discuss this phase of the case.

In regard to the possible accomplice, it was pointed out by the alienists that the Arnold boy weighs about 110 pounds while his victim weighed about 130 pounds. It would be considerable of a task for such a slender youth, they said, to dispose of the body as he is supposed to have done, by dragging it from the home to a cistern in the yard.

Uses Phrase "If True."

In his report Dr. Hall uses the term "if true" in referring to the so-called confession made of the crime by the Arnold boy. The report in part is as follows:

"On the behaviorism, it is worthy of note that early in life this boy developed a mania for fire. His abnormal interest in fires since early childhood is almost sufficient for a diagnosis of pyromania. On examination, he stated to me 'that when I was about 4 years of age I was so attracted by fire that I sat down on a pile of papers and set fire to them.' His father states that as a result of this incident the boy received a severe and extensive burn which became infected, and the patient was very ill for a number of months.

A Day Dreamer.

"He has always been a 'day dreamer,' and relates 'when going to bed at night, would build himself up to a perfect man physically and an intellectual giant, fall asleep with that impression and wake up the next morning and find himself the same little runt that he was the day before. His dreams especially dwelt on adventures. He would imagine himself in foreign countries becoming a man of great importance and recognition.

"For a number of years he has felt that he has not been getting the recognition that he was entitled to, and on this account, he tried to promote himself and do things, and tell very well systematized fairy tales in order to convince his associates that he was their equal. The most recent one that he circulated among his classmates and neighbors was that his parents were going or had gone to Denver, and that they had presented him with a checking account so that he would have ample money, and also left him the use of their car.

"This story was wholly untrue, but at least some of his associates apparently believed it and made plans to associate with Arnold during the period of time that his parents were away and he had money and a car. This occurred within the last week or ten days prior to the homicide, and was being carried on at the time. Following the homicide, he went to a dance, taking another boy in the community with him in the car, and during the dance took others for a ride before returning home. This was carrying out his fantasy scheme.

Calls Judgment Defective.

"His judgment is highly defective. No better evidence of this is required than his conduct 'after the fact.' If his confession is true, his defense reaction did not occur until after his visit to the dance and riding around town in the car. Had he been sane and normal, he immediately would have attempted to either destroy evidences of his crime, create an alibi, gone to the police station or a neighbor and reported that his grandmother had been killed. Instead of this, he states that he returned to the house, secured a rope and with it dragged the body of his victim through the house, out through the yard and threw it into the cister.

"It is, so far as I know, an undisputed fact that he and his step-grand mother had a real affection for each other. He relates that she gave him birthday presents and Christmas presents and very often helped him with his school work, and that he really loved her. This is corroborated by other members of the family who observed the two.

Abnormal Mental Status.

"From the symptoms found in the examinations, taken in connection with this boy's history from early childhood, it is obvious that his mental status is abnormal—suffering from hebephrenic psychosis [adolescent insanity].

"As a result of this mental condition, it is my opinion that at the time of the homicide under consideration he did not know the difference between right and wrong; neither did he have the power to choose. The homicide and the conduct 'after the fact' sustain my conclusion. In other words, this case comes very well under the doctrine of 'res ipsa loquitor' [the act proves his insanity]."

DECODE PAINTINGS IN MEXICAN TOMB AS HIEROGLYPHIC DATES

OAXACA, Mexico, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The brilliant paintings discovered recently in a tomb on Monte Alban have been deciphered as hieroglyphic dates, Dr. Alfonso Caso, government archaeologist, announced today.

The paintings, evidence that the ancient Zapotec tribe was expert in a highly civilized art, indicate the numerals 12, 7, and 5, investigators have determined. They are convinced these numerals represent dates, the significance of which has not been established.

The tomb, one of the many rich archaeological discoveries in the state of Oaxaca, is lined with even stones and is two feet high, two feet wide and seven feet long. A headless skeleton at the entrance apparently indicates, the investigators said, that a slave was killed to assist the important personage buried in the tomb into the next world.

Three Window Smashing Burglar Suspects Seized

Three men, suspected by police of being window smashing burglars, were arrested early yesterday as they sat in an automobile in front of 1221 Belmont avenue. The prisoners identified themselves as John Fontana, 29 years old, 902 North Western avenue; Jacob Paveglio, 32 years old, 823 North Keeler avenue, and Peter Laverdo, 21 years old, 11544 Prairie avenue. They told police that they had stopped to fix a tire on their automobile. A revolver and several bricks were found on the floor of the car.

IGGY VARECHA'S LAWYER TO CALL MAYOR AT TRIAL

Wants Cermak to Testify on Boy's Reactions.

Attorney Joseph Nosek announced yesterday that he expects to call Mayor Cermak as a witness in the trial of James [Iggy] Varecha, 17 year old killer, who is now under observation to determine his mental condition in the behavior clinic of the county jail. The mayor's testimony, the attorney said, will be used to show that the youthful killer did not react as a normal boy would when he confessed his crimes at the detective bureau.

Mayor Cermak appeared at the detective bureau last week when Varecha confessed to the murder of Frank Jordan, the kidnaping and rape of Miss Lillian Henry, and several other robberies. The mayor talked at some length with Iggy.

Will Try to See Mayor.

Attorney Nosek said he would attempt to see the mayor this afternoon and question him on what happened at the detective bureau after his arrival.

"I do not want to embarass the mayor, but I intend to do everything humanly possible to save the life of my client," said Nosek. "I expect to be able to show by means of the mayor's testimony that Iggy showed no signs of remorse, regret, sorrow or emotion when the mayor talked to him, that he had no normal reactions."

The attorney indicated that he will argue that Varecha is not legally sane as reported by Dr. H. Douglas Singer, and Francis Gerty, state alienists. Nosek said he expects to employ Dr Orlando Scott and Dr. Harold S. Hulbert for the defense.

In Behavior Clinic.

Meanwhile Varecha is undergoing examination in the behavior clinic conducted by Dr. Harry Hoffman under the control and supervision of the criminal courts. Dr. Hoffman said it wil take about two weeks to complete his tests of Varecha. This is the usual time required in all cases, he said.

Attorney Nosek hopes to show by means of Juvenile court records that Varecha was an incorrigible youth, who the authorities knew had a mania for shooting people. These records will indicate, he says, that the authorities knew the youth to be a mental defective rather than a delinquent, and that despite this condition Varecha was allowed to be at liberty.

Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler said that he would stand by the report of his alienists that the boy is sane. He will insist that Varecha be sent to the electric chair.

THANKSGIVING'S FUN IS BRIEF FOR DOUGHERTY

Frank Dougherty, 38 years old, was ejected two weeks ago from the home of his brother-in-law, Albert Grauer, 39 years old, 4706 North Artesian avenue, for drinking too much. He returned yesterday and shot Grauer in both legs as the latter lay in bed.

Dougherty fled after the shooting, but a few minutes later telephoned his wife, Marie, sister of Grauer.

"I hope you choke on a turkey bone," he told her. As he waited for her reply Mrs. Dougherty traced the telephone call and found that it was made from a restaurant at 2709 North Clark street. North Damen avenue police went there and arrested Dougherty as he chuckled over his Thanksgiving jest. Grauer was taken to the Ravenswood hospital, where physicians said his wounds were not serious.

Chicken on Thanksgiving Day Menu of Two Boy Slayers

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

If Bertrand Arnold, 16 year old hammer killer of Riverside, and James [Iggy] Varecha, 17 year old killer and rapist, were thankful yesterday for such benefits as inferiority complexes and alienists, they did not tell their guards in the county jail about it.

Through the bars of the door leading to cell block G-1, which contains 27 youths under 19 years old who are first offenders, Bert could be seen in the morning, for a time dancing with other youths, then playing cards.

At noon, when the generous dinners of chicken and holiday accompaniments came up on trays from the kitchen, Bert ate his drumstick and other pieces with apparent gusto, meanwhile chatting and smiling with his companions. He is not the smallest in his cell block. One red haired lad weighs only 85 pounds, but is more than a year older.

Flag for Good Behavior.

Bert is in the cell block which has the weekly flag awarded for good behavior. He has been a model prisoner so far, according to Guard Charlie Kreiling. The latter was asked if Bert exhibited any desire to impress other prisoners or any "inferiority complex."

"I don't exactly know what an inferiority complex is, but I would say he's been just ordinary," replied the guard.

Alienists have declared that the Arnold boy has an inferiority complex which indirectly led him to kill Mrs. Ellen Saxe, his grandmother, when she refused to permit him to drive to a dance in her auto.

On another floor, under observation in the cell block reserved for the Criminal court behavior clinic, was Varecha. Before dinner, church workers played a small organ, led hymns, and preached to the men and boys in the cell block, but Varecha, his bullet shaped head lowered, his hands in his pockets, walked back and forth without taking part in the singing. Varecha is no stranger to the Cook county jail and he was not among the jail residents allowed to attend church services held in the schoolroom.

Bert to Go to School.

Varecha and Arnold will no longer attend classes together. Arnold will continue to go to school four hours a day while he is in the jail, but the other youth will remain under observation, as ordered by Chief Justice John Prystalski Wednesday.

Warden David Moneypenny, who never misses a holiday at the jail, said he had much to be hankful for.

"This is the first Thanksgiving for three years that I have not been busy making preparations for a midnight execution," he said. "Last year Frank Bell obtained a stay at the last minute. The year before we executed a Negro bank bandit and killer of a policeman. This year we have not one person under the death penalty."

Assistant Superintendent John Dohmann pointed to the pans full of browned tender chickens in the kitchen, and said:

"Lots of our inmates are glad to be in instead of out this year. They might not be getting such a good dinner out. As for the alimony prisoners, they hate to go out."

Dinner Menu in Jail.

The full menu was as follows: relish, celery, mixed pickles, potato salad, meat, roast chicken with dressing, cranberry sauce, green peas, raisin bread, coffee, milk, and sweet potato pie.

Dohmann and Chief Clerk H. C. Pfeuffer, both of whom spent many Thanksgiving days in the old jail, recalled those days, when prisoners had no light, airy cells, no radios, and no library containing modern and classic literature, including detective stories.

Of all the 1,200 prisoners in the jail the 45 women in two cell blocks appeared the most festive. Stamped and colored paper tablecloths and napkins orange caps, paper flowers on the table and even nut cups of orange paper and placecards decked their tables.

Negro Youths Give Thanks.

It remained for a group of Negro youths, however, to give the only demonstration of thankfulness heard among the prisoners themselves. Their plates were slow in arriving, but each boy kept his hands at his sides until all were served. Then some one suggested that they ought to have a prayer.

One of the boys volunteered, and in the most natural manner, said a short prayer, ending, "Thank yuh, Lord."

2 DIVORCE SUITS BRING $62,500 IN BRITISH COURT

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Values in married women are reaching peak quotations in the London courts. Damages in two divorce actions today amounted to $62,500.

John Palethorpe, 50, British sausage king, who eloped with Mrs. Herbert Guest, 23, was ordered to pay $37,500 within fourteen days. Mr. Guest, who is a building contractor, was given a decree nisi.

The same court also granted costs and damages of $25,000 against Alexander George McCorquodale, who was divorced yesterday by his novelist wife, in a suit brought by Maj. Philip Curtis. Mrs. Curtis and McCorquodale admitted misconduct.

COUNTY'S G. O. P. LAWMAKERS MAY PUSH REMAPPING

Urgency of Revenue Relief Is Obstacle in Fight.

Although they represent approximately only one-sixth of the total membership, Cook county Republicans in the new general assembly which convenes on Jan. 5 may revive the battle for legislative reapportionment as required by the state constitution.

Judge Henry Horner, governor elect, and the Democratic party as a whole, including its followers in the two parties, are committed to attempt a solution of the old deadlock between Chicago and downstate by a compromise which would be made effective through a constitutional amendment limiting the representation of Cook county in one house.

Limited to One Amendment.

But what desire the Democrats have in this direction is crippled so far as immediate action is concerned by a general concession that the first amendment to be submitted should be a rewriting of the revenue article. And submission of amendments to more than one article by one assembly is prohibited by the constitution itself.

Despite this situation, there was lobby discussion at Springfield last week indicating that the demand for immediate reapportionment through the creation of 51 districts approximately equal in population has not been shelved. Among its advocates were said to be a few Democrats, but the real pressure appeared to be developing among Chicago Republicans.

Cite Constitutional Requirement.

The nub of the argument in answer to the position of the incoming administration, which is assured of party control by substantial margins in both houses, recognized the point that the revenue amendment should come first of all.

"That being true," ran the talk among the proponents of equal representation for all, "there can be no reapportionment amendment submitted for two years. What is proposed in the meantime? Is it now urged that the assembly completely disregard the constitutional requirement that the state be redistricted every ten years on the basis of population?

"The state Supreme court has held that this duty is mandatory and that if it is not performed within the time prescribed, it is a duty that rests upon each successive general assembly.

"Therefore, this assembly, as much as any of its predecessors, must proceed with redistricting or it will flout the constitution as other assemblies have done in the past. There is no evasion of that fact."

What Constitution Says.

The language of the constitution on this subject is as follows:

"The general assembly shall apportion the state every ten years, beginning with the year 1871, by dividing the population of the state, as ascertained by the federal census, by the number of 51 and the quotient shall be the ratio of representation in the senate. . . . The house shall consist of three times the number of members of the senate, etc."

Throughout his campaign Judge Horner advocated a revision of these provisions as the only means of terminating the refusal of the downstate majorities of the two houses to redistrict following the federal censuses of 1910, 1920 and 1930, the only way to eliminate the tremendous inequalities among districts and eliminating many rotten boroughs.

Horner for Curb on Cook County.

His proposal was that an agreement be reached whereby there would be no chance that Cook county would control both houses, a possibility that downstate pointed to as a disaster to its own welfare. He did not commit himself specifically as to the detailed method by which this would be accomplished, but went so far as to accede to the demands of downstate that there be a fixed limitation placed on Cook county's membership in one of the houses.

This proposal, with the federal congress used as an example, always has been for limitation in the senate with representation in the house determined by population or by voting population. Judge Horner did not specify whether he would favor representation on the basis of the number of residents or the number of voters, but as there are no fixed figures on the latter, most of the proponents of compromise have urged the basis of population as the fairer one.

Cook has 19 of 53.

Cook county now has 19 of the 53 senatorial districts into which the state was divided in 1901. On the basis of population it is entitled to slightly more than half, which would give it control of both houses.

Demands for a compromise on equality of representation have started with a proposal that Cook county's membership in the senate be limited to the number of seats it now holds—two more than one-third—and that it be given the number of seats in the house of representatives to which its share of the population of the state would entitle it. Some of the border line opponents have insisted that Cook county should have as many as 23 or 25 senate seats.

Two Kinds of Districts.

This plan, it is agreed, probably would require the creation of two kinds of legislative districts, usually referred to as senatorial and representative districts. Judge Horner has not expressed himself on this phase of the problem.

The lobby discussions at Springfield in which Democrats participated brought from them the charge that the Republican minority was trying to find a way to embarrass the Horner administration as a matter of party tactics. They ridiculed the chances of Cook county Republicans—who will have only six seats in the senate and 25 in the house—making any substantial progress with such a plan.

YOUTH BLINDED BY BOMB JOINS IN HOLIDAY GAYETY

Wilbur Lee Koeppen, 17 years old, yesterday spent one of the happiest days he has known since he was the victim last September of a bomb explosion in front of the home of Judge John P. McGoorty. For the first time since his return from the hospital the boy was wheeled into the dining room of his home at 4305 Oakenwald avenue and ate his Thanksgiving dinner with his family, listening to the familiar chatter of his parents and brothers.

Although he cannot see and does not know he is blinded for life, and he cannot walk, because his left foot is mangled, Wilbur joined in the gayety of the holiday. He also took his first trip outside the house in his new wheel chair.

Injuries Fatal to Woman Who Leaped Before Engine

Mrs. Julia Ratella, 52 years old, 1100 Thomas street, died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries suffered Tuesday when she threw herself in front of a Chicago and North Western switch engine at Blanche street near Elston avenue. Her husband, Peter, told police that Mrs. Ratella had been ill.

SANTA FE MASS RECALLS SEARCH FOR TREASURE

'Seven Cities of Cibola' Drew Spaniards.

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 24.—(AP)—About the time when the Pilgrim Fathers knelt on the shores of what's now Massachusetts and offered thanks for a safe voyage, a hardy band of Spanish colonists and soldiers heard early mass in the old San Miguel mission church on Nov. 24, 1620.

Totally unaware of what was occurring thousands of miles to the east of them, the Spaniards who had taken New Mexico in the name of Philip II. arose before sunrise and went to the mission—which was completed before 1607, the year Capt. John Smith settled at Jamestown, Va.

Seeking for Treasure.

Since 1529 the Spanish had been coming up from Mexico to explore this new land, encouraged by the reports given by one Fray Marcos de Niza, who told of the "Seven Cities of Cibola," where wealth was said to have occurred in great abundance. In August, 1540, Francisco Vasquez Coronado, explorer and soldier, reached what is now believed to be the Zuni Indian pueblo in western New Mexico. Inscriptions made on rocks by his soldiers may be seen to this day at El Moro national monument in the western part of the state.

By 1580 the Spaniards had found mines which produced gold, but they never found the fabulous cities of Cibola, although Coronado wandered nearly to what is now Dodge City, Kas., before he gave up his search.

Founds Santa Fé Colony.

In 1595 Don Juan d'Onate, descendant of the Spanish explorer, Hernando Cortez, obtained permission from the king of Spain and left Mexico City with 400 people of whom 130 were colonists. By 1599 his little band had reached what is now Taos, N. M., and in 1605 he settled at Santa Fé and built the mission church.

Early mass still is heard on Thanksgiving morning and the old mission still stands.

Slayer Finally Subdued by 3 Policemen.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Maddened and lusting for blood, a Filipino armed with knives ran amok in the streets here today, killing six persons and wounding fifteen more before police answering riot calls ran down and captured him.

Overtaken just as he stabbed a Japanese, three patrolmen ended the slasher's trail of slaughter after a hand to hand battle.

The Filipino was beaten down and two knives—which appeared to have been fashioned from a bolo, a native knife—were taken from him.

Heavily mancled, the Filipino was taken to jail, where he gave the name of Julian Marcelino, 30, and said he was a laborer.

Four fellow Filipinos and two white men fell fatally wounded under his murderous onslaught.

Ambulances Rushed to Scene.

Ambulances were rushed to the district from every hospital in the city. Police, citizens, and hospital aids searched out the dead and injured—picking them up from the street and from doorways where they had been attacked.

Fifteen were found and rushed away for treatment.

At the city hospital, where twelve were taken, physicians said that Antone Schuler, 73, who was stabbed in the chest, could not live. Six others were given emergency hospital treatment for serious wounds.

Police were set on the trail of the Filipino slasher when a voice shrieked over the telephone that a terrible fight was going on in the district. That call was followed immediately by more than a dozen more.

Every available patrolman was ordered to the scene, but it was Patrolman Gordon Jensen, who was off duty, who first checked the knife wielder.

Officer Jensen was driving home from a football game when he saw the maddened Filipino lunging and slashing at I. Kitamura, 35.

Policeman Tackles Him.

As Kitamura fell wounded Jensen leaped from his car, tackled the Filipino and attempted to halt his death march. The Filipino's dripping blade slashed out at the officer, the latter dodged and the knife ripped through his coat sleeve without touching the flesh.

Officer Jensen closed in again, gripping the knife arm of the killer, attempting to wrest the blade away as they lunged and struggled across the sidewalk and into the street.

A police car dashed up, and Patrolmen William Reynolds and Charles Seavers jumped out. Not daring to shoot because their fellow patrolman was fighting with the killer, they assisted in overpowering the Filipino and bound and manacled him.

"He had more than human strength," Jensen said later, when their captive was safely in a police cell. The blades of the knives taken from him were seven inches in length and razor sharp, police said.

IVAN R. GATES, CIRCUS AIRMAN, LEAPS TO DEATH

Ends Life by Plunging from Apartment.

New York, Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Ivan R. Gates, founder of the Gates Flying Circus and perhaps the most famous barnstorming aviator in the country, jumped this morning from his sixth floor apartment here and was killed. Mrs. Gates was in the room and tried to keep him from jumping.

The veteran airman, who learned to fly in 1909 and started touring the country in his own pusher biplane two years later, had been ill for more than a year.

Recently he had been operating a museum, first on Broadway and later at Coney Island. He returned to his apartment, Mrs. Gates said, tonight, about 2 o'clock this morning, complained of feeling ill, and sat down on the edge of his bed. He seemed melancholy, Mrs. Gates said, and finally told her, "I think I'll jump out the window."

Wife Tries to Cheer Him.

His wife tried to cheer him up and suggested that he drink a glass of milk and try to eat something, and he agreed.

After drinking the milk he threw the glass on the floor, leaped to the window, slammed it open, and jumped out before his wife could reach him.

Mrs. Gates called friends, among them E. H. Holmes, whose airport in Queens was the last station of Gates' flying circus, and Clyde Pangborn, round the world flyer.

While on crutches in 1909 as the result of an automobile accident Gates built his first airplane, one of the conventional pushers of the day in which a crash was generally fatal.

Gates prospered as did most flyers who did not get killed or crippled, and as he prospered his single act grew into a circus with several planes.

Builds Airplanes.

With the impetus to commercial flying in 1927 and 1928 imparted by the transoceanic flights and the success of the air mail, Gates felt that the circus days were past. With Charles Day, designer and pilot, he organized an aircraft company and built the Gates-Day standard training biplane.

Gates sold his interests in the New Standard company and organized the Gates Aircraft corporation and the Gates Flying service. Business reverses overtook both companies.

Funeral services will be Saturday afternoon. Arrangements are being made to fly Gates' body to California for burial.

CHICAGO SHOWS ITS GRATITUDE ON THANKSGIVING

Shares Feasts with the Sick and the Needy.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Chicago was thankful yesterday and showed it in innumerable ways. This city of more than three million souls was thankful for shelter, so the people gathered in their own homes or those of relatives and friends. They were thankful for food, so they sat down to what the larder offered, whether turkey or stew. They were thankful for good will and all other good things, so they made merry all day long in a thankful sort of way.

Even the weather contrived to make the day one of the most pleasant Thanksgivings in several years.

Recall Pilgrims' Harvest.

The day began for many with attendance at church services, where thanks were offered as they have been since the Plymouth Pilgrims offered their gratitude for the first harvest 311 years ago. Union services brought worshippers of many Protestant faiths together in every district of the city and suburbs. In the University of Chicago district students and families in their homes paused to listen to the Laura Spelman Rockefeller carillon in the tower of the University of Chicago chapel, played for the first time by Kamiel Lefevere, carilloneur of the Riverside church, New York. Many Episcopal churches had early services.

At 8 a. m. Methodists of the Chicago area united in a service in the Chicago temple at Clark and Washington streets, to hear Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, head of the Chicago area of the church, speak on "I am Richer." Methodist groups offered their reasons why they were thankful this year in short statements which were read from the platform.

Real Riches Endure.

"Very few people have as much money as they had a year go," Bishop Waldorf said, "but most people have as many real riches as they had a years ago, and probably even more so. Among the permanent satisfactions of life are friends, who are a completion of one's self; good health which enables one to live with a relish; others' achievements, such as the books they have written and the inventions they have placed at our disposal, and character, which is the one thing that counts.

"Prosperity may be just around the corner but our future is secure. Nobody comes to study our broken down columns and to talk of our glorious past. We are a young nation. We are rich as Christians."

Over at St. Vincent's orphanage, being an orphan for once meant something especially nice. For instance, besides an enormous turkey dinner there was entertainment and Miss Alice Joy of the radio sang for them. Miss Joy, who formerly was Miss Frances Holcomb of Streator, is married and lives in New York, where she has two small children of her own.

Share Food With Needy.

Church and benevolent groups served turkey, goose or chicken dinners throughout the city to thousands of the needy. Restaurant men gave away dinners with all the usual Thanksgiving trimmings. Boy Scouts loaded with baskets visited the unfortunate. And in the county penal institutions, hospitals and homes, inmates also feasted.

Five hundred needy families were fed by Harry Block at his restaurant at 120 East 22d street. The families were recommended by the clergy of different faiths, and regular patrons were allowed to bring from one to a dozen needy families. The North Shore church, Sheridan road and Wilson avenue, fed 450 children, and Boy Scout troop No. 898 and Cub Pack 2898 sponsored by Temple Beth Israel, Bernard and Ainslie avenues, distributed 100 baskets in the Albany Park district.

New Record at Hospital.

At the County hospital the biggest Thanksgiving dinner in its history was served to 2,900 patients, according to Warden Michael Zimmer.

"I've been here nine weeks and I'm thankful I'm going home soon," said Jack Feeney, 31 years old, 5251 Gladys avenue, whose arm is broken.

At the new La Rabida sanitarium in Jackson park, 30 children suffering from heart disease had a big turkey dinner. Their rooms were decorated with paper turkeys and "pilgrims" made by themselves.

As Mrs. Susan Alloway, 72 years old, sat with others at a goose dinner in the Oak Forest infirmary, she entertained them with stories of how she spent Thanksgiving when she was a girl, 57 years ago, on a farm near Scottville, Mich.

"I'll never forget Thanksgiving day when I was 15 years old, because my brother and I caught a fawn," she said. "He and I went out for a walk in the woods before dinner. Approaching a grove we saw a doe and behind it a fawn. We just walked up and took it. Later I sold it for $50 and started a bank account. We had goose just like we're having today for Thanksgiving dinner, and wild pigeon pie. There were lots of guests and father played the violin and someone played the melodeon and we sang and danced Irish songs and jigs."

Woman Cashier at "L" Station Robbed by Negro

Angered because she was slow in handing over the money in the cash drawer, an armed Negro robber struck Miss Ann Flannegan, 40 years old, 6546 Woodlawn avenue, a ticket agent for the Chicago Rapid Transit company, on the head yesterday afternoon in the L station at East 41st street and Lake Park avenue. The robber fled with $10. The woman was taken to the Woodlawn hospital for first aid by Hyde Park police.

PRESIDENT AND WIFE ATTEND CHURCH; HAVE QUIET THANKSGIVING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Undisturbed by any attempted demonstration outside the White House, President and Mrs. Hoover spent a quiet Thanksgiving today, observing the holiday, like millions of other Americans, with church and a turkey dinner.

Mr. Hoover arose at his usual early hour, for a round of medicine ball, and after breakfast went into the Lincoln study for a little work.

After the service Mr. Hoover went back to his study for a little recreational reading before a light lunch. During the afternoon he took a nap, oblivious to the crowds outside watching for the advertised "hunger march."

A few close friends from official life were invited to the White House for the Thanksgiving day dinner in the evening, which was featured by two big turkeys.

France Invited by Russia to Sign Commercial Pact

GROUP OF HUNGER MARCHERS COME HERE IN TRUCKS

A contingent of 100 hunger marchers reached Chicago yesterday in two trucks and a caravan of automobiles. The contingent represented a few marchers who set out from Seattle, Wash., Nov. 14 and recruits who joined along the line of march. Similar contingents are gathering in various sections of the country to march into Washington on Dec. 4.

The Seattle contingent went to Peoples' auditorium, 2457 West Chicago avenue, where they were fed by the Workers' International relief. The marchers were housed in the auditorium for the night and are to proceed on their journey today. A Chicago contingent will join them.

Herbert Benjamin, national secretary of the National Unemployed councils, addressed the meeting in the auditorium. Delegates told their experiences on the line of march. In Washington the marchers are to demand unemployment insurance and $50 as immediate relief for families and $10 additional for each dependent.

POLICE PROTECT PRESIDENT FROM 'HUNGER' PARADE

Seize 3 Communists and 6 Children.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Washington police seized three communist agitators and six children today in protecting the serenity of the President as he ate his Thanksgiving dinner in the White House.

The communists, one man and two women, were arrested and booked on charges of disorderly conduct. The six children, including an Indian girl and a Negro boy, were taken to the children's receiving home in custody of women's bureau officials.

They were arrested following a brisk skirmish in front of the White House, which had been surrounded throughout the day by uniformed officers stationed there to prevent the scheduled "children's hunger march" from taking place. During the afternoon pedestrians were not permitted to pass within three blocks of the White House.

Arrive in Taxicabs.

Vehicular traffic, however, was permitted on Pennsylvania avenue, in front of the White House grounds, as usual, and it was by this manner that the delegation of "children hunger marchers" arrived. Shortly before 4 o'clock two taxicabs swerved from the line of traffic and sought to enter the presidential driveway. Promptly stopped by the police, the occupants of the cabs emerged—six children and a woman from one car, and a man and a woman from the other.

The man, who gave his name as Emil Connason of New York, sought to enter the grounds to present, he said, a "petition for children's relief" to the President.

His request was promptly denied, whereupon he vehemently demanded his "constitutional right of petition." He was told the President was not available to visitors for the day and told to move on. When he declined, two officers seized him, and marched him, resisting, to the nearest patrol wagon.

Meanwhile, the six children, ranging in age from ten to sixteen, were escorted away from the White House grounds by policemen. The Indian girl was in tears. The others appeared bewildered. The woman who had arrived with them in the taxicab forced police to carry her, struggling and protesting, to the patrol wagon.

Children Guided by Elders.

Connason, asserting that he was no communist, but merely a physician interested in the "welfare of New Yo starving children," kept warning police not to "harm those kids." Connason and the woman, who gave her name as Gertrude Hessler of New York, resisted attempts to remove the children from the van, declaring that they in person "were responsible for the kids." Police finally placed the six youngsters, nearly all in tears, into a large closed car and hurried them off to the receiving home.

Connason told police he and the two women were "members of the National Committee of the Unemployed Council," an avowed communistic organization. The six children, he said, represented the "young pioneers of America," and several hundred other "child hunger marchers" assembled elsewhere in the city.

WIFE TRIES TO KILL SELF.

Mrs. Anna Melzer, 26 years old, 3300 Warren boulevard, tried to end her life with gas early yesterday. An inhalator squad summoned by neighbors who smelled the gas, revived her. She told police she had quarreled with her husband.

CLEMENCEAU FAMILY SHUNS UNVEILING OF PREMIER'S STATUE

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Members of the family of Georges Clemenceau, including his son and two daughters, steadfastly remained aloof today from the formal unveiling of his statue in the Champs Elysées.

The statue shows the French wartime premier just as he looked on visits to the trenches in 1918—his "tin hat" cocked one side, his small and sturdy frame swathed in a thick coat, and his heavy cane in hand. Members of the family considered the work inferior to a statute by another sculptor.

There was an abbreviated ceremony of unveiling last spring, when France was in national mourning because of the assassination of President Doumer. Among those who participated today were President Lebrun and Gen. Maxime Weygand, Foch's right hand man.

SURVEY SHOWS GANGS AT WORK STRIPPING AUTOS

30,435 Cars Stolen in Ten Months.

The experience of one motorist whose stolen car was recovered for him three days after the theft, stripped of all removable accessories, plus growing reports of such systematic thievery, led yesterday to a survey of the records at the stolen automobile detail in the detective bureau, which works for the recovery of all stolen cars.

These records show that during the first ten months of the current year, 30,435 automobiles—an average of about 100 a day—were stolen in Chicago and 26,810 were recovered.

They likewise revealed that 30 to 35 per cent of the recovered machines had been stripped and were minus tires, battery, tools, headlights of, in many cases, everything which could be removed. It is the police experience that most of the complete "strips" are apparently performed by an organized gang which does its work competently and with no vandalism; that is, the removable parts are taken but the remainder of the machine is not damaged.

Daily Thefts and Recoveries.

Theft reports are not compiled until after midnight each night. Thus, it was impossible last night to obtain the figures for yesterday. On Wednesday, however, 80 cars were stolen and 94 were recovered—an unusual day. Nineteen of the recovered cars had been stripped. In the courts, Wednesday, one auto thief was sentenced to the House of Correction, 18 were held to the county grand jury, the cases against 11 were continued and 4 were bound over to the Federal grand jury for violation of the Dyer act against interstate transportation of stolen cars.

From Nov. 1 to 15, 1,502 cars were stolen and 1,290 were recovered. Of these, 462, or 36 per cent, had been stripped. The same period in October showed that 1,462 were stolen and 1,232 recovered, and that 408, or 33 per cent, had been stripped. In 1931, 35,145 were stolen and 28,023 recovered.

One of the motorists who experienced a complete "strip" was Charles L. Swing, 537 East 112th street, a foreman-painter at the Pullman shops. His machine, a sedan, was stolen in Washington Park, on Nov. 16, while he was attending a football game. Three days later, the stolen auto detail telephoned him that it had been recovered. He went to the Stadium garage on 11th street where the car had been taken, and found that the five wheels and tires, the headlights, the seats and the heater had been taken. Otherwise, the machine was not damaged. The frame did not show signs of having been dragged along a street after the wheels were removed.

The speedometer revealed that the car had been driven ten miles after it was taken.

Spotlights a Favorite.

Lieut. Wall has observed that the time elapsing between the theft of a machine and its recovery is generally only a matter of a few days—one, two, or three—but it sometimes extends into weeks or months. Often, in complete "strips," the battery and tools are taken as well as the tires, light, and seats. Radiator emblems and spotlights are almost certain to be removed.

Three large maps hang upon the wall of the stolen automobile detail headquarters, in the detective bureau. On one, colored pins show the location of each theft; another displays the point of recovery and the third shows the number and locations of cars found stripped.

The police districts encompassing the length of West Madison street report most of the car thefts—the First district, Desplaines street, Warren avenue, and Fillmore street stations receiving the bulk of complaints. On the south side, Woodlawn, Hyde Park, and Englewood report many thefts. The East Chicago avenue district on the near north side also reports heavy losses.

"Forty-two" Gang Active.

The next map, showing the recoveries, is heavily studded with pins stuck in the Maxwell and Marquette districts—those in which the notorious "42" gang of young hoodlums has its haunts. The West Chicago avenue and West North avenue districts, the rendezvous of another portion of the same gang, also are represented by scores of "recovery" pins.

The conclusion the police draw is that the "42" thieves steal little in their own districts but place the stripped cars there when they have completed their robberies. This theory gathers weight when it is shown on the third map that almost half of the recoveries made in the Maxwell, Marquette, West Chicago avenue and West North avenue districts are of machines which have been stripped.

LAY TRAP FOR DESPERADO AT SLAIN PAL'S BIER

'Pretty Boy' Floyd May Try to View Body.

Earlsboro, Okla., Nov. 24.—(AP)—State operatives spread a trap here today for Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, elusive Oklahoma desperado, after receiving information he had visited the home of his slain lieutenant, George Birdwell.

Recalling that Birdwell defied the law two years ago to pay his last respects at the bier of his dead father, officers looked to sentiment to bait their trap as reports came that Floyd intended to view the body of Birdwell at a funeral home here today.

Birdwell, described by officers as more dangerous than Floyd, was slain yesterday as he robbed the bank of the tiny Negro village of Boley. A Negro companion, Charles Glass of Earlsboro, was slain, and his white aid, C. C. Patterson of Kiowa, wanted in several counties, was gravely wounded.

D. J. Turner, white-haired Negro president of the bank, was shot and killed by Birdwell after sounding an alarm. Birdwell in turn was shot down by H. C. McCormick, assistant cashier, and Negro vigilantes did the rest.

Gov. Murray today conveyed his congratulations to McCormick "for keeping your head in the face of danger," and his condolences to the family of Turner.

Barred by Theater.

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, much sought bandit leader of the southwest, has been turned away from a motion picture theater here. He went with his wife and small son. The ticket taker said the lurid mystery film being shown was unsuitable for a small boy. Police seeking the desperado whose lieutenant, George Birdwell, was killed in a bank raid at Boley yesterday, disclosed the incident today. They said it happened "recently."

Ireland Decrees 300% Duty on British Potatoes

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The government today announced duties, effective tonight, of about 300 per cent on potatoes from Britain and Northern Ireland. This is the latest development on the tariff war between Britain and the Free State. New tariffs also were laid on cut flowers.

GARNER WILL BREAK SOCIAL PRECEDENTS DURING TERM, HE SAYS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Vice President elect—Speaker John N. Garner—says he is going to break social precedents right and left in the capital during the next four years.

The speaker and Mrs. Garner have agreed to decline all social invitations except the official events at the White House, where, as Vice President, his presence is required.

They started putting their agreement into effect today. They declined more than a score of invitations of friends to eat Thanksgiving turkey and instead had a quiet dinner at their hotel.

During the last session of congress, Mr. and Mrs. Garner attended but one formal affair and that was the annual dinner given for the speaker by the President at the White House. They went to two informal affairs, both at the homes of lifelong friends, and attended a meeting of the Texas society.

In declining the invitations, Speaker Garner told his friends:

"If I should go to one, I would have to go to all. Mrs. Garner and I have made it a fast rule not to accept any social invitations. We prefer carrying on the practice of 'early to bed and early to rise' we began years ago."

RUSSIA TO HOLD MASS TRIAL OF YOUNG LYNCHERS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 24.—A mass trial will be held tomorrow in Sverdlovsk province, in the Ural region, where a gang of peasant boys recently lynched two youths who had denounced their father for associating with kulaks [peasants with a small property].

Sometimes one small poignant story throws more light on the national situation than a thousand speeches or newspaper articles. This case involves Pavel, aged 13, and Fedor, 9, the sons of Trophim Morosoff, president of the village soviet.

He "compromised" with the kulaks, and when authorities arrested Morosoff, Pavel testified that his father met the kulaks secretly and corresponded with kulak exiles. He demanded a sever penalty for his parent, who was exiled. A gang of kulak boys, including Pavel's cousin, caught him and Fedor in the forest and cut them to pieces.

GOV. ROOSEVELT BACK IN GEORGIA TO ENJOY REST

Fiddlers Plan to Attend His Inauguration.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—"Well, Henry," said Franklin Roosevelt as he got off the train this morning and was warmly greeted by County Judge Henry Revill, "you Georgia folks have been talking about the little White House down here, and now here we are, eh?"

The old judge, who formed the nation's first "Roosevelt for President" club down here two years ago, replied he reckoned everything was just all right, and he started right off to tell his friend, Frank Roosevelt, just how the Meriwether county folks were going to help the stuffy people at Washington liven up the inaugural ceremonies on March 4.

"We're going to take a special trainload of your Georgia neighbors right up there to Washington," said the judge. "And we're going to have some of the fiddlers from the Cove come along to play at your reception in the White House."

Plan to Play His Favorite.

The fiddlers from the Cove, which is a typically rural settlement near by, are expected to put on a special number, when they play in the east room at the White House at the inaugural reception, a number admired by the President elect, and played often for him.

It is entitled "Sweet Kisses in the Piney Woods," and because it is a quite ancient and frankly worded folk song, the melody will be played, says Judge Revill, but the words will not be sung.

Just about the time the judge got through telling his plans, Mr. Roosevelt's eyes roved around and lit on Sheriff Jake Jarrell.

"Hi, Jake," he called out. "Keeping the county pretty straight?"

Calls Out Greetings.

Jake allowed that he was, and then the President elect spied another and another familiar face and kept calling his greetings even as he climbed into his car and was driven off to his cottage retreat on the rim of Pine mountain. He arrived in a drizzly rain which at times was a downpour, and this quenched a bit of the ardor of the members of the Roosevelt party planning outdoors recreation. A lugubrious native said it sometimes rains for weeks running down here.

But the governor settled himself comfortably in his retreat, nestled among tall, scraggly Georgia pines and commanding a vast view of the dry hollow valley below, and he asked to be relieved during the day from receiving visitors.

But tonight Mr. Roosevelt presided at the annual Thanksgiving dinner of the Georgia Warm Springs foundation, which he created several years ago to provide treatment for crippled victims of infantile paralysis.

Illinois Woman Speaks.

The governor, who himself found great aid in the waters here in the treatment of his own condition, stood before some 75 crippled patients and 200 guests and reviewed the gains accomplished at the foundation in the last year. Afterward Mrs. Lillian Donovan of Harvard, Ill., a patient here affectionately known to all comers as "Donny" and who has interested herself in seeking subscriptions for the foundation, presented to the President elect a sheaf of 107 new memberships in the "Polio Crusaders," an affiliated society, and donations amounting to $670.

"Donny" made a brief speech, in which she jokingly called upon Mr. Roosevelt to summon a special session of congress and volunteered for herself and the other patients to serve in a new sort of "lame duck" session. The patients at Warm Springs are noted for the light hearted manner in which they bear their afflictions, and the frequently with and at each other.

The governor and Mrs. Roosevelt, with their daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, and the governor's personal secretary, Miss Marguerite Lehand, occupied the "little White House."

RUSSIA FACING A HARD WINTER; FOOD DWINDLES

Two-Thirds of People on Short Rations.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 24.—The soviet program of socialization and industrialization, known as the five-year plan, has run against an unexpected obstacle—the great and growing food shortage in town and country alike.

Two-thirds of the soviet population will be lucky if it gets more than bread, potatoes, and cabbage this winter as a regular diet, with fish three times a week, say, and meat perhaps once a week, and that in quantities below the people's wants and probably below their needs.

Live Stock Supply Dwindles.

The national live stock supply is between 40 and 50 per cent of the total of five years ago. Cattle and horses total 60 or 70 per cent of the total of five years ago, with a large proportion herded on state farms or on the larger collectives, where, by a recent admission of the government press, stabling and fodder for the winter are not yet half provided for.

Half of the milk animals on many of these farms have gone dry, by the same admission, and the death rate among them is excessive, especially among the young. It is no exaggeration to say that two-thirds of the draught animals in the soviet union are already undernourished, with a corresponding effect upon agriculture, for which they still supply four-fifths of the traction.

The crops harvested this year will average 20 to 30 per cent below last year in consequence of this and there is corresponding human discouragement and lowered standards.

No Meat for Peasants.

The majority of the peasants no longer get meat, sugar, cheese, butter, milk, eggs, and tea, save at rare intervals and in small quantities. The same applies to the smaller towns, construction camps and similar works, but the large urban and industrial centers are fairly well and cheaply supplied by factory and other communal restaurants, closed distributing stores and coöperatives, although the open shops and markets provide little save small quantities of poor quality meat, vegetables, apples, butter and fish at prices exorbitant in relation to the average wages.

50,000 AT U. OF C. HEAR CARILLON IN FIRST CONCERT

Airs Four Centuries Old Are Brought Back.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Fifty thousand people standing in the sunshine of Thanksgiving day heard the University of Chicago's new carillon sing for the first time beneath American skies. For those listeners all that the poet Longfellow chanted in his "Carillon" came true:

Low and loud and sweetly blended,
Low at times and loud at times,
And changing like a poet's rhymes,
Rang the beautiful wild chimes.

The first American performance on this tremendous instrument, comprising seventy-two bells of a total weight of two hundred and twenty tons, was subtly blended with the university's community Thanksgiving service. The ceremony became both an indoor and an outdoor ritual.

Two Thousand Join in Chant.

"Sing to the Lord with a cheerful voice," chanted two thousand of the university's teachers, students, and neighbors assembled in its majestic Gothic chapel that overlooks the lawns of the Midway.

"Sing to the Lord with a cheerful voice."

The seventy-two bells swaying and vibrating two hundred feet above the heads of the worshipers caught up their prayer and wafted it over the square mile of quadrangles and professorial residences, wafted it to the spires of neighboring churches and theological seminaries, wafted it to the sunlit morning of Thanksgiving day, and sent it echoing along gray vistas of cloisters, the music now of a silvery poignancy, now of the pomp and clangor of bronze, and now of golden mellowness.

The spires spoke back in gentle echoes to the chapel, and the organ within the structure that is adorned with carvings by the men of Oberammergau joined in the far-flung antiphonal.

It was a noble scene set to a majestic accompaniment.

Songs of Old Carillonneurs.

Before and after the university's community service, in which Gentile and Jewish clergy participated, the new bells intoned songs played four centuries ago by carillonneurs who, just as the carillonneuer of yesterday did, struck with clenched fists the keyboards of chimes hung in the church towers of Malines, Louvain, Antwerp, and a score more cities of the plains of the Low Countries. In those days a carillon comprised a few bells. Originally it contained only four. Hence its name, which is a corruption of the Latin "quatuor." In our time it contains as many, apparently, as the donor can afford and the tower safely will hold.

Given by Rockefeller Jr.

In the case of the university's carillon, the donor, John D. Rockefeller Jr., expended more than $200,000 for this memorial to his mother, Laura Spelman Rockefeller.

In loving memory of my mother this carillon is given;" reads the inscription cast on the largest bell—"Great Bourdon"—which weighs seventeen tons and is nearly ten feet in diameter.

"'Great Bourdon,'" said Cyril Johnston, designer and tuner of the Rockefeller memorial, "is the second largest tuned bell, and the second largest carillon bell, in the world. Three furnaces were going on the day it was cast."

Bells Tested Last April.

At the foundry of Gillett & Johnston in Croydon, England, Chicago's new treasures first made music. That was at the test made on April 2 last after two years of work. The ocasion was notable. Present were the bishops of Croydon, Guildford, and Norwich, and twenty-seven hundred church bell ringers from Great Britain and Ireland.

The test was made by carillonneurs from Belgium, the three bishops dispensed blandness and blessings, and the twenty-seven hundred listening bell ringers consumed lakes of tea, without which beverage no English ceremonial is valid.

"I give you my word," said Mr. Johnston, who is of the heavy dragoon type and who made the voyage from England solely for yesterday's dedicatory recital, "the bills for tea that day of the test were something to make even you Americans sit up. But the test was more than satisfactory and that is something to cheer about when you remember that until about thirty years ago the art of tuning a carillon had been lost for two or three centuries.

Pleased with Recital.

"I am delighted with today's effects. The superb spaciousness of the chapel's setting gives the music a chance to carry. Think of it!—they tell me that twenty thousand cars are at this moment parked around the chapel."

Yesterday's carrillonneur was Kamiel Lefevre from the belfry of Riverside church, New York, and in his and Mr. Johnston's honor TEA was served in the vestry of the chapel.

INSULL REMAINS IN CLINIC; MISSES TURKEY DINNER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 24.—A turkey feast was prepared and the guests were assembled, but Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, did not show up for the Thanksgiving dinner which his agents had announced he would attend on a brief release from custody today.

Arthur Douglas Page, Insull's British lawyer, had no explanations to make as to why his client did not leave the Aretaeion clinic. Peter Vanech, Insull's Greco-American interpreter, said the weather was too bad.

From all that could be gathered out of the political haze which is developing around Insull before the formal extradition hearing, an application for the former utilities man to leave the hospital and enjoy his Thanksgiving dinner in the Petit Palais hotel was made to Greek authorities and granted to Vanech. But it appears that Cristos Ladas, Insull's Greek lawyer, and Page later counselled their client not to emerge for fear it would prejudice his case.

COAST GUARD'S NEW CUTTER DUE HERE IN FEW DAYS

The central coast guard station at the mouth of the Chicago river was informed yesterday that the Escanaba, a new coast guard cutter which was launched on Nov. 14, will arrive here in a few days. It will be used to succor vessels in distress on Lake Michigan.

The vessel is 165 feet long, has a beam of 36 feet, and draft of 13 feet. It was built at a cost of $500,000 at Bay City, Mich. It has twin screws and is powered by two 1,500 horsepower Diesel engines. Included in the equipment are four lifeboats and radio receiving and sending plants. It carries a small cannon and has a crew of 54 enlisted men and 6 officers.

Capt. John O. Anderson, in charge of the coast guard here, said that the Escanaba has an ice crusher stem and may be used to open harbors.

ABORTING a Cold

(with lemon juice)

It's just a waste of time taking a cold remedy that can only relieve. To end your cold, abort it. The lemon juice treatment will do it. Squeeze two full-size lemons in a large glass of very hot water and drink without sugar. First, take three tablets of Pape's cold compound an hour apart. This clears the head, dries the nasal passages, reduces any fever. The lemon juice then drives all cold symptoms right out of the system. Bedtime is best. This treatment will abort the worst cold overnight. One cold compound tablet will check a cold at any time, for several hours; then when night comes you can get rid of it by abortion. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound. It's perfectly safe. Try it, and you'll never go back to half-way remedies.

UNLOAD 10,000 HEAD OF CATTLE FOR STOCK SHOW

Confusion in Yards as Animals Arrive.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Thirty-two years' experience in assembling an exhibition as large as the International Live Stock show is all that prevented pandemonium in the network of railroad tracks entering the Chicago stockyards yesterday.

For a time during the day's bustle of unloading more than 10,000 head of expensive farm animals for the show, it looked as if hopeless confusion might develop. Cattle trains from the west and south arrived within a few minutes of trainloads of horses, hogs and sheep from the west, north and east. And only by having an extra crew of men trained to a schedule of unloading were several casualties in blueblood live stock prevented.

Today, according to B. H. Heide, general manager of the show, will see all of the properties intact for the grand opening tomorrow morning. By nightfall a trainload of prize Canadian animals will have arrived from Toronto, the pick of the dominion's Royal Agricultural fair which closed yesterday.

One New Feature.

"I'll warrant there is one feature of the exposition this year that will be strange to hundreds of Chicagoans," declared Heide. "We have secured two expert blacksmiths, who look just like the smithy eulogized by Longfellow in 'Under a Spreading Chestnut Tree.' They are going to demonstrate how to shoe horses, almost a lost art in the city."

Other features are to be added to the main arena events tomorrow evening. The Stockyards post of the American Legion will present the colors. Howard Savage, past national Legion commander; James C. Ringley, commander of the Illinois department, Paul Armstrong, past county commander; and C. Wayland Brooks, judge advocate of the "Forty and Eight" was participate.

The evening's horse events will be limited to Chicago competition. Forty-six local stables are entering, including horses owned by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, Dr. C. H. Bramwell, N. L. Litchfield and others. The Sixth Corps area jumping team will also take part, and a grand parade of hundreds of the choice farm animals will take place in the arena.

Judging Teams to Compete.

Today the noncollegiate judging teams from 16 states will compete in live stock competitions and tomorrow the 4-H club youngsters who have been feeding and grooming their animals will occupy the judging arena. Many of the youngsters are sleeping beside their animals to which they have become greatly attached during the summer and fall.

Meanwhile, in the south wing of the Chicago Coliseum, judges awarded ribbons and prize money to several hundred cages of poultry, rabbits, cavies, and pigeons on display in the poultry show being held there this week.

The champion bantam of the show selected last night is owned by H. D. Schreiter of Darlington, Wis. It is a red modern game cockerel type. Norman T. Maxon of Barrington, Ill., was awarded all first and second ribbons in the rosecomb Rhode Island Red poultry judging. An entry owned by Dr. E. L. Denison of Chicago was judged the champion among large poultry.

The show closes Sunday night.

PICK THREE 4-H GIRLS AS BEST CANNERS OF FOOD AMONG 950,000

Three farm girls whose achievements in canning were pronounced the best among the 950,000 4-H club boys and girls of the nation, yesterday were awarded scholarships by the national committee on boys and girls' club work in Chicago. They will receive the awards next Tuesday when they join 1,200 other farm youths attending the national club congress which is to be held in conjunction with the International Live Stock exposition.

The three girls honored are Keneta Guthrie, 15 years old of Bourbon County, Kas.; Gene Sheppard, 17 years old of Macon county, Alabama; and Elvis M. Dutcher, 15 years old of Kent county, Michigan. Miss Guthrie has canned a total of 3,004 pints of meats, vegetables and fruits in six years of 4-H club work, and the three girls together have canned 7,276 pints of foodstuffs.

In the field of eight regional winners, from which the three girls were selected, a total of 15,718 pints of food were canned which had a value with prizes won on them of $5,722.26. Nearly all of the 550,000 farm girls enrolled in the national 4-H clubs conduct such projects as canning, sewing, poultry raising, etc.

LEGAL WORKING DAY OF 6 HOURS BEFORE A. F. OF L.

Some Want It in Basic U. S. Law.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 24.—(AP)—The traditional conservatism of the American Federation of Labor faced severe attacks today as delegates to the annual convention observed Thanksgiving day.

Of the pending proposals, widest interest is attracted by the plan of the federation's executive council for unemployment insurance, financed only by employers.

Blames Industrial Management.

The council, as recently announced, stated:

"The facts are that the management of industry has not provided work security or created work opportunities for those who are able, willing, and eager to work. Hence, industry must be compelled to do what it has thus far failed to do. Work or relief must be provided."

There is a proposal of a California delegation to amend this country's constitution to make compulsory the six hour day and five day week, which President William Green has backed as an outstanding cure for unemployment.

Some Other Proposals.

Still under committee debate are proposals that the federation indorse nationalization of banks; more rigorous income taxation; federal licensing and regulation of industry in interstate commerce; condemnation of federal economy as carried to the pay envelopes of government employes; organization of chain store workers.

For all but the harried committeemen, today was one of rest. Two football games attracted many.

Plans Congress Bill to Block Appropriations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.], once a thorough going dry, proclaimed his conversion to the wet cause today with the announcement that at the coming session of congress he would introduce a bill to prohibit federal money for prohibition enforcement from being used in the eighteen states that have repealed their state dry laws or have refused to enact any.

DANIEL O. HASTINGS. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

The Delaware senator, a strong Hoover supporter, estimated that some $4,000,000 a year is expended by the department of justice in states without a prohibition act.

He mentioned particularly the recent declaration by Gov. James Rolph of California that he would pardon all violators of the state dry law which was struck from the statute books at the last election.

Ready to Vote for Repeal.

Such an announcement, Senator Hastings declared, "demonstrates the necessity of some drastic action" to prevent the conflict between the federal government and the states from becoming "more ridiculous."

The senator said he would vote for the resolution necessary to revise the eighteenth amendment so that the prohibition power would be returned to the states. If unable to get the kind of amendment he wanted, the senator declared, he would vote to submit a proposal for outright repeal of the prohibition amendment.

Cost Is $4,000,000 Annually.

"The 18th amendment imposes a like duty upon the federal and state governments for appropriate legislation to make it effective," Senator Hastings declared.

"There never was a chance to make it effective in any state that did not cooperate with the federal government by enacting appropriate legislation.

"At the present time, some 18 states have either failed to act, have repealed their enforcement law, or by the recent election the voters have instructed their representatives to repeal it.

"It is roughly estimated that the amount directly expended by the department of justice in these 18 states amounts to something like the sum of $4,000,000 annually.

"My proposal does not take away any of the protection now afforded th states that hav an enforcement statute, because it excludes from prosecution only those crimes 'committed wholly within a state' having no enforcement act.

"The states from which the federal government withdraws its support cannot complain that this amounts to nullification, because, as I have pointed out, it is as much of a state obligation as it is a federal obligation. The other states ought not to complain, for this proposal leaves them in the same position they now find themselves."

Brownsville, Tex., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Two Florida men gave thanks today—for the depression. E. W. Huggins and O. L. Whitley were arrested as automobile thieves escaped from the Florida penitentiary. Florida officers, notified, replied: "No transportation funds available." The men, turned loose, caught a fast freight northbound.

2 YANKS SCALE CHINESE MOUNT 24,000 FEET HIGH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 25. [Friday.]—Two Americans, Terris Moore of New York and Richard L. Burdsall of Port Chester, N. Y., have succeeded in scaling the hitherto unclimbed Mount Mina Konka, in the Niarong range of Sikong province in western China bordering Tibet. According to a Chinese report, the explorers found Mina Konka to be 24,000 feet high. Previously it was estimated to be higher than Mount Everest [29,000 feet] in the Himalyas.

The Americans left Shanghai several months ago. They began the ascent of Mina Konka on Oct. 28 and reached the summit on Oct. 31.

Mount Mina Konka, although not definitely located on maps, is believed to be the legendary mountain of Ma Chin Shan, "higher than Mount Everest and considered the top of the world." Natives, it is said, keep at least 75 miles away from the mountain because of a superstitious dread.

Jury Convicts 2 Brothers of Manslaughter by Arson

Louis Samaras, 35, confectioner, and his brother, John, 31, were convicted yesterday on a charge of manslaughter by arson by a jury in Judge Rudolph Desort's Criminal court. Motions for a new trial will be argued Dec. 6. They hired John Protopapass to set fire to Louis Samaras' confectionery store at 3156 5th avenue on June 6. Protopapass was burned to death in an explosion caused by the fire. The brothers were prosecuted for the murder of Protopapass, but the jury found them guilty of manslaughter.

Piles Go Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Thousands who have itching, bleeding or protruding piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel cause piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To get rid of Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the thick impure blood, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients, with success in over 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

HEM-ROID tablets have such a wonderful record of success that Walgreen's invite you to try HEM-ROID and guarantee money refunded if it does not end your Pile misery.

JAP THREATENS 'TALKATHON' TO BALK THE LEAGUE

Tokio Delegate to Quiz Lytton for a Month.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 24.—Japan's genial representative, Yosuke Matsuoka, fought the league of nations' council for hours to a temporary standstill tonight in a renewed attack on the report of the league's Manchurian commission.

He threatened dire consequences if Lord Lytton, head of the commission, is allowed to say a word before the council, even to say he did not care to say anything in reply to the Japanese criticism of his report. He declared he would put him and his colleagues each and every one on the spot, or as he said it, subject them to "a long series of quizzing that may even last a month."

So the weary council called time out until tomorrow.

U. S. Delegates Active.

While Matsuoka was obstructing the league's painful progress toward a minimum goal, which is acceptance of the first eight chapters of the Lytton report, to bring Geneva up to the American nonrecognition stand, American representatives here were also busy. Having placed China on the preparatory committee for the world economic conference, they today reminded the Japanese of their presence with a social call, this being Thanksgiving day.

Norman H. Davis, chief American delegate, reminded Matsuoka that the relations of America and Japan have always been friendly and that Washington hopes they will remain so. In his own bland way he expressed hope that some "constructive" solution of the far eastern question would be reached.

In view of the Japanese position that the status quo in Manchuria must remain, and since America officially has no business here, the Davis visit is conceded by politicians in Geneva to be a hearty reminder of his presence.

Lytton to Stand Pat.

Lord Lytton and the other members of his commission met today and obviously agreed that they had nothing to change in their report after listening to Japan's statements. It was their proposed report to this effect back to the council that Matsuoka, although overruled by Eamon de Valera, chairman of the league council, yesterday, again sought to prevent today. He said the commission could not be allowed to sit in judgment of what had taken place in the council.

De Valera, although conciliatory, said the commission had not been asked to do any more than say whether they still adhere to the report. That was when Matsuoka jumped up with his threat of a quizzing marathon.

De Valera appealed to his colleagues of the council, who were obviously exasperated. Salvador de Madariaga of Spain, said tartly that after years of delay another month would not matter. Even British Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon came to De Valera's rescue and asked why the "honorable commission" had been given honorable seats if it were not to be heard from.

JAPAN WARNED BUDGET MEANS A FINANCIAL CRISIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 25.—[Friday.]—Baron Reinosuke Go, president of the Japan chamber of commerce and a leader in financial and industrial circles, asserted last night that the nation faces a financial crisis as a result of its tremendous budget.

Baron Go declared that next year's budget, which is the largest in history, necessitates the floating of enormous state loans which would result in disruption of the economic fabric. He stated that military expenses are absolutely unproductive and that unless they are curtailed Japan will be placed in a position similar to Germany after the war.

Gen. Sadao Araki, minister of war, jumped up after Baron Go had concluded and sarcastically refuted the charges. "We, who Baron declares are engaged in unproductive enterprises, wish to pay our respects to those like Baron Go, who are engaged in productive enterprises," he said. "But Japan today is in a confusion of thoughts. This must be removed before industries can continue to exist."

AIRWAY OFFICIAL, TWO COMPANIONS INJURED IN AUTO

John F. Furlong, Wife Among Victims.

Three persons were seriously injured late yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding struck a culvert at 167th street and Cicero avenue, in Bremen township. The injured are John F. Furlong, district traffic manager of the American Airways, Inc.; his wife, Vivian, and Elmer Helseta, an employé of the Walgreen Drug company.

Furlong was driving north in Cicero avenue at high speed, witnesses told county highway police, when the automobile swerved off the road and crashed into the culvert. The three occupants of the car were removed from the wreckage by passing motorists and taken to the Oak Forest infirmary. All were unconscious. The Furlongs came from Dallas, Tex., when Furlong was promoted by the air line company two months ago. They lived at the Southmoor hotel, 67th street and Stony Island avenue.

Gabby Hartnett Gets Warrant.

Police yesterday held a warrant obtained by Charles "Gabby" Hartnett, Chicago Cubs catcher, charging Jack Mostozsky, 1342 North Oakley boulevard, with reckless driving. Hartnett obtained the warrant Wednesday from Municipal Judge William E. Helander. He charged that on Tuesday, when he was driving his automobile out of an alley near his home at 2638 Albion avenue, a truck driven by Mostozsky struck his car and went on.

The body of Andrew O'Leary, employed on a farm near Channahon, 10 miles southwest of Joliet, was found on a highway near Channahon early yesterday. O'Leary was walking to town for parts for his automobile, which had broken down, and apparently was struck and killed by a motorist.

Motorcyclist Killed.

An unidentified motorcyclist, about 35 years old and bearing the initials G. F. S. tattooed on his right forearm, was killed by an automobile yesterday at 25th avenue and Harrison street, Maywood. G. F. Gerlack, 4420 Manor avenue, driver of the car, was held.

The Maywood death and one other raised the 1932 motor toll in Cook county to 1,013.

A woman was fatally injured and two children accompanying her were seriously injured late last night when they were struck by an automobile at Winchester avenue and Monroe street. They are Mrs. Jean Sweetman, 19 years old; her 10 year old stepdaughter, Betty Sweetman, and her 12 year old nephew, Arthur Bishop, all of 1965 Ogden avenue. Mrs. Sweetman was taken to the county hospital, where she died early today.

The motorist who struck them fled. Shortly afterward a cruising police squad arrested Frank Abrams, 49 years old, 2209 West Monroe street, at Hoyne avenue and Adams street. Another motorist told the police that Abrams was in the car which struck the three pedestrians.

DIES AFTER COUGHING SPELL.

HUNT $7,500 NEEDLE CONTAINING RADIUM IN CLINIC ASH HEAP

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 24.—(AP)—A $7,500 needle was being hunted today in an ash heap at the American Oncologic hospital, after a new cleaning woman swept $30,000 in radium into the incinerator.

Four needles containing the radium were thrown away. By the use of an electroscope, which gives signals when brought within contact with radium, Frank Hartman, a distributor, recovered three of the precious needles during the night.

The radium is used in the treatment of cancer.

The needles, each holding twelve and a half milligrams, disappeared from the radium room of the hospital. Wrapped in a feltlike material, which in turn was covered by a rubberized substance, with bandage gauze folded around the whole, the radium was lying on a table as the recently employed cleaning woman entered.

Although the radium room was not included in her territory, the overzealous woman proceeded to "tidy up."

To her inexperienced eyes the bandages with their costly contents looked like merely pieces of discarded gauze, and with one flip of her brush she swept them into her dustpan, and then carried the radium outside with the remainder of the day's sweepings to be burned in the incinerator.

ARGENTINA FACES ANTI-TAX STRIKE BY BIG BUSINESS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 24.—Representatives of virtually every branch of industry and commerce met tonight under the auspices of the Commerce Defense league to draw up plans for a nation-wide tax strike in opposition to government proposals for increased taxation pending before the special session of congress. The new taxes are designed to balance the increased budget.

The proposal to increase taxation rather than decrease government expenditures, submitted by Finance Minister Alberto Hueyo, is arousing widespread opposition and business organizations are preparing to appeal to congress not to approve the measure.

The recently appointed financial advisory commission has drawn up a project to fund the floating debt by issuing an internal loan of $150,000,000, forcing all banks, foreign as well as Argentine, to have always on hand as part of their reserve bonds of this loan equivalent to 15 per cent of their deposits and current accounts and 10 per cent of their time deposits. Half of this amount would have to be purchased thirty days after passage of the law and the balance within a year. The two branches of United States banks here would have to subscribe $8,411,610.

Previously he has been heard on the radio only on occasions when he has been speaking officially at functions.

ANTI-VICE GROUP OF NEW YORK IS FORCED TO QUIT

Unable to Raise Money for Investigations.

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Unable to raise sufficient funds to carry on, the committee of fourteen announced today it had been forced to suspend activities after a 27 year campaign against commercialized vice in New York City.

Dr. James Pedersen notified the 87 members of the general committee that "inability to raise our modest budget is forcing to the wall an organization which has served New York City since 1905 and a program which has maintained an outstanding place in the never-ending struggle of organized society against commercialized vice."

Lists Causes of Predicament.

A report written recently by Prof. Raymond Moley, economic adviser to President Elect Roosevelt, was listed by William H. Baldwin, treasurer, as one of the three causes "of our present financial predicament."

Although Prof. Moley devoted considerable space to criticising the organization's basic policy, its performance and personnel, Baldwin said the professor "has never visited our office, has never examined our records, has never talked with our general secretary."

"Because of his association with the Seabury investigation," Baldwin continued, "Prof. Moley's opinion of the committee necessarily has carried weight among those New Yorkers who are our important potential contributors. In the light of his public report it is interesting to speculate as to what he has said in private discussions. At any rate, I, as treasurer, know the results."

Calls It Tragic Irony.

Prof. Moley's report dealt with the investigation conducted by Samuel Seabury into the Magistrates court. Baldwin, describing it "rather tragic irony," listed this investigation as another factor in the committee's financial plight.

"Unfortunately," he said, "there arose a public hysteria over the 'framing' of innocent women, and the impression developed in some quarters that the Committee of Fourteen either was a party to such methods or at least was derelict in not having exposed them. In spite of this, however, the New York newspapers upon learning all the facts, reëstablished with few reservations their traditional confidence in the committee and its work."

As the third cause of the committee's suspension Baldwin cited "the depression," which, he said, "needs no comment."

CITY WATCHMAN DIES.

HUTCHINS URGES U. S. TO HELP IF COLLEGES CALL

Says Endowed Schools Are Leaders.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—The answer to the problem of public education may be federal relief "and properly so" Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, told members of the Virginia Education association, in annual convention here tonight.

Dr. Hutchins, who spoke on the general topic "the higher learning in America," outlined the Chicago plan for greater undergraduate freedom. That, he believed, has appealed to the superior student and has demonstrated that students have enough independence and ability to pass general examinations on courses for which they have attended no classes.

State Education Largest.

"Most of the higher learning in America is carried on in tax-supported state universities," Dr. Hutchins said, "and the situation of all these public institutions is now so critical that unless there is some change in the attitude or condition of our people there is indeed little hope for that higher learning which is my theme."

Mr. Hutchins said the principal function of the private universities in the educational system was "to supply the leadership or the recklessness which shows the public institutions what they should or should not attempt.

Private Schools Lead.

"They have led the way in research and in educational experiments and have demonstrated to the legislatures that it is a good thing for the community to pay professors a living wage. Such payment is not charity which the professor should accept with humility and reward with silence on controversial issues. It is an investment in intelligence."

One Sure Way to End Coughs and Colds

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

NO—It's two Diapepsin tablets!

Many men can eat anything and everything without any distress because they have learned how to regulate digestion. Each tablet of diapepsin saves half an hour's labor in the stomach. So you can actually correct slow stomach.

If you have gas, any sourness, or feel a "lump" an hour after eating, take two tablets of Pape's Diapepsin. Do this until the stomach empties as it should without aid. When it slows down, use this same harmless stimulant again. You can really control digestion this way.

A lot of men and women who once had the "soda" habit have found lasting relief through Pape's Diapepsin. Some need only one tablet; others as many as five. Just experiment until you can eat and drink anything and everything without any sign of distress. Get some diapepsin today! Remember, a "cast-iron stomach" just means one that empties in six hours.

NEIGHBORS GIVE CHEER TO WIDOW AND 9 CHILDREN

Charity Aids After Their Home Burns.

Thanksgiving day meant a great deal yesterday to Mrs. Minine Gratz, a widow, and her nine children, whose home was destroyed by fire on Wednesday. That night they moved back into the basement of the home in the rear of 4231 Kinzie street. Neighbors supplied them with what food they could spare. Then yesterday a charity worker called on the family.

A large supply of food was purchased at a nearby grocery, then the county physician's office was notified and a doctor called to treat the youngest child, Alvina, 18 months old, who was suffering from exposure, and the family was made as comfortable as possible for the night. Today a visiting nurse will call to treat the sick child and the charity worker will find better shelter, some clothing, and more food for the family.

Shows Need for Fund.

Robert A. Gardner, director of the Emergency Welfare fund's drive for $7,500,000, which is to be spent for welfare work other than unemployment relief, issued a statement last night calling attention to the manner in which Mrs. Gratz and her children had been helped. He pointed out that the welfare fund is being raised for such charity work as this.

"The neighbors came to the aid of Mrs. Gratz and her children very generously," he said. "But they are not able to carry the burden. As soon as the United Charities was notified a case worker took the family enough food to last until tomorrow and saw that they were warm and comfortable for the night. Today that charity work will continue, and the Gratz family will not be forgotten until they are able to support themselves once again.

"Our appeal for contributions to the Emergency Welfare Fund is not based upon the needs of people who might support themselves, but is based upon the needs of people such as these—a widow and her nine children. They have no one to turn to for aid other than the established charities that will share in the fund."

Firemen Summon Aid.

The Gratz family's furniture and most of their clothing were destroyed in the fire. The only employed member of the family is the oldest boy, Floyd, 17 years old, who earns $4 a week as a delivery boy. Help was obtained by Fire Capt. John Lynch and Lieut. Harry Nelson of engine company 95, which answered the alarm. Capt. Lynch also supplied cots for the family.

WHEALAN FAVORS COUNTY-STATE RELIEF CONTROL

Opposes Change for Handling of Bonds.

President Emmett Whealan of the Cook county board said yesterday that as far as he is concerned, the Illinois emergency relief commission will assist the county board in administering to funds to be realized from the sale of $17,000,000 of county bonds for relief for the idle.

His secretary, John Delaney, had issued a statement urging that the administration of those funds be exclusively by county authorities.

Praises State Board's Actions.

"I am not in favor of any such change in the present setup of relief administration," President Whealan said. "The county board will, of course, have absolute authority in the spending of the money realized from the sale of any of the bonds, but I shall urge that the board delegate the administration of the funds to the state relief commission. The board has that authority.

"I believe we should cooperate to the fullest extent with the state relief commission. When federal funds have been necessary to supplement our resources for relief to the idle they have been obtained and ably administered through the state commission. I see no reason to change the present arrangement for handling relief."

Sales Tax to Be Problem.

Mr. Whealan said the public will be asked to subscribe to the $17,000,000 county bond issue for relief in the same spirit that they contribute to charity funds. The bonds were authorized in a program that has been approved by the legislature and which now awaits Gov. Emmerson's signature. Whealan expressed the belief that the bonds will be sold, because the public will be in sympathy with an appeal to buy, rather than to give outright.

As to the adoption of the county sales tax, also authorized in the legislative program, President Whealan said the tax presents legal difficulties that will have to be solved before it is put into effect in Cook county. Additional county bonds may be issued when they are needed, under the authority of the legislative program, to be financed by the county's share of the 3 cent state gasoline tax, he said.

FLYER, 19, ENDS AFRICA-ENGLAND HOP IN 11 DAYS

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Victor Smith, 19 year old South African flyer, completed a flight of 11 days and 15 hours from Cape Town, South Africa, today, making the last few miles as a passenger after cracking up near Ashford, in Kent. He was unhurt, but his plane was damaged in a bad landing in a hop field. A plane was sent out from Croyden air port to pick him up and when he arrived here he told of spending five and a half days in the desert as a guest of the Touregs, a tribe of Arabs. During these five days the outside world did not know what had become of him.

"I had been following the Niger ed route to Gao (French West Africa) when I discovered the joint in the petrol feed connecting with the main tank was leaking badly," he said. "I had only enough petrol left to keep me in the air ten minutes. I was forced to land near Dori and to spend the rest of the day under the wings of the plane owing to the intense heat.

"Eventually a half savage man approached who turned out to be a slave of the Touregs. I gave him a note and was left alone on the desert until the following day. I lived on chocolate, a few biscuits, oranges, and acid drops. The Touregs arrived and offered me goat's milk and flesh. The latter I refused. Then they built me a grass hut."

Smith finally got a message through to the French outpost at Dori and two French soldiers appeared with a supply of canned food and enough gasoline to get him into Gao.

Mrs. David M. Pope, 30 East Onwentsia road, Lake Forest, suffered a slight concussion of the brain yesterday when she was thrown from her horse on the grounds of the Onwentsia Hunt club at Milburn.

A group of club members decided to ride after the Thanksgiving hunt had been postponed because of the frozen ground. Mrs. Pope's horse slipped and she was thrown and knocked unconscious. She was taken to the home of John F. Jelke, who lives a mile from the hunt club, and regained consciousness after an hour.

She was then taken to the Alice Home hospital, Lake Forest, where Dr. Theodore Proxmire diagnosed her injury.

10 LITTLE GIRLS GIVE SAVINGS TO HUNGRY PUPILS

Boy Scouts Raise $20 for Fund.

When ten little girls, 8 and 9 years old, sat down to their Thanksgiving dinner yesterday, it tasted especially good because they had shared their savings with other children through a thank offering to the Hungry School Children's fund.

In two months the ten girls, as members of a Sunday school class of the South Shore Presbyterian church, had saved $3 from their allowances. It was their way, wrote the teacher, Mrs. Gertrude W. Hunt, of giving thanks. They also advised the Hungry School Children's fund that they expected to keep on saving for the fund, instead of "buying candy and other things we don't need."

Second Grade Pupil Writes.

From Wilmette a day or so ago came a letter written by Lucy Nilles, who is a second grade pupil. She enclosed $1 which she said was from the second grade club of Logan school. She explained in her very neatly written letter that the money was saved from their club dues.

In the same mail was a letter from Troop 50 of the Boy Scouts and quite pridefully they explained that they had earned the $20 giving a benefit for the Hungry School Children's fund. The benefit, a bunco bridge party, was given by the Councilors' club of Troop 50.

And that is the manner, readers, in which the youngsters are looking out for the less fortunate of their numbers. They save from their allowances. They contribute their class dues. They give benefits—all so their friends in the school room will have as nourishing meals as they.

Small Gifts Go Far.

And when you consider that five cents will buy a lunch for a small child and 15 cents will give an adequate meal to a high school or junior high school student—you can readily see that their gifts, though some are small, will go a long way.

Gifts may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. The money thus raised is distributed to the needy schools by Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department of the public schools.

HANGS FROM PLANE BY FOOT; AVIATRIX IS SAVED BY PILOT

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Dangling in midair by one foot caught in a strap, Miss Annette Gibson, well known aviatrix, was saved from death today when her flying companion, Hugh Copeland, brought their plane out of a tailspin just as it was about to plunge into a house.

The two had gone aloft with Miss Gibson at the controls to capture a large balloon released by a department store in an advertising stunt. She made five futile dives, but hi. the balloon on the sixth try.

It tangled in the left wing and the plane went into a s'' hurling Miss Gibson over the side. Her foot caught in the safety strap on her seat, however, and she was unable to pull herself back as Copeland, who seized the controls, leveled the plane out just over the heads of horrified spectators.

They landed safely at Roosevelt field.

TAKE TESTIMONY HERE TODAY IN SUN LIFE SUIT

A rogatory commission of the courts of the province of Quebec, Canada, will come to Chicago Monday to take the testimony of receivers for the various insull utility companies in the trial for criminal libel of James J. Harpell, Montreal publisher. The commission is headed by A. B. Ladoucer, clerk of the crown, and was appointed yesterday at Montreal.

Charges were preferred against Harpell by the Sun Life Insurance company of Canada and its president, T. B. Macauley. The Sun Life company, largest insurance company in the British empire, has been the subject of bitter attack by Harpell since 1928.

Harpell climaxed his attacks by devoting practically the whole October issue of his financial magazine, the Journal of Commerce, to an attack upon Macauley and the company, in which he compared Macauley to Ivar Krueger, the Swedish swindler.

He charged that Macauley, through investment of the company's funds in common stocks, had "given $26,000,000 of the policyholders' funds to Krueger and Samuel and Martin Insull."

WANTED—2 YANKS FOR FLIGHT TO STRATOSPHERE

Piccard Prepares for Hudson Bay Venture.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 24.—Prof. Auguste Piccard, of stratosphere fame, today handed THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent for perusal by the American public the following:

"Wanted—Two husky Americans accustomed to camping in the coldest weather to travel into the stratosphere in my balloon from Hudson bay, Canada, some time in 1934 or, possible earlier; also an American millionaire willing to finance a venture to discover new cosmic rays in the neighborhood of the magnetic pole."

Prof. Piccard, who ascended more than ten miles last August in his balloon, will sail Jan. 4 on the steamship Champlain from Havre, France to visit a brother chemist in Wilmington, Del., to lecture throughout the United States, including Chicago, and to prepare his American helpers for the flight.

Needs Balloon and Money.

"All I need for the Hudson bay flight is a new, perfected balloon, money, fine bright weather with no fog, and two men even much more fitted than I am to stand the terrific cold above the magnetic pole," Piccard said. "I also need an expeditionary force to pick up the two pilots in the balloon somewhere 200 miles farther after a 12 hour flight. I am certain the altitude record will be beaten at Hudson bay.

"I will prepare the flight, but my two associates will be Americans who should be both pilots and physicists."

Prof. Picard declared that the reason he wanted to study cosmic rays in the stratosphere near Hudson bay is because "nobody knows yet about the cosmic rays that are kept from getting close to earth by the magnetic pole."

Artificial Cosmic Rays.

"The chief interest in cosmic rays," he said, "is that we hope some day to reproduce them artificially so that we will be able to light and heat an entire city."

Piccard said he believed that flights to the moon will be possible within a few years, but that the return from there may not be so certain. He said he might organize such a flight next July, although he will not g up himself.

TROTZKY HIDING IN THE HOME OF DANISH FRIEND

(Copyright, 1932, By the New York Times.)

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 24.—Leon Trotzky spent a quiet day hiding at the home of friends, whose address is not being made public for fear that communists will cause riots outside the house. A public meeting has been arranged for Sunday, when 2,500 people will attend the Russian exile's first lecture on the Russian revolution.

A newspaper today printed a letter from Prince Aage, cousin of King Christian, who is serving as an officer in the French foreign legion, saying:

"I could not believe the report that Trotzky was going to lecture in Denmark, but I see it is true. Trotzky is the man who sanctioned the murder of the imperial family and became a traitor to his own country by concluding the peace of Brest-Litovsk, and now he is invited to lecture to Danish students. I want to express sorrow and anger at this event. Has Denmark forgotten that Trotzky was a member of the government that killed the two sons and the grandchildren of the Danish princess who became empress? Now I can understand Shakespeare's writing in 'Hamlet,' 'There is something rotten in the state of Denmark.'"

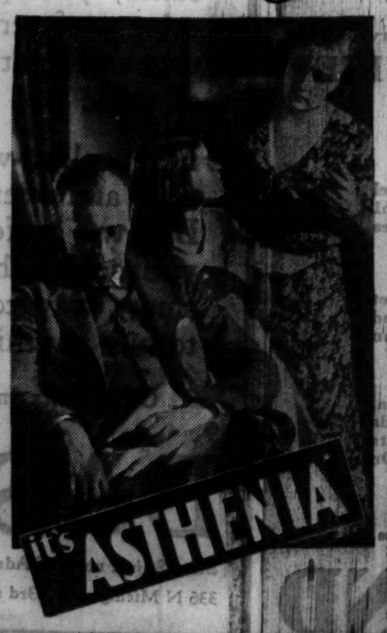
LOST: 10 years of Happiness



THEIRS was a real love match. Both were young, eager, full of life. They had planned for a future bountifully blessed with happiness. But what a change the last few months had wrought. Before her very eyes he had seemingly grown ten years older. In looks, in habits, in desires.

Ask him what's wrong and he hasn't the slightest idea. Yet it's pathetically simple. His body is doped with accumulated poisons. Without knowing it, he has fallen victim to that modern malady which doctors call ASTHENIA.

Without knowing it, that's the disarming thing about ASTHENIA. It drags you down. It slows your mind. It robs you of your joys and pleasures. Yet all the while you hardly realize you are slipping.

Millions are in just that plight today. They toss and turn at night, wake up with a headache, drag through the day feeling dull, depressed and in constant fear that something serious is wrong with them.

Are you a victim of this health-destroying blight? Don't think because you're "regular" that you're immune. Physicians will tell you that daily elimination not only must be 'regular'—it must be complete. Otherwise poisons gradually accumulate, bred by millions of micro-organisms in the digestive tract. Little by little these poisons seep into the blood stream. Then comes that half alive feeling, the danger signal of Asthenia.

If you feel tired, listless, irritable, if your work weighs you down, decide today to rid yourself of Asthenia and stay rid of it! You can do so easily in 10 days' time.

Buy a bottle of Pluto Water and take it as directed: one fifth glass in four fifths glass of hot water, every morning for 10 mornings. Don't miss a day for 10 days. You'll be amazed how this gentle treatment will change your entire viewpoint. Make you see a new world in ten days!

After that, take Pluto Water every Sunday morning regularly and you'll find that you do everything with new vim and pleasure.

Then you'll understand why for nearly 90 years from all over the world people have traveled to French Lick Spring for this famous 10 day Pluto Water treatment. Why physicians recommend Pluto Water as a mild, agreeable and effective laxative, non irritating and non habit-forming. Consider, also, that by actual comparison Pluto Water is the least expensive laxative that you can take.

GENTLE EFFECTIVE AGREEABLE

When taken as directed: one fifth glass Pluto Water to four-fifths glass hot water, every morning. Pluto Water is virtually tasteless, it is non irritating and non habit-forming.

PLUTO WATER ends "ASTHENIA" the wanton loss of strength, debility, diminution of the vital forces, often due to intestinal micro-organisms. Pluto Water, America's Laxative Mineral Water, is recommended by doctors everywhere. It is bottled and sealed at French Lick Springs Hotel, French Lick, Indiana, America's Greatest Health Resort. In 2 sizes, 20c and 45c.

SHAW PLUMPS FOR REVOLUTION IN FABIAN SPEECH

'George Bernard' Assails Public Speakers.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw, making his annual appearance before his beloved Fabian society tonight, preached revolution, remarked that nothing was likely to come of his preaching, and declared that the substitution "of Mr. Roosevelt for Mr. Hoover won't make any difference to anybody."

His address was "in praise of Guy Fawkes" of gunpowder plot fame.

"For 45 years I have been making public speeches and I have not produced the slightest effect," Shaw said. "I have solved all the world's problems time and time again and still they go on being insoluble."

Advocates Dictatorship.

This did not prevent him from solving them once more. With a vengeance he lashed out at the world at large, asserting among other things, that he was more enthusiastic than ever for some form of dictatorship in England. He didn't care whether it was of the Mussolini type, the Stalin type or the sort advocated by Sir Oswald Mosley, who is trying to build up a British Fascist party.

Doesn't Like Elections.

He saw no good at all in modern elections which, he declared, have come to be just one stampede after another. "The most magnificent stampede of all was the American presidential election substituting Mr. Roosevelt for Mr. Hoover."

Shaw thought it was to be regretted that Guy Fawkes did not blow up parliament, for he probably wanted the government of the day to do something, which is impossible, he said, as parliament is only an engine of public speaking.

"Public speaking ought to be made a criminal offense," declared Shaw, who spoke half an hour over his alloted time.

Shaw mentioned in passing that the Bank of England was "broke."

"At least," he continued, "that is what they would call it if any one else paid his creditors only 13 shillings 6 pence for a pound sterling."

GEN. J. J. PERSHING RETURNS; THINKS WAR IN EUROPE UNLIKELY

New York, Nov. 24.—[Special.]—With the work of the battle monuments commission, which has kept him in Europe for several years, virtually completed, Gen. John J. Pershing returned to the United States on the United States liner Manhattan today.

On his return Gen. Pershing made his first utterance since the war on the possibility of conflict in Europe, saying he thought it unlikely. He intimated he thought definitely that the war possibility was extremely vague for a number of reasons, but asked that his view be expressed thus:

"I think war in Europe is unlikely."

Under the battle monuments commission, Gen. Pershing said, there have been completed three large memorials, at Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel, and Meuse-Argonne. Eight cemeteries, each with its chapel, have been finished, and 35,000 individual graves marked with Carrara marble.

He said formal dedicatory ceremonies probably would be held next year.

TEACHERS TO SEE MAYOR TODAY; TO DEMAND PAY DAY

A delegation from the Chicago High School Teacher's association will call on Mayor Cermak at noon today to discuss the pay situation. According to Frederick T. Wilhelms, president of the association, a demand will be made for immediate payment of back salaries in cash.

Mr. Wilhelms said he is opposed to the payment of back salaries to teachers in 1932 tax anticipation warrants, a proposal now pending before the board of education. "The only way to prevent this issuance of warrants is to pay us in cash," he said.

Charles Stillman, chairman of the joint conference of 29 teachers' organizations, and Dorothy Weil, president of the Federation of Women High School Teachers, declared that the school board would be sidestepping its obligations if it issued warrants in lieu of cash for salaries.

"The city has $6,500,000 worth of 1931 warrants in its aggregate of funds," said Mr. Stillman. "The banks should take these securities and the city should replace them with 1932 warrants to finance pay rolls for us."

Besides Mr. Wilhelms the delegation that will visit the mayor will include: George Mahin, David F. Davis, Alan Rogers, A. Royal Gay, Clara Kollman, John Myers, Roland Marsh, Lily M. Ferry, Jeanette Worthan, C. F. Bek, Emma McCredie, Phenia Jost, Bruce Cheadle, Charles Steiner, Lyman Mansell and Adele McDermott.

SCHOOL SURVEY TO DETERMINE SEAT SHORTAGE

A survey will be made of all public schools to determine the seat shortage, number of vacant rooms, portables and enrollment, it was announced yesterday by Supt. William J. Bogan in his bulletin to principals. Don C. Rogers, director of research and building survey, will conduct the survey.

According to Mr. Rogers, the seat shortage in the senior high schools is 43,080. Figures for the junior high and elementary schools have not been compiled.

Mr. Bogan said that the citizens' advisory committee had asked for information on school housing. He pointed out that construction on ten school building projects is at a standstill and that pupils are continuing to enroll in the senior and junior high schools.

"It is necessary to utilize present buildings to a maximum capacity," said Mr. Bogan. Methods of handling overflow pupils were outlined as follows: [1] establishing 9th grade branches; [2] converting elementary schools to junior high schools, with 9th grade pupils predominating, and [3] temporarily withholding 7th grade pupils from junior high school in a few selected elementary schools.

John C. Christensen, school architect, has announced that he will recommend that the school board appropriate $4,100,000 in the 1933 budget to complete four buildings. This would provide 13,000 high school seats.

Recover Wyoming Truck but Turkeys Are Gone

Police yesterday recovered the truck which was stolen Tuesday from Seymour Mills of Casper, Wyo., and his wife, Irma, shortly after they had finished a 1,200 mile drive to Chicago in 20 hours, carrying 750 pounds of dressed turkeys. The turkeys were gone, however. Mills and his wife, recipients of a collection taken up in the Des Plaines street court by Judge John F. Haas after he heard of their plight, started home shortly after the truck was recovered.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

DISCOURAGING THE TAX DODGER.

Judge Jarecki's insistence on the payment of taxes due and his refusal in recent cases to remit the penalties are sound policies. The tax burden on real estate is heavy and in many instances can be shown to be confiscatory, but the remedy does not lie in official acceptance of wholesale tax evasion. The only practical remedy is the election of officials who will reduce public expenditures by tens of millions of dollars.

Only 55 per cent of the taxes billed early this year have been collected. That means that 55 per cent of the assessed property in the county is supporting 100 per cent of the government, while 45 per cent of the property is getting its share of the benefits of government without any contribution whatsoever to the public treasury. If the nonpayers are permitted to go on evading their share and suffer no penalties for delinquencies, it is doubtful if much more than 75 per cent of the taxes billed next year will be paid.

If taxes are reasonable the vast majority of citizens will pay them promptly; even if taxes are unreasonably high the majority of people will make every effort to pay them unless, as has been true in Chicago, nonpayment is encouraged by failure to invoke the penalties for nonpayment provided by statute.

PRESIDENT LOWELL RESIGNS.

President Abbott Lawrence Lowell of Harvard has resigned after 23 years at the head of the country's oldest university. His predecessor was Charles W. Eliot, who was president for 40 years. The two men spanned 63 years in American education. Mr. Lowell took charge of a university with 3,680 students and will resign the charge of more than 8,000. He became president of the oldest American college and he will leave it the newest addict to the English university structure. When he went to its head it looked to Yale with a view to a certain November afternoon in each year and now it looks to Cambridge and Oxford for every afternoon. Mr. Lowell's departure will find the new Harvard house system steady on its feet, with the exception that the large body of commuting students are now orphans in their own home.

Mr. Lowell's presidency may be divided roughly into three periods. There was that of Percy Haughton, followed, after a period of uncertainty, by that of Arnold Horween. Then came the present régime of Eddie Casey. Horween bridges the gap between Haughton, who was Knute Rockne's predecessor as a genius, to Casey, whose future is a question mark. Last year the Lowell-Casey combination was a success until the last moment, when Albie Booth rounded out his career with three points from the field. This year Mr. Lowell's administration with Casey as director of public works began with torrential success which suddenly snapped in the middle. It might have been possible to accept the result of the Brown engagement, but the West Point cadets were a severe trial to any system. There was a moment of hope when Holy Cross was put in the bag, but when the test with Yale resulted 19 to 0, Mr. Lowell merely waited over the week-end to resign.

The search for his successor probably will not consider Alonzo Stagg because of the previous affiliations of Chicago's Old Man with Yale. Joe Savoldi of Notre Dame might not care to give up his wrestling career at this time and Frank Carideo is engaged at Missouri. Pug Rentner of Northwestern will be graduated in the spring, as also will be Fenci, the brilliant end. Many suggestions will reach the board of overseers. One may recommend Mr. Oosterbaan as a happy choice, but we can think of none better than Tom Hammond, whose scholastic record, including both Hyde Park and Michigan, is about perfect. He would make a real college of Harvard.

THE ST. LAWRENCE TREATY.

VI. Power for Long Distance Transmission.

It costs approximately 5.7 mills to produce a kilowatt of electricity in New York City in a modern steam plant. It may cost as little as 1.3 mills, as New York state engineers calculate, to produce a kilowatt at the international rapids on the St. Lawrence.

On this showing it would seem that power from Ogdensburg could be sold in New York with profit in competition with steam power. But to say that is to overlook an important set of facts, and principally the whole question of the cost of transmission.

For one thing, 15 per cent of the power will be lost between the river and New York, according to well recognized physical laws. Then the power user in New York must pay his share of the cost of building and maintaining a high tension transmission line from the river to New York, a distance of perhaps 300 miles. Then, because New York cannot have intermittent service, additional steam plants must be set up at strategic points and held in readiness to serve if anything should go wrong. Too much ice in the river, a mechanical failure in the generating plants, or a thousand other contingencies can arise. Finally, the power must be distributed in New York through a maze of distribution wires. An army of men must maintain the service in the metropolitan area and another army must be employed in clerical work of one sort or another. These armies must be supported by the consumer whether the electricity comes from a steam plant on the East river or from Ogdensburg.

It will be seen that cheaper generation of electricity 300 miles from the place it is to be consumed becomes a relatively unimportant matter. The important thing to determine is whether the cheaper electricity is actually cheaper when it arrives in New York than power generated near by.

That is another question to which the senatorial committee may well direct its attention. The senators will find conflicting opinions. Here again the advocates of the waterway must bear the burden of proof. If the electricity can be disposed of at a profit the project has its justification. If not, why waste money?

THROUGH JAPANESE EYES.

The American public is blissfully unconscious of Japanese thought at this time. Preoccupied with our financial and business troubles and confident of our fundamental strength, we are unaware that the Japanese are intensely interested in the subject of American policy, American intentions, American resources and restraints, and are debating actively the imminent possibilities of war with us. For the Japanese, Mr. Kellogg has not abolished war, but Mr. Stimson has placed American policy, as the Japanese assume, squarely athwart the path of Japan's manifest destiny. The answer to that, the Japanese understand, is not words but war unless one or the other backs down.

The military class which has so powerful a rôle in Japanese politics and government does not think either is likely to back down. "If the United States has confidence in her military strength," says Capt. Mizuno, a leading naval authority, "she will never hesitate to resort to war. The economic damage Japan would suffer from the war must be beyond comparison with that of America," but "none can predict whether or not America will go to war at this juncture"—and Capt. Mizuno suggests that America will not unless she assures herself of the help of the British navy. His reason should interest the American public which yawns over discussions of our naval policy and takes it for granted that we can lick the world. Capt. Mizuno says that America's naval strength "can never be said to be equal to Japan's despite the ratio of 5 to 3; it is strong at its trunk but weak at its hands and feet. As stated elsewhere, American superiority lies in her economic predominance. Naturally, before crossing swords she would fall back upon economic trench warfare. To do this a superior navy is imperative both for limiting the economic activities of Japan in the near orient and bottling up her navy within her neighboring waters. This, however, is denied the crippled American navy. There is even possibility of the superior Japanese cruisers advancing to the Atlantic ocean, threatening the economic vitality of the United States."

In short, according to Capt. Mizuno, "the United States must admit that she is not on the same level as Japan as far as military power is concerned." We must therefore rely upon economic restraints to prevent Japan from "opening fire."

This and the expectation of alliance with other powers explain, to the Japanese mind, our course of action as to Manchuria. The territorial integrity of China, the open door and equal opportunity are merely "wire entanglements" set up to prevent Japan from taking advantage of her position to monopolize Chinese resources, and as for the nine power treaty, since America was its "original promoter" and guardian, Japan's recent action has "mercilessly slung mud upon the honor and dignity of the United States and completely trampled down her will and object."

The recent manifestation of military control over Japanese policy ought to give such views some significance for us. No American naval officer would be permitted to write like that about Japan. Our public is not encouraged to think at all on the hypothesis that war is a likelihood. Discussion in the United States assumes that our defenses are more than adequate and our problem simply what further reductions we can make.

WHAT ABOUT THE RAILROADS?

[Hartford Courant.]

The railroads, it is generally agreed, constitute the most difficult domestic problem with which the country will have to deal in the near future. Overcapitalized, most of them, in relation to their earning capacity, afflicted increasingly by the competition of new, unregulated, and often subsidized forms of transportation, regulated to an extreme point, forbidden in most cases to operate other than as rail vehicles, the future of the railroads is apparently not a bright one. The proposed remedies are countless, ranging from governmental ownership and operation on the one hand to an abolition of all regulation on the other. Gov. Roosevelt's proposal that the railroads be encouraged to restrict their rail transportation to the limited sphere in which the railroad is the most efficient carrier and to coöperate with the other forms of transportation to form one coördinated, efficient scheme is excellent, but it does not deal with the difficulties of the present situation of the roads.

A Rhode Island commission has just prepared a plan that, it believes, would alleviate the present difficulties of the New England roads. The body—which rejoices in the title of the Rhode Island Commission on Foreign and Domestic Commerce—advocates that the New England roads abandon some 2,000 miles of "feeder" rails which are now operated at a loss. The rights of way would be sold to the states for transformation into highways or the roads themselves would undertake the operation. In the latter case the roads would be given the right to operate their own trucks on the new highways, charging other trucks a toll. In either case the roads would be relieved of the necessity of operating trains over uneconomic routes and the community would be provided with excellent highway facilities.

The difficulties in the way of such a scheme are great, but they are not, perhaps, insurmountable. The law, federal and state, would have to be changed to permit the roads to operate their own trucks, or, in the event that the states took over the rights of way, the highway plans would have to be altered and rearranged. In so far as the plan looks toward an increased economy in furnishing transportation facilities it is excellent; when it calls on the states to alter their highway plans and to dig into their own pocketbooks to aid the railroads, however, it does not seem so worthy of support.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE IVORY HORSE.

When dark-skinned Persia Pettigrew was born
At Sunday Creek, ten miles beyond The Falls,
The midwife stooped above her mother's bed
Smoothing the chestnut hair back from her brow.
"I fear to tell you, Mrs. Pettigrew,
Although your seventh child, born in a caul,

And purple fuchsias, like small vesper bells,
Called out for color worship in a place
Where life and death communed across the gulf.
Exhausting every remedy she knew,
The midwife lifted the soft eiderdown
As though it were a ritual: wrapped the babe . . .
Moved toward the threshold of her patient's room,
Steeling herself for shock that would ensue.

And as she stood there Silance Pettigrew,
As though she went back to some far-off place,
Wearing the dress of Persia, stood close to her side
And spoke these words:

"Your babe, they'll say, is dead,
And, in a sense, it will be true, but I
Have sought to live again upon the earth
And need experience that I did not have
When last I crossed the desert of a life:
So if you speak the words that I will say . . .
In sacredness, and with your faith complete . . .
'Great Wisdom now commands your holy life!'
The child will live. Have much of beauty, much
Of understanding. She will greatly love.
And can exchange my present place for hers . . .
And if I do so only you will know,
For a white horse will be the testing key."

And now the mother . . . with a super-strength
Raised on her elbow, whispered the low words:
The infant made a strange and sudden cry:
The shell-like hands began to move as though
And Silance waived the name she chose before
To call her daughter, "Persia," for the dream,
But told no one the reason for the change.

A traveling circus tented at The Falls;
Young Persia, when she saw a great white horse,
Called: "There he is. I want my horse. My horse!"
She broke loose from her father's moist, broad hand
And, running, tried to reach the sawdust ring.

For many days thereafter, falling ill,
She ate no food, grew thinner day by day:
But she recovered. Lived as though a charm,
Made by some magic, graced her every act,
Till woman grown, when on a mountain drive
An accident, unwitnessed, came about;
And Persia told, although there was none to prove,
A riderless white horse passed on the left—
Over the road edge to the rocks below.

For days she lay half-conscious, so they said;
But rose above the prison of herself,
Talked of the desert she had never seen—
Of a spearmaker, broken chariot wheels . . .
Of caravans . . . astrologers . . . and of
A palace where her strings of pearls were hid.
Again, came a long period of peace,
The transitory element in time
To Persia was a symbol of herself.
Anemone in little whispering lanes . . .
Brought realism to her thwarted spring,
For when she found her first and final love,
He was killed in war by one who boldly rode,
With sword in hand, upon a pale white horse.

And then her mother, Silance Pettigrew,
Called Persia to her, told her what occurred
The night before her birth, and Persia said:
"I've seen the woman, too. She came last night—
Whispered these words, just as I fell asleep:
'I come for the last time. The wheel of life
Turns back for me. You need no longer wear
The shadow of such heavy penalty;
Through you I've worshiped, lost, and found myself:
And now I go to worlds invisible . . .
Your single path leads forward through the years,
Through curving arches of triumphal day.'
And when I wakened . . . miracle . . . or jest,

EN GARDE, HOMBRES! Beware les camouflage. This, then, is the day. You ate so much turkey yesterday you feel that today you couldn't look a turkey in the face if you were paid for it. As for eating turkey hash—Oh, sacre nom d'une pipe! Quelle impossibilite! But beware, men, beware of the French ambush! You will go to the table saying firmly: "Now, nix on the turkey hash thing; I couldn't bear it." And you will be told with a smile: "Oh, dearie, today we have something you'll just love, Bonné Bouchée!" Arreté, non, non, non! Nom d'un nom d'un nom! Do you know what Bonné Bouchée is? TURKEY HASH! Quick then to the storm cave! Or you may be told that for dinner you will be regaled with Coute Esperance, or Fritadelles d'Oiseau or Réchauffé Andalouse or Salmis d'Oiseau or Poule d'Inde. Ah, non, non! You are betrayed! Do you know how each one of those diabolical things begins in the cook book? "Pick all the meat off the turkey left over from yesterday." Oui, oui, oui! TURKEY HASH. A la abri! A la abri! There is not a moment to lose! Allons, dépêchez-vous!

AND ONE THING to be thankful for, even though Thanksgiving day is over—we won't have to hear anything more about the Pilgrim Fathers for a year. We've heard so much about 'em the last two or three weeks that they're beginning to give us a distinct pain in the neck. R. H. L.

ARTHRITIS OF SPINE.

One of the most common disorders is chronic arthritis of the spine. While it has not much tendency to end life, it is a prolific source of incapacity and pain. The man who happens to be indulging in the disease goes to his physician for the relief of pain in almost every case. If the physician is alert enough to look beyond the immediate, to reject such diagnoses as chronic backache, rebellious lumbago, intractable sciatica, and to run the trouble back to its source, he is quite apt to advise the patient to immobilize the joints of his back.

To begin with, the patient is put to bed and advised not to sit up nor even to twist and squirm. At the same time treatment by physiotherapy, such as different kinds of heat and light, baths, and rubs, is advised. This is good so far as it goes. In many cases the symptoms continue in spite of this treatment. The physician then advises that the back be immobilized. To accomplish this he may put on a plaster cast or a corset or bandage of some sort. When this is done the object is to hold the back stiff and prevent pinching of nerves during the weeks or months required for the affected joints to fuse and ossify, converting a chain of bones into one more or less fused bone.

The physician may advise that an operation be done, and thus the inflamed bones be fastened together in an hour rather than by a process lasting months.

This treatment of chronic arthritis is the best we have for chronic, obstinate cases involving the lower back, but it has its drawbacks when the seat of the trouble is in the backbone of the chest region. When located there the bow of that region is made very much sharper; the shoulders, neck, and head come forward and the upper part of the body is bent on the abdomen. In that location the ribs cannot work up and down in respiration as they should, and the lungs, heart, liver, and stomach are crowded until their work is embarrassed.

So far as the treatment of the disease in the spinal column is concerned there is nothing for it but to do all we can to promote the growing together of the bones and the solidifying of the column. But what must be done, just in so far as that is possible, is to have them grow together with the least possible amount of curve. Everything must be done to prevent the body from stooping and doubling.

Rest in bed is the best of all measures, but it has its limitations. No man wants to give up and go to bed for life, or even for a few years, feeling as well and capable as most of these persons are.

To relieve the curving and promote fusing in a nearly straight position, patients exercise in suspensory apparatus such as is used in applying plaster casts to the chest or in other back straightening apparatus. Drs. L. T. Swaim and J. G. Kuhns have some of them wear plaster jackets or posterior shell jackets. These jackets hold the abdomen in, prevent curving in that region and also in the chest region, and lift some of the weight from the upper spine.

Another part of their method is to have the patient lie on a bed or table with a pillow under his back. At first a small pillow is used, then a larger one. The effort is to correct the forward curving of the neck, shoulders, and upper back. While this is done exercises to lift the ribs are given.

LARGE BUNION.

H. W. writes: I have a bunion on one f t which isn't painful, but it is very large. Is there any possible way one can get rid of it?

REPLY.

If all pressure and rubbing are stopped some of the thickening will disappear. Holding the toes straight and wearing broad shoes are two methods of reducing pressure and rubbing. Removing sesamoids is another. In some cases the superfluous bone is cut away.

TEA AND CHILDREN.

Mrs. W. E. B. writes: Is drinking tea and coffee injurious t children 7 and 5 years old?

REPLY.

It is. The beverage for children is water. Buttermilk, milk, and skim milk are foods with some place as beverages.

PROBABLY THE THYROID.

R. H. G. writes: What gland is about three inches from the point of the chin and directly below the jaw bone?

REPLY:

NOT INJURIOUS.

B. L. B. writes: Is it injurious to take a warm tub bath or warm shower during the monthly period?

REPLY:

No.

REPAIRS ORDERED.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—I regret finding it necessary to again inform you that the auto parts firm opposite us have stacked old iron very dangerously near the fence by the sidewalk. The rotten wood fence will break any time and whoever is walking on the sidewalk will be buried under old iron. Many young children play there daily unaware of this danger. In December, 1931, you investigated this and they cleared the iron away at once. Since June, 1932, they have disregarded your warning. Your interest in removing this great danger will be highly appreciated. C. B. B.

The owner has been notified to move junk back from fence line and to straighten up and repair fence. This order will be enforced

MORTGAGE DEFAULT.

Cicero, Ill., Nov. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a business property. I am doing business there for my living and have a first and second mortgage. The first mortgage is being foreclosed. I would like to know if the people that hold the second mortgage [1] can sell our stock so that they get their money. 2. Would it be better to sell it to my daughter, who is of age, or have the papers rewritten under her name so that I could still go on making a living in the business? L. B. M.

1. Presumably your stock is personal property. If they have a chattel mortgage then they would be in a position to sell the stock in case of your default.

2. Any such transfer could be set aside as a fraud on your existing creditors.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT

JUDGMENT BY DEFAULT.

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I received a legal notice and don't understand the following: 1. Said defendants are required to answer said petition on the 22d day of November or judgment will be taken against them. 2. To whom must I answer, the plaintiff's attorney or the judge of the Probate court? 3. Can't I have this action postponed and to whom must I apply? W. F.

1. This wording means that if you do not answer judgment will be entered against you by default.

2. If you wish to present a defense on the merits you should file a written appearance and a written answer in court.

3. By filing an appearance and answer you would have time before the case was reached for trial.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 25, 1916.

LONDON.—Virtually the whole of western Wallachia [southwest Rumania], with its 10,000 square miles, has fallen before the victorious sweep of Gen. von Falkenhayn's army of Germans and Bulgarians. They have captured Orsova, the Hungarian stronghold at the entrance of the Iron Gate of the Danube, and Turnu-Severin, a big shipbuilding center a few miles to the southeast at the exit of the "Gate." The Teutons today got off to a flying start on the second phase of their campaign—the advance on Bucharest, the Rumanian capital.

PARIS. — Entente forces on the Macedonian front are making progress in their attacks on the Germano-Bulgarian lines, the war office says. Gain of further ground during the continuation of the battle east of Monastir is claimed, while to the west the Italians, continuing their progress, have reached Nijipole.

WASHINGTON.—The failure of the volunteer system and of the recently enacted Hay law has brought the country face to face with the adoption of universal military training or of some effective approach thereto. President Wilson realizes the failure of the administration plans on the volunteer system and is veering toward universal military service for the benefit of the navy as well as the army. The army is now 26,000 men short of its present authorized peace strength, and even with a recruiting bonus of $5 a head paid to postmasters men cannot be found to fill the ranks.

CHICAGO.—Maude Allan's "Salome" has been barred from Chicago—the head of John the Baptist and all—by a police censorship that has extended from the movies to the stage. Mrs. James G. Noor, chairman of the committee on morals of the Woman's Church federation, told the committee that resolutions of thanks to the mayor and Chief of Police Healey have been passed by the federation.

ATLANTIC CITY.—Following the signing of a protocol by the joint American-Mexican commission, providing for the withdrawal of United States troops from Mexico, Secretary Franklin K. Lane, chairman of the American members, issued a statement defining the government's attitude toward Carranza and his country. The statement says the government will uphold Carranza if he is sensible of the duties of his nation to other nations, and continues: "Mexico will either do right without our help or with it. The choice is hers. We are to come out of Mexico as soon as we can decently and in order."

CHICAGO.—[By Mary Ridpath Mann.] — Eighty-three years ago tomorrow the first newspaper in Chicago was published. A red letter day in our history was Nov. 26, 1833, for on that day the Chicago Democrat was born. Here's to John Calhoun, its editor. The paper was not without its funny column, which contains the verdict of an Indian jury on John Tuston, an Indian who had been found frozen to death. The verdict read: "John Tuston died because of the freezing in his body of a large quantity of water which he had imprudently mixed with the rum he drank.

FROM GEN. CLINNIN.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—The recent political earthquake and tidal wave that engulfed the Republican party of the county, state, and nation has its compensations in the elimination of party leaders who have become antiquated, corrupt, or czaristic to such extent as to handicap the proper functioning of party machinery, suppress the ambitions of the younger groups, and make use of the party for personal aggrandizement, power, or profit. In Illinois the party name had become obscured by factions until its members answered roll call as Small-Republicans, Thompson-Republicans, Brundage-Republicans, Deneen-Republicans, etc.

The Democratic party must now respond to the voters of the United States by fulfilling its many pledges with no excuse for failure. A historical review of the accomplishments of the Democratic party discloses the fact that whenever it comes into power the south is in the saddle. This makes for sectional control of government, a situation which has never produced satisfactory results for the nation as a whole.

Our Democratic brethren have promised to repeal the 18th amendment. The south has voted dry and drunk wet. It will be interesting to see how they approach this subject. It will require a resolution adopted by a two-thirds vote of both the senate and house and ratified by 36 states of the Union. In the ordinary course of events this procedure will take from two to three years to accomplish and thirteen states may overthrow the repeal amendment. The voters of the United States will not tolerate delay due to party strife or logrolling, and failure to act with dispatch will bring a merited rebuke from the voters.

A program of relief for the farmer and unemployed will require the cooperation of all the nations of the world, settlement of war debts, tariff adjustments, reduction of armaments, and trade agreements. The best brains of the United States must be called upon to solve these problems and the department of state must arrange the international conferences and conduct the negotiations abroad.

Sectional leadership will fail to meet the requirements of these stupendous tasks. The party in power must answer to the voting public if they fail. As Americans, we hope for the success of the new administration, which means prosperity and happiness for our country and its people.

The Republican party is like unto an army that has been disastrously defeated and routed. The survivors must reorganize, recruit, and, under efficient and capable leadership, attack and retrieve the losses sustained. The confidence of the American people must be regained. The principles of the Grand Old Party of a high protective tariff and sound money will prevail and restore prosperity under the administration of efficient, capable, and honest leadership.

Chicago, Cook county, and Illinois rejoice at the passing of Len Small, William Hale Thompson, and William Lorimer. No tears will be shed over their political tombs. We look forward to the dawn of a new day that will bring the sunshine of success to glorify the banners of the Republican party under the new leadership of truth, honesty, and progressive activity. JOHN V. CLINNIN.

THE WATERWAY.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—The federal government has loaned money to railroads to keep the roads from sinking in the mire, yet the present party in power favors the St. Lawrence waterway [at taxpayers' expense, of course], to compete with the roads. This is but one of the inconsistencies developed since the present political party went into power. Any level-minded person can forecast disaster to the rail carriers if this waterway, or any other waterway, is developed. The party going into power next March has the opportunity to taboo for ever and a day the construction of this waterway. Will they so act? It remains to be seen. If rail carriers cannot thrive on present rates, how can they survive when they are compelled to reduce their rates, which will be necessary, if this foolish project becomes a competitor? M. P. KELLY.

A CHALLENGE WHICH WE HOPE WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Nov. 20.—I have been lined up with the G. A. Rs. of Benton Harbor and county battalion for the last 35 years and for the last five years as the commander of the post. From a membership of four or five hundred we have dwindled to a point where only the commander and one or two others show up. During these years only one of the post has passed the century line and checked in. The oldest now on the roll is in his 93d year and unable to answer roll call

I am challenging any man of my age, 87 years, to outrun, outjump, or kick higher than I can. I have not taken medicine nor had a doctor in over 50 years; have no stiff joints or lameness, keep interested in the affairs of the world. For the last 35 years I have been on a fruit farm. Was a printer in my earlier life in Bloomington and Chicago. C. B. HOLMES.

FARM RELIEF.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—If the President elect will investigate the farm relief racket, and then back legislation based on the advice of men who are honestly endeavoring to help agriculture, he will save himself from the fate of Hoover.

In spite of the farm vote repudiating the well paid relievers, the racketeers are now conniving to foist the allotment plan upon us, thus creating tens of thousands of new jobs for bureaucrats. The scheme is uneconomic and unworkable and just another step down the road of state socialism.

Wait until the commissars ride forth to tell Tom he cannot plant as much wheat as Dick and Harry. The farmers will howl, but the racketeers will be drawing their pay. F. L. SCHREINER.

MR. KRONE TELLS BARTENDERS TO GATHER AROUND

Proposes to Unionize 'Em at $12.50 a Head.

Nate Krone, 32 years old, 4662 West End avenue, firm in the belief that legal beer is about to return, set out to gather speakeasy bartenders into a union at a minimum of $12.50 a head. He was interrupted in his work by police shortly before midnight Wednesday as he explained the advantages of unionism to a waiter in the B. & B. restaurant, 4358 Harrison street.

Taken to the detective bureau by Sergt. Thomas Murphy, Krone was identified as "Sergt. Willie," gunman, extortionist, forger and vagrant. Two muscle men, who had started to enter the restaurant to add force to the sales talk of Krone, changed their minds and departed when Sergt. Murphy appeared.

Indignant Over Arrest.

Krone was indignant over the arrest and produced documents to show that he is an authorized business agent of the Beverage and Soda Dispensers' union, local 278, with headquarters at 227 West Madison street. Also found in his pocket was his business motto inscribed on a card. It read: "He who hesitates—Give him more sales talk."

"It was this way," Krone explained to Chief of Detectives Schoemaker. "One hundred of the boys gathered in the union hall on Oct. 17 and acclaimed me a business agent. They told me I was on the pay roll at $50 a week and gave me a chauffeur. They knew that I am a good man. I took the chauffeur and rode around town. When we would see a place that looked shady I would say, 'There is a soft drink parlor, let us stop.' I would interview the men and put them on my book."

Offers Memberships.

He explained that when he was mistaken as to the nature of the business place he entered, as in the case of the restaurant in which he was arrested, he was authorized to offer memberships to waiters or soda workers.

Police scanned the book in which Krone entered the results of his efforts. They found the name of Mickey Rafferty, once owner of a Forest Park cafe, listed with the notation "Won't come in." Rocco Vallo was described as "too tough," and other notations read: "Give him time," "See later," "A woman!" and "Can't get in." The letters "G. O. B." in the book meant that the owner was going out of business, Krone explained, and "X. X. X." meant that Krone was "getting the run around."

The notation "Will give $150 when beer comes back" caught the eye of Chief Schoemaker.

Just an Extra Good Man.

"I thought you said that the first fee was $12.50," he remarked to Krone.

"O, yes," the business agent explained, "but that was an extra good man."

George McLane, remembered by police as an old timer in the bartenders' union and listed as financial secretary of the Krone organization, appeared at the bureau seeking the release of Krone.

"Sure," he told Chief Schoemaker, "we employed this guy and we've got a charter. It's so old I've forgotten what's in it."

Sergt. Murphy was instructed to visit the union headquarters Monday morning to view the charter. Meanwhile Krone was held for further investigation.

Krone, whose police record goes back to 1925, has been arrested on extortion and vagrancy charges under the alias of "Sergt. Willie." Police said that he adopted the name and posed as a policeman while working with a woman in attempted shake down plots. Krone was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction in 1925 on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

CLUBS NEIGHBOR IN QUARREL OVER HOW TO RUN FARM

In an argument over farm problems William Letts, 40 years old, owner of a 13 acre farm a mile west of West Chicago, was struck over the head with a shotgun yesterday by his neighbor, John Smitt, 38 years old, a Canadian war veteran. Letts was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Aurora where his condition was said to be critical.

The Letts and the Smitts had had Thanksgiving dinner at the Lett's home. After the dinner another neighbor, Robert Hemingway, was invited in to share a jug of liquor. When Smitt explained how a farm should be worked Letts disagreed.

Smitt went to his home and returned with a shotgun, which he aimed at Letts. Hemingway intervened, but before he could seize the gun Smitt struck Letts. Smitt was taken to the DuPage county jail at Wheaton. When told of the critical condition of his neighbor Smitt said, "I'm glad of it. He's too dumb to be a farmer."

TRIES TO END HIS LIFE.

James Wilson, 23 years old, 1 West Walton street, an unemployed cook, took a large dose of sleeping powder yesterday and admitted to police that he had intended to end his life. He will probably recover, it was said at the county hospital.

CHARGE MORTON HIGH PAY ROLL IS OVERLOADED

Audit of School Books to Be Demanded.

Charges were made yesterday that the trustees of the J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero have stuffed the pay roll with "house dicks" and janitors recently despite the fact that they have not paid the teachers and employes in cash since Dec. 24 of last years. Since that pay day the employes have been offered tax anticipation warrants, which some of them have sold at a heavy discount.

As a result of the employment of the special policemen, of whom there are said to be about forty, the 8,000 students at the school are in revolt. That they have won at least a temporary victory is indicated by the fact that school authorities on Wednesday announced that they had warned the guards not to touch the pupils, even though they should be provoked by the students.

Charges Overloaded Staff.

George A. Works, secretary of the commission on higher education of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, said that an audit of the school's books by an independent concern last June revealed that the janitorial staff was twice as large as needed. He said he had received reports that the cafeteria, which the students are boycotting because of alleged high prices and poor food, was also overstaffed.

Mr. Works asserted that he had evidence that the school board had arbitrarily hired certain teachers without consulting the superintendent, H. V. Church, regarding their qualifications or fitness.

"A number of these teachers were not qualified," said Mr. Works.

The association's commission and the school board will hold a conference on Dec. 5 to ascertain whether the school shall be continued as accredited.

Audit to be Demanded.

An audit of the books and pay roll records will be demanded, Chester Bragg, Berwyn real estate man, announced. Parents have discovered, he said, that many of the guards "are hoodlums and former saloonkeepers."

Frank Svoboda, president of the school board, contended that there was no foundation for the charges against the institution. He termed them political propaganda. He said that four teachers "responsible for instigating the agitation" would be discharged.

GETS FREE DINNER, LEARNS OF INHERITED WEALTH TOO LATE

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Richard W. Pauley wandered into the Midnight mission here today for a free Thanksgiving dinner, three months too late to claim an English inheritance. He is 61 years old, a shoestring peddler, and an invalid.

Mrs. Mary Covell, secretary of the mission, forgets the names of the lawyers who were inquiring for Pauley three months ago, but she will write to English probate courts.

"We couldn't find Pauley when the lawyers asked about him," she said. "It seems a brother died in London and left him a small fortune."

Pauley said that would be his brother Edwin.

"I heard he made a lot of money from a new gasoline process," he explained. "I used to support a wife and four children, but I couldn't hold a steady job after I became an invalid."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Joseph Voldarsky, 29 year old economist for the Russian Oil Products company, pleaded guilty to a charge of corruption today and was fined $250 in a police court. The costs totalled $260. He was accused of giving Marcus Weinstein $20 in exchange for information concerning the Shell-Mex Oil company. If the fine is not paid, the Russian will serve 31 days in jail and the question of deportation will be left to the home office. If he had been sent to a criminal court and sentenced, deportation would have been automatic.

Painleve Faints in French Chamber During Debate

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Former Premier Paul Painleve fainted in the chamber of deputies today as he completed a long speech in reply to an interpellation regarding charges of fraud in the affairs of the Aero-Postale company. He was revived quickly but was still too exhausted to continue the debate and Premier Herriot took his place. His momentary weakness was attributed to fatigue from overwork.

CARRYING GUNS ON WANE, POLICE SEIZURES SHOW

100 Fewer Taken This Year than in 1931.

An annual reduction of 100 in the number of guns taken from hoodlums or found by police was noted yesterday in the tabulations of the gun section of the detective bureau, a department under close supervision of Chief of Detectives Schoemaker. A total of 1,117 firearms had been confiscated from Jan. 1 to yesterday, which represents a falling off of 100 from the same period last year.

The report was made to Chief Schoemaker by Sergts. Frank Ballou and George Woodworth. Sergt. Ballou is the police department's ballistics expert and Sergt. Woodworth conducts many of the examinations made of each person seized carrying a gun.

The figures for November have not yet been classified, but for the ten months ended Nov. 1 1,024 confiscated firearms were classified as follows: found on persons, 474; found in automobiles, 167; found in houses, 270; abandoned, 113.

Trace History of Weapons.

The gun section investigates each person found with a gun, and all discarded weapons are taken to the division headquarters where every effort is made to trace them. Sergt. Ballou is regarded as an expert in the science of restoring, identifying numbers on defaced revolvers and has utilized this acid process in 25 cases where convictions for gun toting have resulted.

All policemen arresting persons with weapons send them to the gun section where a case history is taken. These records have been found valuable in the past.

For the first five months of the year, the tabulations show that 607 persons were arrested for carrying guns. The case disposal sheets reveal that 414 of these were convicted of carrying concealed weapons or other crimes, 141 were discharged, 45 were give nprobation, and the charges against the remaining 7 were nolle prossed. Among those discharged, Sergt. Ballou noted, were those misguided strangers in the city who came bearing arms for self-protection.

Officers of the gun section have noted that about 35 per cent of those arrested are Negroes, a majority of whom have criminal records.

Tell Reasons for Guns.

The reasons given by persons arrested for carrying weapons were included in the tabulations. Many gave the excuse that they were on their way to pawn the guns. Some, notably Negro men, claimed they won them in crap games, while others used the subterfuge that they had been "threatened" and have revolvers for protection. One old Negro told Sergt. Woodworth that he was in constant fear of being maimed by an automobile and had a gun to put himself "out of misery" if that occurred.

EGG CONTRIBUTES MAGICAL EFFECT TO PLAIN DISH

Color and Flavor Are Definitely Rich.

BY MARY MEADE.

The story is told of a resourceful French cook who astounded her mistress as well as the guests by serving, at the end of a formal dinner, eggs in egg cups for a dessert course. But when the surprised guests, continental fashion, chipped the tops off the eggs they found a delicious, smooth chilled custard. The cook had blown the egg meat out of the shells through a tiny hole, had used the eggs to make the custard which she filled back into the shells with a tiny paper funnel or pastry tube tin and then had chilled the filled eggs. Entertaining to serve, but more work than the American homemaker will take time to do, except, perhaps, on special occasions.

But aside from such specialties the platform on which French cooking draws votes is "Eggs first, last, and all the time." Give a French cook a bowl of eggs, some milk, flour, sugar, and salt and she will turn out a whole meal, course after delectable course. She uses eggs for appetizers, eggs for salads, eggs for entrées, and eggs for desserts. Literally "French cookery rests on an egg."

Perform Magic with Eggs.

Egg tricks can perform magic with plain dishes. Take, for example, soup. Almost any cream soup is made infinitely richer in flavor and appearance simply by stirring in a beaten egg yolk just before serving. Spoonfuls of the egg white, beaten to fluffiness with a tablespoon of catsup, are dropped as a garnish on each dish of soup.

As for salads, there are the various combinations of hard cooked eggs, deviled eggs, and sliced eggs with green pepper rings, jellied spinach, and fresh vegetables. Have you tried stuffing dates with finely mashed hard cooked egg yolk? Put the egg mixture into the dates with a pastry tube, arrange a half stuffed egg on one side of the plate and a few stuffed dates in a semi-circle beside the egg, garnish with dressing, and you have a meal salad.

Simple Decorative Salad.

One of the most decorative salads we have seen was ridiculously simple but perfect in flavor. The ingredients were finely chopped celery, green pepper, pimento, hard cooked egg whites, and egg yolks which have been put through a sieve. On a flat bed of finely shredded lettuce there was a diagonal mound, running all the way across the center of the plate, of chopped egg white. On one side, adjoining the egg whites, was a similar but narrower mound of chopped green pepper. On the opposite side was the chopped pimento, and next to the pimento and to the pepper were rows of chopped celery. At each end was a golden mound of fluffy egg yolk that had been put through a sieve. The dressing was mayonnaise with which a little Roquefort had been blended. One guest called it bouquet salad because of its gay color effect.

This being an "r" month, how about combining eggs with oysters? Scallop them together. Hard cooked eggs sliced will make one oyster do the work of three or four, for eggs have an ingratiating way of identifying themselves with other delicious and often more expensive flavors. Here is a recipe that makes mouths water just to hear about it.

SCALLOPED EGGS AND OYSTERS.

3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter
1¼ cups milk
4 hard cooked eggs, sliced
½ pint oysters
½ cup buttered crumbs
1 tablespoon minced parsley
¾ teaspoon salt

Make a white sauce of the first three ingredients. Add the parsley. Cover the bottom of a buttered baking dish with a thin layer of the sauce. Arrange a layer of sliced eggs, then a layer of oysters, and another of eggs. Pour the remainder of the sauce over all, sprinkle the top with the crumbs, and bake in hot oven for about fifteen minutes (425 degrees F.) or until the crumbs are brown. This serves six.

As for eggs in desserts, how is one to choose from an alluring list beginning with quivery golden custards, mammoth cream puffs and eclairs, and running all the way to snowy angel foods and melt-in-your-mouth meringues? But if you want a dessert that for the price of ten or fifteen minutes of your time will make your reputation as a chef, start with a plain sponge cake, uniced, and one egg. Cut the cake, which you have made or bought, lengthwise into halves as for making a sandwich. Separate the egg, putting the white into a bowl with a half cup of your favorite jelly and, if you wish, a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Beat the egg white and jelly until the mixture holds its shape, spread some of it on the lower half of the cake, put on the upper half, and ice all over with the mixture. Serve in slices.

Household Hints

Brown sugar and molasses have greater health value than white sugar.

Beef and pig liver are cheap and, for food value, equal the more expensive calf liver.

Cleanliness, a well balanced diet, and the observance of health habits, make good looking hair and skin and a generally pleasing appearance.

Vitamins are more strictly regulatory and are often defined as the "spark" which enables the body to make the best use of the other foodstuffs.

Apfel Kuchen Among Reasons Germans Lead as Apple Eaters

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Time was when the apple barrel was a great American institution. With the first hint of cold weather there was hardly a householder who did not get his barrel of apples along with a load of wood and bushels of potatoes to see him through the winter.

No need for "Apple a Day" slogans then. From November to strawberry time, apples were practically the only fresh fruit which graced the average table. Oranges were luxuries which made their appearance only at Thanksgiving and Christmas. Bananas and grapefruit were curiosities.

In that day of coal or wood burning stoves the handy young man about the house found a trip down cellar for firewood could be converted into a pleasure haunt by the simple expedient of a detour to the apple barrel. What wonder that almost every poet of the homespun era sang the praises of "the crimson apple's winey juice!"

Apple Barrel Now Legend.

Now the apple barrel has gone out with the oil lamp and the backyard pump, while oranges are every breakfast occurrences. But exotic tropical fruit has not been able to eclipse the apple with its old fashioned virtues.

To prove how much apple eating goes on nowadays statisticians have figured out that every person in the United States consumes normally 52 pounds of apples a year. Only France and Germany outrank Americans, but probably not for long, if doctors and advertisers continue their campaigns. For this country grows one-third of the world's supply, annually exporting more than 15,000,000 bushels.

Still, with Germany the leading apple consumer, we might do worse than take a leaf from their cook books, preferably a leaf telling how to make apfel kuchen.

APFEL KUCHEN.

4 teaspoons baking powder.
4 teaspoons butter.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
6 to 8 juicy apples.
1 egg.
¾ cups milk.
¼ cup sugar.
½ teaspoou salt.

Make a crust by sifting flour and baking powder together, cutting in the butter and adding salt, beaten egg, and sweet milk to make a soft dough. Turn the dough out into a greased baking tin. Cover with apples cut into eighths and sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar. Bake in a rather quick oven (400 degrees F.) till crust and apples are both a light brown. Sprinkle with more sugar, keep in oven five minutes more and then serve. Eight servings.

Apple Pies Over Wood Fire.

Any one who remembers the apple pies which were produced over those wood fires of yesteryear probably will resent the first position accorded another apple concoction. Here is a recipe recommended by a cook who even now clings to her wood burning stove.

APPLE PIE.

3 cups flour.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 cup lard.
9 apples.
2 cups sugar.
1 teaspoon nutmeg.
2 teaspoons butter.

Mix lard, flour, adding cold water as needed, place in cold place. Pare apples, line tin with crust rolled thin, fill with apples, sprinkle with sugar, nutmeg, add butter in clots. Add top crust, moistening edges with water, perforate with fork, bake 1 hour in moderate oven.

Old Reliable Baked Apple.

A new combination which deserves wide publicity is baked apple, the kind which simmers in its own jelly, crowned with ice cream. It is just a little bit better than baked apple with ordinary cream, and should delight all apple lovers with sweet tooths. Almost as good is apple sauce with ice cream.

TURKEY HASH OR CHOP SUEY? FAIR QUESTION

Old Reliable Has Rival in Yankee Homes.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

The grand feast is over and now only a vestige of the Thanksgiving dinner is left. Perhaps there are a few scraps of meat left on the turkey and maybe a little cranberry jelly, a few stalks of celery and an apple or two that survived the onslaught of the holiday guests. "Left overs" probably is the proper name for these bits, but that almost seems too commonplace for the remnants of such a gala feast.

Today they'll again take their places in the menu, but in different guises. The extra vegetables and fruits probably will go into salads for dinner tonight and another meal also will be forthcoming from the turkey, if there is enough left.

Hash or Chop Suey.

Of course, what's left of the turkey always can be used in the old standby, hash, and the skeleton of the bird with a little meat clinging to it can be transformed into the traditional post-Thanksgiving soup. But this time we have something different to suggest for the turkey remains—chop suey. It will change the idea around enough so even though it's chief competent is a "left over" it will make a brand new dish. It's made as follows:

2 cups roast turkey, minced
1 cup mixed Chinese vegetables
1 cup diced celery
1 tablespoon molasses
2 tablespoons soy sauce
Onions or mushrooms if desired

Cook the celery and onions [if used] in skillet until nearly done. Add cooked turkey and mixed vegetables, except bean sprouts, slicing water chestnuts and bamboo shoots. In a separate pan thicken a little meat stock or water with flour or corn starch. Mix with molasses and sauce and add with bean sprouts to above mixture. Serve with hot rice.

Perhaps as Soufflé.

One can also change a chicken souffle recipe to use with turkey.

1 cup milk
1 cup veal broth
Half bay leaf
Sprig parsley
1 slice onion
2 slices carrot
6 tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
3 eggs
1½ cups finely minced turkey
3 chopped mushrooms, sauted [may be omitted]
3 tablespoons butter.

Simmer the milk, broth, bay leaf, parsley, onion, and carrot ten minutes. Strain out vegetables. Melt butter. Add flour, salt, and pepper and blend well, then add strained liquid. Remove from fire and add yolks, well beaten. Stir until well blended. Cool, then add turkey and mushrooms, then the whites with the greatest care. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven [300 degrees F.] about 40 minutes. Serve immediately with mushroom sauce made of thickened broth and mushroom sauce.

INDIA MELON MAY SAVE INDUSTRY IN IMPERIAL VALLEY

Another plant disease has been checked and an apparently worthless muskmelon from far off India has revived the hopes of muskmelon growers in the Imperial valley in California.

Although the fruit from the far east tasted bad, had little sweetness, and was not adapted for shipping, it had one redeeming feature: it was unaffected by powdery mildew, the disease which threatened the whole Imperial valley muskmelon industry.

Plant breeders discovered the Indian plant in 1928 in a world-wide search for disease resisting varieties. By crossing it with one of the leading varieties grown in the valley the breeders got two strains, which were tested commercially for the first time this year and which promise to resist the melon disease successfully. The new varieties should be commercially available by 1933.

DON'T TRIFLE WITH COMMON CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation gets its grip on a person almost unawares. It often starts with such little things. Headaches. Listlessness. Bad complexion. Unpleasant breath. If unchecked, it may seriously impair your health.

Fortunately, you can avoid this danger by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of iron for the blood.

Biological tests demonstrate that the "bulk" in bran is similar to that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than taking unpleasant patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Serious cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

CHEFS TO REVEAL ART OF PREPARING MEALS AT SHOW

Food Exposition to Open Monday.

Being a real chef is serious business! And, at the second Salon of Culinary Arts, to be held in conjunction with the National Food, Cookery, and Allied Trades exposition at the Palmer house, beginning Monday and lasting all week, the public will have a real opportunity to see just why.

About 100 of Chicago's best, as well as chefs from other central states cities, will compete in the exposition. At least thirty silver cups will be awarded. Even the French government is taking a hand in the matter and sending along a silver medal.

Food, food supplies, equipment, and appurtenances relating to food handling, food preparation, and food service will constitute the exhibition. Kitchen ranges, bake ovens, and refrigeration will be on display.

The stockyards, all important grocery houses, and hotels will be represented. A meat cutting contest will take place. Mysteries involved in the boning of fowl and fish will be revealed.

There will be hot dishes, cold dishes; pastry, confectionery, birthday cake, wedding cake, and christening cake. A complete buffet table, necessitating excellent taste in decoration, as well as in food, will be a feature of the show. Another will be quite enchanting when pieces of ice, because of a chisel professionally wielded, become lovely creations of transparent delicacy.

Vegetable Prices Are Lowest They Have Been in Many Years

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Vegetable cookery may be one of the oldest of the culinary arts but it still remains one of the best tests of why the queen of the kitchen, or it may be the king, retains a job and popularity. For in vegetable cookery one deals with color, taste, texture, and food value just as much as is the case with meats, pastries, or confections.

The price of vegetables leads to an increased use of them in devious ways, according to market wholesale dealers. They find they must look back decades to find an equal to the present general low range on potatoes, cabbage, celery, onions, rutabagas, carrots, turnips, garlic, horse radish, leaf lettuce, and squash.

Adopt Package System.

Potato and onion growers looking for a new way to attract customers to their wares have adopted a new packaging system. For the housewife buying a supply for a week or two weeks at a time, the 10 and 15 pound sacks of onions and the peck sacks of selected baking and boiling potatoes offer such a supply at reasonable prices.

In preparing vegetables the experts assert that the more palatable and digestible they are the better the cook, except that with certain of the vegetables such as rutabagas, cabbage, tomatoes, peas, peppers, carrots, and beets, the retention of the natural color means nearly as much at the table.

Carrots and cabbage hold most health value when eaten raw, experiments have shown. When they are to be cooked, the shorter the cooking period the more vitamins, food value, and natural color remain. For cabbage the cooking period recommended ranges between 10 to 15 minutes. "And leave the lid off the pan when you cook it or the cabbage odor will spread all over the house," warns Misss Foley of Massachusetts State college.

Explains Why.

That bit of advice would seem to be twisted to a layman, but a simple explanation of what transpires in the cooking kettle is sufficient proof that the kettle lid should be off. Steam generated in cooking is the agent which releases odors and helps form acids which take out the vegetable colors.

The few vegetables whose color is best retained by cooking with a lid on the kettle are those of a red hue. Whereas hard water for cooking helps retain the color for green vegetables, soft water helps retain the red in vegetables. The latter also keep their rouge better when a teaspoon of vinegar is added to the cooking liquid.

120 Cuts Will Show What Is New.

That there are 1932 styles in meats as in clothes and autos thousands of housewives of Chicago and the central states will discover when they see the special meat exhibits that are to be a feature of the International Livestock exposition to open tomorrow in International Amphitheater at 41st and Halsted streets.

The display of 120 different cuts of beef, lamb, veal, and pork to be seen in huge refrigerated glass enclosures, will represent the very latest in what the housewife should serve her family and her guests. The display will be open Sunday and all next week, without extra charge to all who attend the world's largest agricultural display and the horse shows.

Fancy meat cuts will be on display as well as many economical cuts—disguised neatly and made highly edible.

The exhibit is supplied by the meat packers of Chicago, known the world over as the source of meat styles. It is prepared by specialists in carving from the National Live Stock and Meat board, which also is supplying recipe booklets picturing the new meat styles.

Cuts of Pork, Smoked Hams Economical Meat Buys

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago states:

"All cuts of fresh and smoked pork are recommended to the housewives of Chicago as unusually economical meat buys over the coming week-end. Pork shoulder roast and smoked hams are especially attractive bargains at the present time."

Antoinette Donnelly Tells How Noted Beauties Keep Charm

Nathan Offers Vivid Views of Noted Authors

"Intimate Notebooks" Divided Into Four Parts.

"Reading, Writing and Remembering," by E. V. Lucas. [Harpers.]

GEORGE JEAN NATHAN, who is an extraordinarily prolific critical writer (his works in book form number around twenty volumes already), has set down in the present book his pet prides and prejudices, both as to critical estimates and judgment of literary personalities.

G. J. NATHAN.

The note books are divided into four sections. The first section deals with literary personalities, the second with criticism and its modern manifestations in America and abroad, the third with "Theatrical Opinions," which includes various trends here and abroad in the theater, and the last section with the author's intimate views on many aspects of life and morals of the twentieth century.

E. V. LUCAS.

Many, in fact most, readers will probably prefer the first section because of the author's vivid and close ranged interpretations of his friends. Mr. Nathan writes stimulatingly and entertainingly on the quirks and oddities of famous American authors.

Sinclair Lewis (known to intimates as "Red") with his amazing "speechifying" that usually contains the germ for a new novel, his fondness for absolutely incalculable conduct; Theodore Dreiser and his weakness for budding geniuses that never seem to do more than bud; Eugene O'Neil, as morose as his books, known to have laughed twice in his life; H. L. Mencken ("Heinie" and "Menck" to Mr. Nathan), the author's most intimate friend, always sick unto death with some horrible malady that he takes page after page to describe in the most heart breaking detail in every letter, responsible for hundreds of pranks whose wildness is becoming tamed with the years; Ernest Boyd, who makes a specialty of knowing the foibles and fancies, whether printable or not, of the literary great; Clarence Darrow, brilliant and kind and real; Jim Tully, with his "heart of gold" interior, all these men are Mr. Nathan's inspiring and inspired friends who have captured his devotion, affection and humor.

Brilliantly, with sympathy and the sort of humor that will make even the most solemn reader hold his aching side, George Jean Nathan catches the spirit and personality of every man he presents.

The rest of the book will not call forth the same unanimity of approval. George Jean Nathan, avowedly, has made it his purpose in life to enrage people so that they will think for themselves. The other sections of the book partly represent honest, appreciative criticism, partly a frankly snorting, scornful and pugnacious attitude, and partly wise, penetrating and constructive criticism, and will not, whatever else does happen, leave the reader intellectually languid.

E. V. Lucas's volume of memoirs is a personal record of a full and long life. From the time of his early childhood to the end of his world tour, which is given full appreciation in another book, the author rambles through English literature, meeting and becoming intimate with many of the distinguished men of his era, quietly and generously interpreting men and events.

George Meredith, Sir James Barrie, Ellen Terry, H. G. Wells, Arnold Bennett, George Moore, Joseph Conrad, Algernon Swinburne, Max Beerbohm, Thomas Hardy, Edmund Gosse, Rudyard Kipling, Edward Fitzgerald, Edward Garnett, Mark Twain, Clement Shorter are among the hundreds after hundreds of friends E. V. Lucas has made during his fruitful lifetime. And they all appear in these pages.

The narrative is slow moving, informal, as mellow and ironical and kindly as only a man who has lived richly can make it. The activities of the literary people in the last part of the last century, their books, their personal and professional habits, occupy about half of this book.

Humorous enterprises in which the genial Mr. Lucas has a hand are always given an extra large number of pages in his memoir. There is nothing startling in his revelations of his artistic and literary friends; the revelations are conventional, mildly interesting and not particularly memorable.

E. V. Lucas, besides writing down his friends' and his age, also draws a vivid picture of himself. Kindly, tolerant, extremely humorous, intelligent, beloved by many people, E. V. Lucas is incapable of venom or meanness. His memoirs put down in no uncertain terms the leisurely and gentle processes of his ineradicably British spirit and intellect. M. D.

Parisienne Likes Touch of Violet on Black Frock

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—A touch of violet, lavender, or orchid is what gives charm and sophistication to the simple black frock that Parisiennes are wearing. The black frock without mitigation can be super-chic or the last word in dowdiness, but when a bit of violet is applied, and well applied, the chic is fixed.

Dull surfaced woolen frocks that Mirande is making for her fashionable clients have a bit of violet at the belt, and a cluster of these flowers, rendered also in velvet, tucked into the belt. This is the cleverest way to apply that color to black that I have seen anywhere in Paris.

The frock shown today uses this accessory color. It is made of transparent black wool and cut simply, with a straight, long sleeved blouse and a slightly flared, two gore skirt. Crescent shaped tucks in clusters of four give a yoke effect to the top of the skirt, and are also placed around the armholes of the sleeves. The revers at the front of the bodice are of black velvet, and they may be buttoned over to make a high neckline on buttons of violet colored crystal or they may be worn open, as shown, revealing a black lace dickey.

"The Voyage of a Submarine Columbus" is the title of a lecture, illustrated with motion pictures, to be given at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by Brayton Eddy of Providence, R. I., in the James Simpson theater of the Field museum. The film includes pictures of corals building islands, lobsters disrobing, archers catching flies with water pistols.

Three motion pictures for children will be presented at 10 and 11 o'clock tomorrow morning in the James Simpson theater. The films to be shown are "Giants of the Grass Family," "Down Cape Cod," and "The Pilgrims." "Marine Animals" is the subject of a guide-lecture tour to be presented in the museum on Monday.

Santa Claus to Stage Parade to Open State Street Toyland

Tomorrow a Great Big Day for All Youngsters and Those Oldsters Who Like Christmas.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

TOMORROW morning Santa Claus opens his newest North Pole substation—State street and all the toy shops and stores on this famous street—with a gigantic parade and music and all the extra frills and fanfare that usually surround such a momentous occasion.

State street and all the stores will be dressed in red and green and tinsel for the affair, all the windows will be filled with exciting new ideas, with dolls, toys, and the thousands of attractive gifts that have been unpacked for the greatest shopping season of the year.

While this parade of toys is generally conceded to have been planned exclusively for young fry, parents are not barred provided they stand very much in the background, and the unlucky person without a chick or child of her own can borrow from the neighbors or from any obliging institution.

If you really want a thrill of a lifetime, collect a crowd of enthusiastic small people, fill up your car, and swoop down on the loop tomorrow morning and watch the fun.

Will Make You Christmas Conscious.

If you are not Christmas conscious or toy minded after this gala day then nothing can revive the old lump-in-the-throat thrill of the days when you flattened your nose permanently against the toy filled windows of the biggest toy shop in town.

Until you have watched a few thousand children actually spellbound and strangely silent and goggle eyed over the antics of a huge rubber clown . . . until you have heard the shrill screams of thrilled boys and girls, all whooping with joy over the animated Humpty Dumpty that careens down State street; until you have seen small eyes open wide with awe and dazed unbelief when Cinderella and her glass slipper and the pumpkin coach and fairy godmother roll past on a float, you have, we insist, seen nothing, and, at that, just the half of it all.

This parade is all toys, all parading figures come from favorite nursery jingles and fairy tales, books and fireside stories. It is a parade showing the news of Toyland, to remind you that every conceivable kind of a toy or doll is available in every toy department in town. Complicated toys, simple tops, games, trains, dolls, and puzzles, whatever your offspring dream about, are to be found this year in abundant displays.

New Toys Made For Hard Use.

It seems rather irrelevant to intrude with information about price tags, but this good news should be broadcast . . . never have prices been lower and never have toys been sturdier. Christmas toy shoppers should also cheer merrily for this news—nearly all toys this year are made in America, by Americans that know, perhaps a bit better than any one else, the rough and ready proclivities of the American infant. Consequently the home made toys are made to weather successfully the wildest hurricanes of the noisiest nurseries.

It's silly to stay away from the stores on Saturdays . . . you can park your offspring in the toy departments, under the vigilant care of an experienced play supervisor . . . you can stay away for hours, do all your own shopping, and call for your child much later, a greatly amused and interested youngster who probably will protest loudly at the departure.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright: 1932: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try you wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

THE PROFESSOR INVESTIGATES.

What a dull, dreary day mused Prof. Fordney as with a grimace he removed a burr from the knee of his left trouser leg and surveyed the weedy and neglected lawn closely surrounding the house. Kneeling down he looked into a cellar window and observed a man putting the basement in order.

Why didn't he answer my knocks, thought Fordney as he walked around, opened the kitchen door and descended the steps. The man looked up at his visitor with a vacant expression. The professor's smiling blue eyes and cheerful countenance were most disarming as he said, "I'd like any information you can give me about that diamond bracelet, Towers."

"I told Inspector Kelley all I know. I was down here working and heard two men outside talking about a robbery . . . I don't suppose they thought any one lived in this desolate looking place. They were sitting over there on that stump just a couple of yards away and I could hear them plainly. In a few minutes they left. A little later I looked out again and saw the bracelet lying on the ground near the stump. They must have dropped it, and that's the truth, professor."

Fordney noticed how carefully the dirt floor below the high window had been raked. Quickly opening the door of the furnace, he remarked, "Come, now, you can't see out that window!"

"O, I stood on a box and . . . and later burned it," was the reply.

DO YOU AGREE?

[See solution on page 25.]

Engagement Told

MISS ROBERTA FISK HARVEY.

The engagement of Miss Roberta Fisk Harvey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hatfield Harvey of 340 Barry avenue, to Royal Cooper Vilas Jr. was announced yesterday at a Thanksgiving luncheon at the Harvey residence.

Mary Garden Hits Insull as Destroyer of Chicago's Opera

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Mary Garden came back to America on the liner Manhattan today expressing sorrow that the Chicago Civic Opera was no more, and anger at Samuel Insull, who was its head.

"He has destroyed a healthy and beautiful organization," said the vivacious singer of the Chicago Opera company in which she long played leading rôles.

"He knew nothing about opera. If I were put at a desk at the head of his utilities companies I would not know what to do. It was the same with him."

Miss Garden said she did not see Insull abroad, where he went after the collapse of his companies and where Chicago officials have gone with an extradition warrant for him.

The opera singer said that everything in Europe was "quiet and peaceful."

Here's News for Young Children ---Mrs. Claus Will Be in Town

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALMOST every child has met Santa Claus or one of his representatives, but few have ever met Mrs. Claus, so the news that she is to appear at the Woman's exchange sale next Wednesday should be of interest to all the youngsters, and I predict that the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel, where the sale is held each year, will be chockful of little ones next Wednesday, all eager to meet the jovial lady.

Those who believe that their Christmas toys are delivered to them by a fat old gentleman called Santa Claus who rides down from his home at the north pole in a sleigh drawn by eight speedy reindeer are too young to read this announcement, but if their mothers or nurses read it to them I know they will insist upon being taken down to meet Santa Claus' wife, at least if they are anything like the youngest member of the Cass family.

And even if they are old enough to know, like the elder little Cass, that Santa Claus isn't a real man but just the spirit of Christmas, they will want to go to the sale and meet Mrs. Claus and have her give them some of the lollipops she will have in her bag for all good girls and boys. The older children, too, will be entranced with the doll houses Mrs. James Ward Thorne, president of the exchange, has gotten in New York, for she tells me they are the most exquisite reproductions of real houses imaginable, and who should be a better judge than she who has made such perfect ones herself?

The houses were made by young draftsmen in the office of Delano & Aldrich, and they are replicas of some of the houses that have been designed by that firm of architects.

Mrs. Thorne has furnished a few of them in her inimitable taste, but others have been left unfurnished so that whoever purchases them may have the fun of buying the tiny furnishings. It is fun, too, almost more fun than it is to furnish your own house. Mrs. Thorne has made two penthouses for the sale, a Spanish one and an English one, and also a lovely six room house that is on exhibition in the window of the exchange on North Michigan avenue.

Swift Girls to Bow Today.

One of the outstanding debut parties of the season will be the reception and tea which Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift and Mr. and Mrs. Alden B. Swift are giving to introduce their respective daughters, Miss Marie and Miss Lydia Swift, from 4 to 7 o'clock this afternoon at the Gustavus Swifts' residence at 1551 Astor street.

The two debutantes will be assisted by their cousin, Miss Elizabeth Baum; Miss Nancy Traylor, Miss Edna Doering, Miss Josephine Patterson, Miss Marjorie Goodman, Miss Jean Schweppe, Miss Mary Reed, Miss Mary Senior, Miss Jane Boyce, Miss Laura Thorne and Miss Barbara Eldridge.

Lydia and Marie Swift and Miss Baum all spent last year at Miss Nixon's finishing school in Florence. Miss Marie Swift entered Bryn Mawr college this fall and returned yesterday to make her debut and to spend Thanksgiving with her family.

The second of the winter's series of junior subscription dances to be held tonight at the Fortnightly club probably will be unusually gay because of the additional presence of youngsters home from school to spend the Thanksgiving week-end with their families. These dances are held every other Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Logan have

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we make in our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Steam or vapor radiators, like humans, must breathe freely to function properly. Look to the valves of your steam plant to make sure they are in good working order for cold weather. Foreign matter can clog them and then the steam rising from the heating boiler cannot push the air up and out through the air valves, with the result that the radiator heats poorly or not at all. If air valves are of obsolete type replace them with new float type. If they are up-to-date but sticking, have them thoroughly cleaned. LOUISE BARGELT.

Cosmetics Put in Same Class as Witchcraft in Olden Days

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

From the statute books of the Quaker Pennsylvania colony one learns there was an act passed in 1770 which reads that a marriage might be annulled were it proved that the woman deceived or misled her mate before marriage by the use of cosmetics.

Makes rather amusing reading today, does it not? Or this bill introduced into the English parliament, date unknown, but certainly not of recent framing: "That all women of whatever age, rank, profession or degree, whether virgins, maids or widows that shall from and after such act impose upon, seduce and betray into matrimony any of his majesty's subjects by the scents, paints, cosmetic washes, artificial teeth, false hair, stays, hoops, high heeled shoes, bolstered hips, shall incur the penalty of the law in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanors, and that the marriage, upon conviction, shall stand null and void."

The above proves that the old-time darlings were just as menacing to bachelors as they are today, with the aid of the cosmetic witchcraft. I introduce the terrors of the cosmetic seduced sex of a past age just to prove we women should be more than ever thankful we're alive today. Imagine if we had to go in for a bootlegging system of attaching cosmetic lures. Furthermore, what a trekking to Reno would go on today were such acts as cited above ever written upon our statute books! There'd be nobody left at home to get the meals for the "betrayed."

Only our modern male feels more betrayed if his best girl doesn't make use of the artificial lures.

Much tomato juice has flowed under the bridge since "bolstered hips" were recognized as a menace. One of the modern woman's problems is keeping the hips in streamline shape so her man can't bring that up in a divorce court. There are cases on record where women have been divorced because they were too rotund.

False hair, praise be, has been ruled off the calendar of "dangerous wiles." If a girl today takes a notion to pin on a few curls she'll quite likely ask the boy friend how he likes them and frankly disclose their source.

We may coerce the gullible sex on other scores today, but if there's any trafficking in cosmetics that they're not "on" to we've yet to hear about it.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Roberta Millbank runs away from a pair of gloomy relatives. Peter Cavan, trusted employe in her father's bank, until it failed and her father died, offers to drive her to her old school to apply for a job as athletic instructress. They run into a storm and are offered shelter by Capt. Hiram White, sole occupant of an abandoned farm, who is the owner of a four-master, tied up through lack of business. Adam Eden, a young unemployed engineer, is also given a billet for the night. The captain shows the three strangers a page from a diary, given to him by a French captain named Mordecai, giving incomplete instructions for finding buried treasure. He is expecting some one who possesses the next page of the diary which will complete the instructions. Arlette Mordecai, granddaughter of the French captain, arrives with an English woman of title, known as Ladybird. The three compare the pages in private.

INSTALLMENT V.
A WILD VENTURE.

The captain of a four-masted schooner has need to cultivate a carrying voice. Roberta, Peter, and Adam were about a furlong down the road when they heard Capt. Hiram inviting them to return, and he did not seem to be shouting.

As they entered the kitchen each of the three became aware of Ladybird's cool, searching scrutiny. With her shapely legs crossed and in ample evidence, a cigaret between her lips, and a glass of the cider and dandelion at her elbow, she looked them over as if they had been applicants for the positions of butler, chauffeur, and maid.

This scrutiny must have struck a spark on Roberta if she had not been so intensely curious about the affair and eager to have a part in it. Also, she had decided that, however patronizing, even offensive, this Ladybird was the real thing.

When they were seated Capt. Hiram said: "When you three drifted in here this evening I was feeling pretty low in mind. The way you faced your troubles did me good. Then, when Miss Arlette and her mate fetched up here like they did I began to wonder if maybe there wasn't something behind it all."

"Kismet," said Ladybird, and blew a column of smoke at the lamp.

The captain went on: "We have reason to think that if we can sail a vessel to a certain place we may come onto a considerable fortune. I've got the vessel, but the trouble is we're all broke, and it ain't a proposition that any bank would finance."

"Last time I saw him he'd been working on a plan to make my four master earn some money."

"What is?" Peter muttered.

Adam said cheerfully: "Let's list your needs in order, captain. Then we can study ways and means."

"Well, first there's the crew. I can work my schooner with five hands. We keep steam in the donkey engine and everything's done with power."

"Check," said Adam. "What next?"

"Stores for a long voyage. Then we'd need a diving rig."

"What about the diver?"

"I'm a good enough diver for this shoal water job. Been down a good many times to refasten copper sheathing and the like. Next, there's some gear needs overhauling and replacing; though takin' her full and bye, my schooner's well found enough. I've taken good care of sails and runnin' rigging and the like. But, most of all, we just got to have some money."

"Does that complete the list, sir?" Adam asked.

"About enough, ain't it?"

"Too much, Skipper," Ladybird murmured. "In fact, the last item says it all, unless one of you happens to know some sport with funds to stake the game who would care to take a shot at it for the fun of the thing. That would let you in."

"All my sporting friends are flat or gone off the deep end," Adam said. "What about yours, Peter and Miss Bobbs?"

Peter shook his head. As a banker the proposition looked hopeless to him. Roberta was no more sanguine. Nobody would care to stake such a wild venture except, as Ladybird said, for the fun of the thing, and that meant taking an active personal part in it. She could think of nobody who would care to do that.

"I thought of that. Three able men and three strong, athletic young women and one of 'em used to sail" . . . he looked at Ladybird "could help out a lot. There been times when I've had to ship sick and crazy and rumblown beachcombers that were a lot worse."

"Thanks for all of us, Skipper," Ladybird drawled. "Still and all, there's the problem of crew half answered. As for stores, you might hypnotize some half-witted old ship chandler who knows you for a square shooter into playing a bet. . . ."

She paused, struck by the curious illumination that showed suddenly on Capt. Hiram's face. He leaned forward on the table, staring at her so intently that his vivid blue eyes fairly burned. Then he struck the rim of the table a slap that made the dishes left there jump.

"By jiminy, you've said something, miss. You've reminded me of a man that might be interested in this venture, if only because it sounds so crazy."

"Is he that way, too?" Ladybird asked.

She shook her head. "Then if he backed us he'd be sunk, I'd say."

"That's not so sure. Henery is pretty cute. They call him 'Henery' because he invented a henhouse that was rocked gently by machinery on the ground, that he'd noticed hens laid more eggs aboard a ship at sea. Funny thing was that it worked. Last time I saw him he said he'd been working out a plan to make my four-master earn some money. Old-fashioned trading. Going back to the early idea of barter."

Peter said: "That doesn't sound so crazy to me."

"Henery made several voyages with his grandfather and the old captain left him all his property some years ago. A ship chandler's and junk shop and a cold storage plant for mackerel and pollock and quite a tidy sum of money, I should say. Henery's added to it, and that's what makes it hard for his family to get the weather gauge on him. They claim it was all fool's luck."

"That's the best asset right now," Adam said.

"Well, he has backed some crazy schemes, but somehow they've made good. That's what makes his folks so wild. Henery's brain seems to work back against the clock. Opposite to most peoples'."

"Like that of Christopher Columbus and Isaac Newton's and a good many other alleged nuts," Adam observed.

"He lives down where my schooner's laid up," Capt. Hiram went on. "He claims it's all wrong for a fine 1,200 ton vessel that's sound and stanch in hull and rig and well found in gear to be lying idle with the world's balance of supply and demand unstabilized. Now it's struck me that if Henery felt like trying some sort of experiment in trade, barter, it might be made to get us where we want to go."

A brief silence followed this suggestion. Ladybird broke it by asking in her cool, dry voice, "Do you think that Henery would like to go along and lend a hand, Skipper?"

"The chances are he'd love it. He's getting on, but still hale and spry. More than that, he's a fine ship's carpenter and good all round sailor. One of the old timers still left along the shore."

"Without meaning to pry," Peter said, "is this location where you want to go very far away?"

"About as far as you can get," said the captain. "The other side of the world." He looked at Arlette. "Is there any reason for our keeping this proposition a secret from these folks as long as we've all been thrown together like we have?"

"Not if you think it could be done, capitaine; that we could really sail your ship."

"Well, then, folks, early in 1913 this young lady's grandfather I've told you about bought a little vessel in Tahiti. She was the sort of wooden power lighter with a sail rig that had taken the place of the old Puget Sound steam schooner. Some fellow loaded her with a cargo of mixed merchandise and took her out to the Societies on spec. Old Mr. Mordecai wanted her for a special purpose and that was to investigate a certain pearl lagoon he'd heard about."

"Grandpapa was Tahitian born," Arlette told them. "He knew all about such things."

Wife of Santa Claus Will Be Guest in City

Will Greet Children at Charity Event.

invited 14 guests for dinner and dancing in their penthouse apartment on Lincoln Park West tonight to celebrate the birthdays of Mr. Logan and Aldis J. Browne. The Brownes, the Chauncey B. Blairs, the Gilbert E. Porters, and the Benjamin Bryants will be among the guests.

Season Opens at Palm Beach.

Our Palm Beach correspondent writes that the season there is opening far in advance of the usual time for winter holidays. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomas have kept their lovely house near the ocean open all summer and their swimming pool has been a rendezvous for many of the all year round residents of Palm Beach.

One reason for the Thomases' preference for Florida during the warm weather as well as the winter time is that Mrs. Thomas suffers from hay fever in other climates. Mrs. Thomas' mother, Mrs. John R. Thompson of Lake Forest, may join them in Palm Beach later in the winter.

Maj. and Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard (Muriel McCormick) have taken two new houses on El Bravo Way in Palm Beach for the season, and are expected to go south soon from their residence at Middletown, Conn. It is rumored that one of the houses they have leased may be occupied by Mrs. Hubbard's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Max Oser of Switzerland.

Palm Beach residents have heard that Mrs. Hubbard will abondon, temporarily at least, her plans for giving Palm Beach society another season of plays in the little theater she established several years ago.

If the Red Cross work which she is superintending is finished in December, Mrs. George A. McKinlock will go to Palm Beach with her husband some time before the holidays. Another popular Chicago hostess at Palm Beach whose departure for the south is indefinite because she is engaged in charity work at home is Mrs. George Rasmussen. Mrs. Rasmussen visited Palm Beach not long ago to inspect her house and grounds there and her friends in the colony are hoping she will be able to return soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. La Chance (Jean Logan) of Grosse Pointe, Mich., and their 10 months old son, Logan Sargent, arrived in Chicago on Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving and the week-end with Mrs. La Chance's parents, Dr. and Mrs. William H. G. Logan of 229 Lake Shore drive.

The La Chances resided at 3202 Sheridan road before they moved to Michigan several months ago. They will be back in Chicago to spend Christmas with the Logans.

Mrs. Jacob Baur is expected to return in about 10 days from a Thanksgiving visit with Mrs. Nelson Cheney at Randolph, Va.

Nursing Service Sponsors Cruise.

The Frontier Nursing service was so successful in its sponsorship of a world cruise last winter that it is to repeat the project this year. The S. S. Belgenland, the 40,000 ton world cruiser, has been chartered, sailing from New York on Feb. 25.

Last year the service acted as agents on a noncharter basis, but this year it is undertaking a more ambitious enterprise. The organization members will not attempt to handle the tickets personally and all sales will be made through the regular channels, but the Frontier Nursing service will share in profits from the cruise.

The second annual Ballyhoo ball will be given this evening at the Stevens hotel under the auspices of the Beverly Hills Infant Welfare society. The first of these balls given last year was a great success as a gay party and as a means of adding a goodly sum to the yawning coffers of the Infant Welfare society.

Tonight's affair is to have a carnival atmosphere, with a baby elephant borrowed, I believe, from Lincoln Park zoo, pink lemonade, and circus entertainment features. Miss Elizabeth Pape is chairman of the ball committee.

Plan North Shore Benefit.

Another important infant welfare benefit in the near future will be the second annual dinner dance to be given by the Highland Park-Ravinia center of the Infant Welfare society a week from Saturday evening at the Shawnee Country club in Wilmette.

Among those who have made reservations are Col. and Mrs. Henry B. Clark, Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Glidden, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Creigh and Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Millard.

The dinner dance is being given in the hope of completing the Highland Park-Ravinia center's quota for the Alice H. Wood Infant Welfare station, which it has been helping to support for several years.

Prepare for Ballyhoo Ball

BY DORIS BLAKE.

It's a skeptical age, indeed, in which we live. When a lovetorn soul pours (o his song in lofty phrase only to be met with the query: "Can it be genuine, or is it strained?" as follows:

'Dear Miss Blake: Herewith is a copy of a letter written by a man of recognized culture and spirituality to his beloved, following the sudden revelation of an affection which neither suspected as existing in the other, although it was later admitted to have been cherished in the hearts of both for a long time. Do you regard the expression of the sentiment so fervently worded as a natural one, or is it strained, and can it endure through the years of their married life? Your opinion in your column would be appreciated.

"A REGULAR READER."

Here is the letter:

"My Dearest: Yesterday morning, upon coming out from the blissful sleep induced by the exaltation of spirit that possessed me when I left you on Thursday night, after we had declared and pledged our love to each other, and with my first awakening thought of you, I became immediately conscious that my heart and soul were filled with a supreme ecstasy which surpassed any feeling of happiness I ever knew.

This message to you comes deep from my heart, which today I realize more than ever was left in your keeping last Thursday night, when our love was first revealed to us. And your heart is now in my keeping forever.

"In conclusion, I would confide to you that in the presence of a love so great I find myself filled with gratitude and a sense of deep humility. I rejoice with you that, far best of all, our love is crowned with honor to ourselves. In the consciousness of that humility and in the realization of your love for me and of my love for you, I ask God's blessing upon you, and may the peace that passeth all understanding ever abide with you.

"Affectionately, and always, your faithful. . . ."

All Episcopal Churches Will Hold Mission

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Episcopalians of Chicago will open a city-wide mission on Sunday. The mission will continue in practically all churches each day until Dec. 4. The plan for the mission was developed by the Rev. Dr. Herbert W. Prince, rector of the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest, on the suggestion of Bishop George Craig Stewart.

Dr. Prince asserts that the time is ripe for a spiritual reawakening.

"Out of the discipline and losses of our times," Dr. Prince said, "there will arise a new hope and a cleansed mood. The mission will be undertaken with the thought that the church is a divine institution whose present opportunity is that of steadying and encouraging people and leading them to repentence and better minds."

Several parishes have obtained widely known preachers for the mission. Among these, St. Luke's pro-cathedral, Evanston, has invited Bishop H. P. Almon Abbott, of Lexington, Ky., former rector of St. Chrysostom's church. At Christ church, Woodlawn, the Rev. Dr. Franklyn Cole Sherman, of Cleveland, president of the American Guild of Health, will be the preacher for the week.

Violin Soloist Gives Concert Holiday Touch

Mischakoff in New Place with Symphony.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mr. Stock decided to celebrate Thanksgiving on behalf of his audience by transferring Mischa Mischakoff from the position of concertmaster to violin soloist for the evening—and again for this afternoon. It was a move well fitted to catch the approval of any group of patrons, holiday or otherwise.

Mr. Mischakoff responded by playing twice. The first was a concerto by Ferruccio Benvenuto Busoni which, though not labeled as a first performance, seems not to have found a place in the record of past performances of the orchestra. Possibly it never will again. It was a vehicle for a lot of dashing, brilliant, highly effective playing on the part of the soloist, but as music deserves a place on the shelves of some antiquarian society as a curiosity of the late nineteenth century.

For his second appearance Mr. Mischakoff chose Ravel's "Tzigane," which is something quite different. It is clever no end, about a thousand times or so more than its predecessor, and it is even more brilliant. This is gypsy music dressed up according to Parisian imagination, and by one of the most ingenious imaginations ever known in Paris. Quite evidently intended as a show piece and nothing else, it fulfills its purpose admirably, and Mr. Mischakoff has the tone, the spirit, and the technical glitter to make it one of the striking performances of the season.

Desirous of imparting a little of the holiday mood on his own behalf, Mr. Stock began the performance with Smetana's "Bartered Bride" Overture, played at a pace that spun like a top and kept all of a top's steadiness and certainty. Then he reintroduced Kodaly's "Hary Janos" suite, a marvel of musical humor combined with some lovely melody. At the end, after the solo performances, he went in for one of his biggest things, his own concert arrangement of excerpts from the third act of Wagner's "Siegfried."

The 200 piece orchestra which Mr. Stock will conduct at the formal reopening of the Auditorium on the night of Dec. 14 will present a somewhat unusual spectacle as orchestras go, since one of its component parts will be the Chicago Symphony orchestra and another the Woman's Symphony orchestra.

The Bohemians of Chicago will sponsor the program as a benefit performance for unemployed musicians, and it may be added here that the name of the sponsors refers to an organization, not to a racial group. It was formed several years ago on the order of the like named club of New York, and has already spent nearly $10,000 for charitable purposes and where the money would do the most good.

A number of celebrated soloists are expected to take part in the program. John Charles Thomas, the baritone, and Josef Hofmann, the pianist, have already wired their eagerness to donate their services. Souvenir programs will be among the novelties of the concert, which, contrary to the usual practice of charity concerts, will be distributed free and not sold.

Parent Should Prepare Child Against Shocks

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Do you shield your child from all unpleasantness? Or, to be more explicit, do you try to shield him from knowing that there are deceit and dishonesty in the world and that people can be unkind, or stingy, or unfair?

We've talked often in this column about conversation that it not fit for children's ears. And there is much that is not. The more tender children's ears, the more careful should we be of what they hear.

Even when they're older there are many subjects it is not suitable to discuss before them.

But there's a point beyond which we must not go. We must be careful not to shield the children too much from what we might roughly call the knowledge of good and evil. We must not shield them so much that they build up an ideal picture of conditions and of human nature. If we do this they're going to get a dreadful shock when they go out into the world. Gradually, very gradually, they must be helped to build up a picture of the world as it is—not its depths of degradation, but some of its unpleasantness as well as its beauty and fineness.

THE STAGE

David Erwin Russell, veteran theater and opera manager, announces the formation of the Chicago Operetta company and plans to promote a twelve weeks' season of light musical productions at the Civic Opera house. He promises a company of 100 players, including principals of national reputation; a large orchestra, and a chorus recruited from Chicago singers.

The productions will be selected from a long list of operettas that have won popularity—some of them more or less recent hits, others out of the standard repertory. Gilbert and Sullivan items, famous old musical comedies such as "The Geisha" and "Babes in Toyland," and modern Broadway successes such as "Rose-Marie," "The Three Musketeers," and "The Vagabond King" are included in the prospectus.

Mr. Russell's career in the theater covers executive positions in Milwaukee, Chicago, and St. Louis. For twelve years he was general manager of the Municipal Opera company of St. Louis.

Subscriptions to box seat reservations for the season are now being sought. Mr. Russell states that a percentage of the gross receipts will be donated to the unemployment relief fund.

Ed Wynn, star of "The Laugh Parade," coming to the Grand Opera house Sunday, Dec. 4, will not give performances on Tuesday nights during his engagement. He is under contract to devote that evening to a radio broadcast.

His radio work will be done on the stage of the Grand Opera House, with the coöperation of Graham McNamee and Don Voorhees' orchestra. The public will be admitted to these microphone performances, which usually run almost an hour, and tickets will be sold at popular prices [$1 and 50 cents]. The proceeds will be distributed among the Christmas relief funds and other charities under the direction of Mayor Cermak.

BLACKHAWKS BATTLE RANGERS TO 1 TO 1 TIE

VICTORS' PASS ATTACK DAZES HOME ELEVEN

Ask, Rowe, Samuel Lead Charge.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Providence, R. I., Nov. 24.—Up in the doughnut country where Thanksgiving began, Colgate and Brown, the two unwhipped football teams of the east, celebrated the holiday with a showdown game begun in the morning and ended well before dinner time. At the conclusion of the show Brown was unwhipped no longer but the victim of a decisive pushing-around. Score: Colgate, 21; Brown, 0.

The Colgate athletes, who play in Ringling uniforms of the reddest red, with strips, splotches and rosettes of white fancy-work done into their costumes, finished their season without having yielded a point to any of their nine opponents, ranging in strength and prestige from such pushovers as St. Lawrence and Case to such high minors as New York U. and Syracuse.

Brown Fails to Score.

Moreover, it was announced when the Browns reached their ten yard line and then pushed on to a point just a few inches short of their goal in the second period that this was the first time any club had pushed the ball within 17 yards of their goal this year. There might have been a touchdown there but for the call of time for the half just as the third down was made but that simply meant that Brown mistimed the invasion and the lugubrious fact remained as the Brown players went away for their rest that they hadn't scored.

And, anyway, the advance into Thibet was made not so much by Brown's own doing as by some misdoing on the Colgate side. On two successive Brown forward passes Bob Samuel, a bare-headed Colgate half back, was convicted of interfering with the catcher, and the penalties gave Brown 53 yards of ground and a first down at the ten yard line, although the second of Samuel's offenses was invisible to the Colgate side of the arena.

Early in the game the match was even, with Colgate's speed and sleight of hand offset by the heft and muscularity of the Brown team, which played a naive style of game and seemed to regard deception as something outside the code of honest young men. They almost wore out the football in the first quarter kicking it hither and yon and none too gracefully either, but it was a punt by Whitey Ask of Colgate, a player whose name gave rise to a lot of very bad puns from the crowd, which started his team toward a touchdown in the second period.

Colgate Offense Confusing.

This kick hopped out of bounds on Brown's five yard line and the return kick from Bob Chase was downed at Brown's 25 yard line. The Colgate boys then went into a curious little act suggesting a lot of fat business men passing a medicine ball around a circle in a gym, which so confused the Browns that presently Samuel grabbed it and ran between a bevy of them on the right side of their line for a gain of nine yards.

The Colgate team later displayed many more of these medicine ball tricks, flipping the thing forward, backward, to this side and that and sometimes pretending to flip it away, but changing their intentions at the last instant to dart off for long gains as the boys of the home team stood flat-footed and confused, yelling "Hey!"

Just after this nine yard gain from the medicine ball formation Ask threw a Texas leaguer to Win Anderson, his right end, who caught the ball at the five yard line and was dropped to the ground with a clatter like a lot of loose boards by Buonanno, the Brown full back. Brown was very solid against main strength football and Rowe, the Colgate full back, flattened out his skull tossing himself against the center in the first attempt from the five yard line. He took time out to yank his head up from beneath his shoulders, where it had been imbedded to the eyebrows by the impact, and tried a lateral pass to Samuel on the next down.

This play lost a yard and the next one, intended for a forward pass, was about to lose five yards more when Ask, who was supposed to do the throwing, decided to run for it in-

Packers Beat Dodgers, 7-0, Before 30,000

New York, Nov. 24.—[Special.]—The Green Bay Packers continued to lead the race for the National Professional Football league championship today by defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7 to 0, before 30,000 at Ebbets field.

The Packers headed for the Brooklyn goal in the second period, but were halted on the 20 yard line. The advance was featured by a 35 yard pass from Herber to Milton Gantenbein, former Wisconsin star.

Pass Beats Brooklyn.

This turning back of Green Bay served only to delay the inevitable. On an exchange of punts, Grossman of Brooklyn fumbled and Comstock recovered for Green Bay on the Dodgers' 20 yard line. Herber crashed into the line, but was turned back, and Bruder gained only one yard on the next play.

Herber then faded back and shot a low flat pass to Bruder, who snared it between Grossman and Friedman three yards from the goal line. The former Northwestern ace was off balance while catching the ball, but he made a final leap across the goal line to score. Harry O'Boyle came in and place kicked the extra point.

Brooklyn Perks Up.

The Herber to Bruder passing combination worked to perfection on several occasions, but Brooklyn tightened at critical times to stem the attack. Green Bay was on the defense during most of the closing minutes. Lineup:

BEARS ROMP OVER CARDINALS, 34-0, FOR CITY CROWN

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bears started their final drive for the championship of the professional league by whipping their ancient rivals, the Chicago Cardinals, 34 to 0, yesterday at Wrigley field. Six thousand eight hundred watched the 25th battle between the north side and south side, which marks the oldest series in professional football.

The Bears probably thought about the championship while they were piling up five touchdown yesterday, but their title hope also depends on a victory Sunday over Portsmouth and success later against New York and Green Bay. More important was yesterday's game. As usual, it was chockful of verbal argument, one session of free swinging which threatened momentarily to become a free for all and which brought the banishment of two players and a lot of hard football.

Cardinal Line Outweighed.

The Bears outweighed the Cardinals in the line and Bronko Nagurski, who was removed from the Bear lineup after he had helped his team to a 20 to 0 lead in the first half, time and again drove his 220 pounds through the Cardinal line with an abandon that halted for no obstacle. At one time six Cardinal players piled on Bronk to bear him to earth. Nagurski didn't score, but his pile driving smashes were all important and it was Nagurski who threw the forward pass by which Keith Molesworth scored the second touchdown of the game.

John Doehring, from Milwaukee, a newcomer in professional ranks, who never has matriculated at any college, shot a line pass to George Corbett for a gain of 50 yards and the Bears' third touchdown. Doehring also was a keyman in the fight which took place in the third period. For this Doehring and Creighton of the Cardinals were sent to the sidelines. Sisk, Williams, and Tinsley, who joined in the argument, were permitted to keep their places.

The battle on the field was extended also to the sidelines. The Bears were penalized 15 yards in the first half for sideline coaching and the same distance was assessed against the Cardinals in the last period.

Misplays Help Bears.

Probably the Cards did not deserve to lose by five touchdowns. It is true that the Cardinals' running attack could not gain steadily at any time against the Bears, but the Cardinal misplays, such as intercepted passes and blocked kicks, helped pile up three touchdowns for the Bears without the aid of a first down.

Although outweighed, the Cardinal line played remarkable ball. Its strength was tested early, for the Cardinals held the Bears in the first period after Malloy's fumble had been recovered by Lloyd Burdick on the Cardinal nine yard line.

Walter Holmer immediately kicked

Illinois Eleven Names Gil Berry Most Valuable Player

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Illinois named Gil Berry, captain and star half back, as its candidate for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S ninth annual silver football trophy to be awarded the most valuable player in the Western conference. Berry, the unanimous choice of his teammates, will be presented a white gold watch fob, the prize for each of the ten conference athletes thus honored by his fellow players.

The fates of football were unkind a long time to Berry, but they relented in the final lap of the season as he led the Illini out of the cellar of the Big Ten.

Berry, coming to Illinois in the wake of a glorious three year period 1927-'29, during which the Illini won two championships and were runners-up another time, found no such a setting for his ambitions. Entering as a freshman in 1929, he was immediately recognized as a potential star and frequently stepped through the varsity for long runs.

Shines as Sophomore.

The Illini stalwarts who had made the three year record possible passed off the scene and their successors were far below their standard. As a sophomore in 1930, Berry played on a team which lost every conference game except one with Chicago. Despite the lack of a strong personnel to give him opportunity, Berry raced 60 yards through Michigan at Ann Arbor for a touchdown and made another long, twisting dodging run of 70 yards through Purdue, although not for a score.

In 1931 the material situation was even worse and Berry spent most of his time playing defensive football, tackling opponents as they sifted through the line.

Illini Begin to Improve.

When Illinois started out in 1932 things seemed no better after crushing defeats by Michigan and Northwestern, but Berry's spirit was not crushed. Suddenly the Illini began to improve. Against Chicago Berry ran back a punt 75 yards for a touchdown and later passed to Froschauer for the second score that clinched victory. Then came the Wisconsin game. Gil ran back the kickoff 87 yards. The Illini lost to the Badgers, but it was a close game.

In the Indiana game Berry's running and passing was a big factor in the triumph. Last Saturday against Ohio State, with the score a deadlock, Berry opened the second half with a 56 yard return of a kick-off.

Makes Good Despite Handicaps.

The big point about Berry, Coach Bob Zuppke says, is that he has made good under great discouragements and had no such a personnel as makes possible the feats of most outstanding players.

"Who knows," asks Zuppke, "how some of the stars who play behind powerful lines would take it if they were on far inferior teams?"

Personally Berry is a modest young man, universally liked. In Abingdon High school he was an all-around athlete, but at Illinois he has confined himself to the gridiron. He is a Phi Delta Theta. Last year he married Winifred Flint, a popular co-ed.

This "handsome man" stuff is distasteful to Gil and was not of his choosing. However, movie companies have been flirting with him, and he is probably not unwilling to give Hollywood a whirl if he is bid. Otherwise he has talked of entering sports writing and believes his knowledge of sports, especially football, will be of value.

Trojans Win After a Hard Battle, 9 to 6

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Southern California's Trojans go into their game with Notre Dame on Dec. 10 still unbeaten as a result of a 9 to 6 triumph over the University of Washington before thirty thousand here this afternoon.

The field was heavy and slippery from recent rains. Defensive play featured, particularly on the line, and all 15 points scored were, directly or indirectly, the result of forward passes.

The victory gave the Trojans a record of 18 consecutive victories, ten last year after dropping the opener to St. Mary's and eight this season. They have no more competition until they meet Notre Dame.

Warburton Passes to Palmer.

After a scoreless first quarter, featured by brilliant punting by Muczynski of the Huskies and Grimth of the Trojans, Southern California scored a field goal in the second period. With the ball on their own 46 yard line the Trojans took to the air. Pee Wee Warburton, 148 pound quarter back, rifled a pass to Ford Palmer, end, who took the ball on the 25 yard line and raced down the sidelines to the ten.

Unable to dent the powerful Washington line, the Trojans worked the ball into position for a field goal. Cal Clemens stood on the 19 yard line and, with Warburton holding the ball, sent it between the uprights.

The third quarter was scoreless and then a poor punt by Art Ahonen, subbing at quarter for Cherberg of Washington, paved the way for Southern California's touchdown. The ball went out of bounds on the Washington 37 yard line and the Trojans went to work. Warburton fired

Official Drops Dead Refereeing High School Game

Several thousand spectators, among them his wife and 18 year old son, Jack Jr., saw him fall soon after carrying the ball from one end of the Upper Darby High school athletic field to the other for the start of the second quarter.

Doctors said death was due to a heart attack.

The crowd did not know Greer was dead as he was carried from the field on a stretcher. Play was resumed with another referee chosen by coaches from spectators along the sidelines. Before the game Greer complained of indigestion, but refused an offer to send a substitute referee on the field to start the game, friends said.

Greer, who was 43, was district manager for a schoolbook company. In recent years he had turned out winning schoolboy football teams, first at Catholic High school in Philadelphia and later at Salesianum in Wilmington, Del.

Born in Washington, D. C., Greer formerly was an instructor in science at Georgetown and Catholic universities, where as a student he played both baseball and football.

THOMPSON GETS CHICAGO GOAL SINGLE HANDED

New York Rallies in Third Period.

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Two brilliant plays in the course of a hard, close guarding game gave the Chicago Blackhawks and the New York Rangers a 1 to 1 tie in their overtime National Hockey league struggle tonight.

Paul Thompson scored for Chicago on a remarkable exhibition of stick handling while his team was a man short in the second period and Babe Siebert squared accounts for the Rangers with a long shot in the third period when the first Ranger shutout in 59 games was in sight.

The game was marked by checking with the solid men of the Chicago defense, Taffy Abel, Teddy Graham, and Helge Bostrom, using terrific checks. The return of holdout Earl Siebert aided the Rangers considerably.

Hawks Play for a Tie.

Graham had just been sent to the penalty box when Thompson made his scoring play. Starting out from behind his own net, he found a hole in the Ranger line as four men closed in, twisted through and sped down the right side. The only remaining defense man was far to the left and Thompson was not hampered as he shot.

Siebert's drive came from just beside the blue line, whizzing through a mob of players and catching Goalie Chuck Gardiner flat footed as both teams surrounded the net during the final Ranger drive.

The game promised plenty of action from the start, but the defenses proved too strong for the early raids. March made one good try and Bill Cook another. Gardiner made a great save off Boucher on the first play after Abel had drawn a tripping penalty, and followed with another when Bun Cook's charge ripped the stick out of the goalie's hands.

Tom Cook, McFadyen, and Jenkins broke a midice duel with a raid that almost scored. Aitkenhead had a lot of luck with him as he turned it back. Babe Siebert and Dillon gave Gardiner an equally hard test in reply.

Blackhawk Drives Are Wild.

Siebert was given a penalty for handling the puck, putting the Rangers in a tight spot for a while, but the hurried Blackhawk drives didn't come near to scoring. They sparred around the center zone for a couple of minutes without results for either team. The Rangers got a little nearer the goal than their opponents, but couldn't make much of a dent in the line the Hawks built around their net.

A penalty to Holmes near the end of the first period handicapped the Hawks, but they held out with the aid of a couple of wide shots by the Rangers.

Long shots were in order as the second period opened with the defenses still holding tight. Boucher tried one neat solo but Gardiner stopped a fast closein shot and March took the Ranger center clear out of range for another.

Johnson took a tripping penalty for spilling Jenkins violently against the boards in a corner. Brennan and Graham followed him after a roughing bout as Chicago put on the best attack it had shown. One raid by Heller produced the only real action while they were off but a massed defense stopped him.

Ranger Rookies Star.

The action opened up a bit as the period progressed but it only made the body checks more violent. The Rangers' speedy third line, carrying two recruits, had a slight edge in the play. Graham broke for one assault as fresh men came in and made all kinds of trouble for the New York defense. On his next try, Graham was penalized for crosschecking Heller.

Paul Thompson turned the handicap into an asset with a brilliant bit of stick handling. Taking the puck behind his own net, he ranged it around a while, slipped through a hole in the Ranger defense, which had moved far up, and tore in to send a hard shot past Aitkenhead for a goal. Earl Siebert broke another defensive stead. He drifted through the defense to the one yard line and on the fourth down Rowe just barely did gain that yard to score. Tom Gilbane, the Brown center, reached up and blocked Rowe's placement kick and the score was 6 to 0.

It grew an inch in the third quarter when the wind rose and Chase of Brown, who was kicking into it, found himself kickin from the five yard line where Smith, Peters, and Lee of Colgate sifted through in a body and blocked one on him. The ball hopped high and turned back into the end zone, where Chase outscrambled the tussling Colga men for possession and was promptly tossed for a safety, adding two points to his team's disadvantage.

This made it serious for Brown. A touchdown and a kick had seemed enough to win for them up to this time, but now they had to have a touchdown, a kick, and maybe a field goal to make good for their alma mater.

In the final quarter the winners had the look of victory in all their movements and Brown's side was now so apprehensive and jumpy that the Colgate boys began running plays right through the line from reverses, double reverses, fakes, and old fashioned polka and Paul Jones formation.

Too Fast for Brown End.

There was one play when the Brown left end turned to the man crouching beside him and muttered something to the effect that the next one seemed to be aimed their way, but the words were still trickling from the side of his mouth when some one gave him a shove in the ribs setting him on his trousers, and the play went past him for a gain of 20 yards.

The second of the three touchdowns completed a march of 58 yards. Ask intercepted a pass and Rowe and Samuel went through Brown's right side for 21 yards on two successive plays. Ask, Samuel, and Monroe spun airily along to a first down 11 yards from the goal, and the score came out of a Ned Wayburn movement in which Brown tossed the ball to Ask and he, not wanting the damned thing, handed it to Samuel, who took it away to the goal.

Gilbane blocked another placement, this one by Ask, and they went back to finish it up with a final touchdown scored on a forward pass from the 28 yard line. The first time Colgate tried this Nield dropped the ball so Conroy, the same pitcher, just tossed it over to Bodganski on the next play. He caught it five yards out and fell on his face as he crossed the goal.

Game Draws 26,000.

Th Brown stadium held 26,000 patrons in friendly, festive intimacy and the returns were all in by half past one.

Colgate's team was remarkably well drilled and the calm unconcern of the backs as they developed their repertoire in the second half seemed to shake the confidence out of the whole Brown team. They had the power to stop Colgate's power, but they were so rattled that they didn't know whether to set themselves for a slap in the face or a kick in the flask, and the consequence was that they had no defense against either except when they guessed right by the merest chance.

COLGATE WILLING TO ACCEPT BID TO COAST GAME

Providence, R. I., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Colgate "will be glad to consider an invitation" to meet a western team in the annual New Year's game at the Rose bowl, Pasadena, Head Coach Andy Kerr said today after his team's decisive victory over Brown.

Kerr, who learned his football under Glenn S. [Pop] Warner and teaches the Warner system, praised his team's performance but also paid tribute to "Brown's great defense."

"We haven't given any real thought to the Rose bowl until now," said Kerr. "This was our big climax and the only thought our boys had was to beat Brown. They got a big thrill out of keeping their goal line uncrossed and so did I.

"This team's record is the best of any I have ever coached. I can't recall a team that has finished its season unscored on, in major competition, since that great Pittsburgh outfit of 1910."

INDOOR FOOTBALL OFFERS PUNTERS CHANCE TO STAR

Some long distance punting will be on view tomorrow night when the Shamrocks and Cincinnati Blues meet in a professional football game at the 124th Field artillery armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue. With no wind to bother the kickers, punts of 60 to 70 yards have been turned in regularly on the armory field.

The Shamrocks' punting will be done by Jim Mooney, tackle. Larry Marks and George Ross, former University of Indiana stars, are expected to do the kicking for the Blues.

CREECH HORSE WINS FEATURE AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Five thousand racing fans pretended not to notice the weather today as they turned out in a raw November rain to celebrate the Thanksgiving day opening at Jefferson Park.

The $1,500 Thanksgiving handicap, feature of the inaugural card, went to Benny Creech's Whipper Cracker, which led a field of six thoroughbreds over the mile and a sixteenth of muddy track in 1:50 2-5, beating Impish by a nose. Predict finished third, and Pigeon Hole, whose summer victories in Chicago had established him as the favorite, came fourth. Rip Van Winkle and My Dan also ran, in that order. The race was worth $860 to the winner.

Toronto Runner Wins 9¼ Mile Berwick Race

Berwick, Pa., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Wilf McCluskey of Toronto, wearing the colors of the Monarch A. C., today won the 23d running of the Berwick marathon, completing the nine and a quarter miles in 49 minutes 9 seconds. In the most spectacular finish the race has ever hand, the Canadian athlete, in second place with less than a half mile to go, sprinted to finish 40 yards in front of Enio Pentti of New York.

East Chicago High Wins Northern Indiana Title

Gary, Ind., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Steve Stan today led Washington of East Chicago to a 14 to 6 victory over Elkhart in the annual northern Indiana high school conference football championship game. Elkhart, leading 6 to 2 at the half, faded in the final two periods as Stan paced Washington on two touchdown drives.

Bears Crush Cards, 34 to 0, for City Title

from his end zone and Molesworth was stopped on his return at the Cardinal 35 yard line. In two plays the Bears crossed the goal line. Molesworth went through right tackle for seven yards. Then Molesworth shot a lateral pass to Bill Hewitt. The ball landed in front of Hewitt, but he scooped it up on the first bounce and ran 28 yards around the Cardinal right end. Three players tagged Hewitt, but he evaded each and with excellent blocking finished the run for what would have been the only points necessary for victory. Tiny Engebretsen missed the place kick for the point, the only failure of the game.

Hewitt Intercepts Pass.

Hewitt also played a stellar part in checking the Cardinals a few plays later when they threatened to tie the score. Tinsley had blocked Nesbitt's kick on fourth down, and while Dick recovered, the Cardinals took possession on the Bears' 35 yard line. Here Hewitt intercepted Holmer's pass on his 23 yard line, which, incidentally, marked the farthest advance of the Cardinals.

The Bears smashed 40 yards in the second period for a second score and here Nagurski held the center of action. His first drive netted 14 yards, two more plunges by Bronk and an assist by Doehring, who had replaced Nesbitt, sent the Bears to the Cardinal 5 yard strip.

Molesworth slipped through guard for four yards on a quarter back sneak. Nagurski couldn't get through and neither could Molesworth. However, on the last down, Nagurski passed wide to Molesworth, who made a leaping catch to carry the ball into the end zone. Engebretsen kicked the point.

The last Bear touchdown before the intermission was made on Doehring's pass to Corbett and it was one of the slickest plays of the season. Doehring shot the ball 30 yards to Corbett down the center of the field and Corbett pivoted out of a tackler's arms to run 20 yards to the goal. Tackwell, who had replaced Hewitt at end, place kicked the point and the Bears left the field at the half leading 20 to 0.

Bears' Second Team Scores.

The Bears' second team, with the exception of Burdick at tackle and Johnson at end, led off in the third period and this lineup accomplished two touchdowns, Big George Trafton, the only player on either team who remembers the first time the Cardinals and Bears met, blocked Holmer's punt. Gil Bergerson, giant guard from Oregon State, should have scored the touchdown after the blocked kick. However, Bergerson, while attempting to shift the ball from one hand to the other, fumbled out of bounds on the Cards' one yard line. As a result, Doehring, on his second plunge, went through tackle for the touchdown. Luke Johnsos kicked the point.

Intercepted passes opened the way for the final score. After Holmer's pass had dropped into Burdick's hands, on the Card 13 yard line, the Cardinal defense held. On the next interception, however,

4 NOTRE DAME PLAYERS LEAVE BED TO GO EAST

Release Regulars from Hospital for Army Game

Toledo, O., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—A group of 38 battered Notre Dame football players passed through here tonight en route to New York and the Army game Saturday.

All the influenza victims except Ray Boland, reserve quarter back from Chicago, made the trip, as did the injured regulars.

"Some of them, I fear, are just along for the ride," Coach Heartly Anderson said.

Cripples Make Trip.

George Melinkovich, full back, the best ground gainer and the highest scorer on the squad, was released from the university infirmary this morning to make the trip. It is still unlikely that he will see action, however. Jim Harris, left guard, was released yesterday and may be able to play, Anderson said.

Harris, Dominic Vairo, left end, and Emmett Murphy, quarter back, all flu victims, were released from the infirmary with Melinkovich. They spent the afternoon resting in berths which were made up when the team left South Bend at noon.

Robinson Is Out.

All but Robinson and Brancheau will be able to play at least part of the game, Anderson said. Those making the trip are:

Centers—Robinson, Gorman, Alexander.
Right guards—Greeney, Flynn, Pivarnik, Preece.
Right tackles—Kurth, Roach, Barstow.
Right ends—Capt. Host, Devore, Rascher.
Right half backs—Brancheau, Sheeketski, Tobin, Costello.
Ful, backs—Melinkovich, Banas, Leonard, Fred Caricdo.

ARMY HIDES OUT.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Army's football squad, consisting of 40 players and coaches in charge of Maj. A last minute change of program was made and the scheduled morning practice was called off. Instead the players took a brisk walk. This afternoon, however, the squad reported at the east field and went through a lengthy workout behind drawn curtains.

another pass to Palmer for a first down on the seven yard line.

Three plays netted six yards and on fourth down Warburton went over for the touchdown. It was strictly a power play, over right tackle behind massed interference. Erskine's place kick for the extra point was wide.

Huskies Put On a Rally.

The Huskies came into possession of the ball shortly afterward as the result of a fumble by Clark, Trojan full back, on a low pass from center. Howard of Washington recovered on Southern California's 49 yard line.

Then followed some brilliant passing by Ahonen and some equally brilliant receiving by Smith and Nisbet, Washington ends.

The first pass, made possible by a leaping catch on the part of Smith, brought a first down on the 20 yard line. The Huskies then got a break when officials ruled interference by McNeish against Smith on the seven yard line. Two plays gained less than three yards and then Ahonen, after starting a wide run to the right, fired the ball into a mass of players clustered on the goal line near the side of the field.

Nisbet got it away from everybody to score Washington's touchdown, the second scored against the Trojans in eight games. Warburton blocked the attempted conversion.

Californians Play Safe.

With only six minutes left, the Trojans played safe and, although Washington filled the air with passes when it got the ball, Southern California batted down all but one of these and that one did no damage.

Brown, Palmer, Griffith, and Warburton played excellent football for the Trojans, while Sulkosky, Nisbet, Wiatrak, and Howard were outstanding for Washington.

Southern California made nine first downs to Washington's seven, gained 147 yards through the air to Washington's 123, and bucked for 96 to the Huskies' 48.

The lineup:

U. S. C. [9].		WASHINGTON [6].

BROVELLI BEATS OREGON

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Led by a charging full back whose second half appearance transformed a battered squad into a fighting eleven, St. Mary's defeated Oregon, 7 to 0, today before 20,000.

Angel Brovelli, St. Mary's "bad boy" was given a chance to make amends for recent infractions of training rules. Coming into the game as the third period opened, Brovelli proved the spark plug in the attack that enabled St. Marys to whip Oregon for the fourth successive year. He made his best bid in the last quarter when he carried the ball ten times for a total gain of 52 yards in the 80 yard drive for the touchdown.

C.Y.O. Boxers End Quarter-Final Matches Tonight

St. Leonard's parish of Berwyn will send a team of crack boxers to the Catholic youth organization boxing tournament quarter finals tonight at the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street. The matches will conclude quarter finals competition.

In the last year's tournament, Father Jack Campbell, chaplain major of the 124th field artillery and pastor of St. Leonard's, sent four outstanding champions in the Chicago amateur field—Scotty Sylvano, former Golden Gloves champion, who took the welterweight honors in the C. Y. O. tournament; Gene Higgins, lightweight champ; John Perche, light heavyweight title winner; and Bud Marcy, winner in the featherweight class.

In tonight's quarter finals, St. Leonard's will have good punchers seeking west side and west suburban section titles. Four of them have been fighting for from one to four years. The fifth, a novice, is a favorite in his division.

They are John Logan, 21 year old heavyweight, who was runnerup in the Central A. A. U. tourney; George Sluka, middleweight, the Western Electric champ and winner of 45 out of 60 bouts; Earl McMahon, lightweight; Charles Weiser, featherweight, beaten on points last year by Marcy; and Frank Slipicka, 17 year old Morton Grove high school boy.

Vanderbilt Is Beaten, 20-0, by Alabama

The Alabama line smeared the vaunted Vanderbilt attack before it could get started and allowed the Commodores to threaten only twice. But an alert secondary quickly bottled up these two offensives.

A break early in the second period touched off Alabama's victory drive. Hupke, a guard, recovered Fortune's fumble on Vanderbilt's 16 yard line and seven plays later, Cain hit center for a touchdown.

An intercepted pass a few minutes later started another Alamaba drive in which two passes by Millard Howell, sophomore half back, largely were responsible for the score.

The final Alabama touchdown came after Vanderbilt rallied to go beyond midfield. Howell, standing on his own 20, intercepted one of Roberts' passes and returned it 80 yards for a touchdown. The line-ups:

ALABAMA [20].		VANDERBILT [0].

TENNESSEE WINS, 26-0

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Kentucky, which has ruined Tennessee's hopes for a southern championship with three ties since 1927, was routed 26 to 0 in their 27th annual Thanksgiving clash today.

Twenty thousand saw the Tennessee team, which is undefeated this season but tied by Vanderbilt, outplay Kentucky most of the game.

Beattie Feathers, star Tennessee half back; Deke Bracket, shifty quarter back and Vaughn, led Tennessee's slashing attack, Feathers and Vaughn driving through Kentucky's line for touchdowns in the second and third period. Brackett made a 65 yard sprint down the sideline to score in the final period.

Robinson, sub quarter back, accounted for the fourth touchdown in the closing minutes when he plunged over from the two yard stripe.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

POST-SEASON GAMES.

PREVAILING sentiment in the conference, so far as it may be gauged, for granting permission to Michigan, if invited, to play in the Tournament of Roses football game on New Year's day in Pasadena is as surprising as it is rational. It is surprising only because the conference, of all governing athletic bodies, presents the paradox of being the most conservative and at the same time the most progressive.

Newspaper writers, at times, take sly digs at the faculty professors who are the governing power in the conference. At heart we know they are giving valuable time and much thought to athletic problems. While we may differ with their rulings on certain occasions, we recognize that the Big Ten is the best conducted of all collegiate bodies. It has been foremost in athletic reforms to preserve the sanity of intercollegiate sport.

The conference rule against post-season games is sound. Junketing trips after the season closes average on the minus rather than the plus side. For several years, however, Big Ten alumni on the Pacific coast have wished a conference team there for a holiday game. The Wake thinks such permission should be granted, either this year or in the near future.

* * *

Trips of this nature, not annually but at certain intervals as suggested, would refute all charges of insularity against the conference. Even the ultra-conservative once "Big Three" of Harvard, Yale, and Princeton saw fit to play home and home games with Big Ten elevens. Yale violated all precedent by visiting Chicago a year ago as a tribute to Director Stagg Yale alumnus. Such trips, pleasing to resident alumni, answer protests of provincialism.

Any conference eleven going to the coast should be representative because it plays as an exponent of Big Ten football. Michigan is representative. So are others, but the Wolverines happen to be champions. At the end of the season, there were five, possibly seven, elevens not more than a touchdown apart, on form, any time they played.

One of the objections to waiving the rules against this trip is the fear of similar suggestions in future years, and then charges of discrimination. That is worthy of thought. Adoption of a resolution that such trips be taken only at stated intervals, as suggested, would answer the objection in some part.

* * *

So far as we can learn, the movement originated among Big Ten alumni on the Pacific coast. The Tournament of Roses committee has not yet extended an invitation for the conference to send its champions. It is unlikely to do so unless informal assurance is received the invitation will be accepted. Rebuffs in the past are the reason no committee likes to make a second choice after an invitation is refused.

What impresses The Wake is that Michigan, from all indications and from what expressions can be obtained, is receptive. Michigan is traditionally conservative. Its authorities would not favor annual post-season games or junketing trips. Evidently they feel the Wolverines of 1932 would make a creditable showing for the conference despite the handicaps inevitable to visitors by a long journey to the coast six weeks after the home season closes.

Nebraska Gets 21 to 6 Victory Over Missouri

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Nebraska Cornhuskers defeated the Missouri Tigers, 21 to 6, today to keep their Big Six conference football slate clean.

The Huskers won the championship for the second consecutive year by downing Oklahoma, 5 to 0, last Saturday. The 17,000 spectators saw six Huskers in their last home battle.

The victory also gave Nebraska the right to retain a battered old bell, for possession of which the Huskers and Tigers have fought since 1928 and which Missouri has not yet been able to win.

It was near the end of the first half, after Nebraska had scored in the first quarter, before the Tigers awakened to the potency of their passing attack. The combination of Johanningmeier to Schiele gave Missouri its only touchdown.

Mathis was the mainspring of the fourth quarter offensive which boosted Nebraska from its one point advantage. He made one touchdown. His long runs helped inspire his mates. Nebraska made 14 first downs to seven by Missouri, and gained 245 yards against 142. Lineup:

NEBRASKA [21].		MISSOURI [6].
Penney	L. E.	Schiele

SING SING WINS FROM RIVERSIDE ON A PASS, 7 TO 0

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Sing Sing's varsity football team, playing through a hard game with only one substitution, won its seventh victory of the season today by defeating the Riverside Athletic Club of New York City, 7 to 0.

The touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Arthur Nelson, back in the prison lineup after a four weeks' layoff, passed 16 yards to Moss, right end. Moss ran 17 yards to score. Alabama Pitts, who had replaced McLoughlan at left half, added the extra point.

Sing Sing will play its season's classic—a return game with the Port Jervis police—next Sunday.

N. Y. U. Whips Carnegie, 13-6, in Last Period

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A New York university football team which had failed to live up to its early season promise came to life against Carnegie Tech in the final quarter of their seventh annual game today, scored two touchdowns and closed its season with a 13 to 6 victory.

Carnegie had pushed the New York Huskies all over the turf of Yankee stadium for three quarters and appeared to have the game safely in hand as the last period began. But the Violets, many of whom were playing their final game, attacked with a force that was not to be denied and marched 80 and 55 yards for touchdowns.

Passes Bring Scores.

Both scoring marches ended with successful passes, Jim Tanguay tossed to M. White for the first score and flipped the ball to Bob McNamara for the second. White caught the ball in the end zone while McNamara butted his way through the last Tech defender from the 5 yard line to clinch the victory.

Tech's score came early in the third period with H. Coulter, half back, carrying the ball around end from the 1 yard line after a 40 yard advance following a weak punt by McNamara. Colin Stewart missed the try for point, but at that time it did not appear important, as Tech had held the upper hand throughout the first half and appeared the stronger team.

Carnegie Fights Back.

After the second New York touchdown and with only a minute left to play Tech came fighting back to carry the ball for three straight first downs to the Violets' 32 yard line, where the gun ended their drive.

Tech outrushed New York 256 yards to 161, made fourteen first downs to thirteen for the Violets and 53 yards by passes to 55 for N. Y. U. Four of the fifteen passes Carnegie attempted were intercepted, however, two of them when Tech seemed well on the way to a touchdown. They were inside the N. Y. U. 30 yard line three times, once being held for downs on the Violet 10 yard line.

A crowd of 30,000 watched the game under almost perfect weather conditions. The lineups:

N. Y. U. [13].		CARNEGIE TECH [6].
W. McNamara	L. E.	Stewart
Itakowitz	L. T.	Croft

DETROIT WHIPS OREGON STATE ELEVEN, 14-6

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 24.—(AP)—University of Detroit massed its aerial scoring power in the second period today to defeat Oregon State college, 14 to 6, in the season's closing football game here before 10,000.

The Westerners took advantage of Detroit's starting second string squad to put over a touchdown in the first period, but the Titans came back in the second with a forward passing drive that swept them to two quick scores, one the result of a 45 yard pass.

PENN'S FOURTH QUARTER MARCH DEFEATS CORNELL

Ends Ithaca Eleven's Two Year Supremacy, 13-7.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Two years of Cornell supremacy over Pensylvania came to an end on Franklin field today as the Red and Blue staged a 58 yard march to a winning touchdown in one of the most thrilling closing periods in the thirty-nine year history of this Thanksgiving day fixture.

With ten minutes left to play and the teams deadlocked, 7 to 7, Pennsylvania threw the gathering of 50,000 into a bedlam of excitement as it capitalized a Cornell fumble and surpassed the advance of 46 yards it had made to its first touchdown in the opening period to win, 13 to 7.

Blocked Punt Ties Score.

Penn's early 7 to 0 advantage, established by Munger's touchdown and Kellett's placement kick for the extra point, was wiped out in the second period when José Martinez-Zorilla blocked Perina's punt and ran 24 yards across the goal line. Ferraro added the extra point with a place kick.

Disheartened by that stroke of fate, Penn lost all its punch on the attack and had nothing but its stonewall defense. For two periods it had scored only a single first down, that one on a 13 yard pass from Kellett to Burnett on the last play of the half. The third period found the ball entirely in the home team's territory, once on its 25 yard line and again on its 29 yard mark in Cornell's possession.

Recover Fumbled Lateral.

Penn's break came on the first play after Kellett's kick, when Cornell attempted a lateral pass, with Ferraro taking the ball from Viviano and tossing it out to the side to Switzer. The Cornell quarter back juggled the ball. It escaped from his hands, and Hemeon, Penn's right wing, snatched it up and ran 58 yards across the goal line as Ferraro made a desperate effort to break through the wall of interferers convoying him.

Although the referee disallowed the touchdown because Hemeon had run with a recovered fumble, this frustration by the rules did not deprive the Penn team of its punch. In two minutes they had carried the ball back the 58 yards Hemeon had run in vain, and Kellett went across for the touchdown on a reverse around Cornell's left end as the Ithacans were hoodwinked by a fake to Masavage. Lineup:

Wallace	L. E.	Hemeon
George	L. T.	Sokolis
Shaub	L. G.	Wilson
Brock	C.	Engle
Kossack	R. G.	Yablonski
Murdock	R. T.	Colehower
Martinez-Zorilla	R. E.	Burnett
Switzer	Q. B.	Kellett
Beyer	L. H.	Lewis
Hedden	R. H.	Munger
Viviano	F. B.	Perina

Touchdowns — Martinez-Zorilla, Munger.
Kellett. Points after touchdown—Kellett, Ferraro [substitute for Beyer].

COL. OLDS DROPS DEAD IN PARIS; AID OF KELLOGG

Asst. Secretary of State Under Coolidge.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Col. Robert E. Olds, assistant secretary of state during the Coolidge administration in America, died of apoplexy today at the age of 57.

This morning he left him home in the Rue de l'Universite, apparently in his usual good health, to walk to his office as was his custom. He had gone only a few yards when he became violently ill.

He stumbled back to his door and was helped inside, but he died before a doctor came. Funeral services will be held tomorrow, but it has not been decided whether burial will be here or in the United States.

Born in Duluth.

Col. Olds, born in Duluth, Minn., began his career as a lawyer in St. Paul, Minn., soon after graduation at Harvard. For seventeen years he practiced there, but in 1918 he was sent to France as counselor to the American Red Cross commission.

The next year he became European commissioner in charge of Red Cross work, and in 1925 Frank B. Kellogg took him back to the United States as assistant secretary of state. He remained in Washington for three years, and only last year was appointed to the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague, where his former chief in the state department also serves. During 1929 he was a member of the reparations commission.

American Hospital Governor.

As a resident of Paris he was actively interested in civic matters, particularly as they affected Americans serving on the council of the international chamber of commerce and as a governor of the American hospital.

Mrs. Olds was Miss Rose Wilhelmina Nabersberg of St. Paul. They were married in 1902.

TABLES are built with four legs — for a reason. It's easy enough to discover that reason. Just saw two of the legs off. Presto! Balance is gone!

You can always depend on the vital elements in Eveready Raytheon Tubes being balanced, because they have four supports instead of two. And they are the only tubes you buy with four pillars. The additional two supports add to their performance life, protect their vital elements against becoming unbalanced through jars, jolts of any kind — from handling, from installation, or from the vibrations of dynamic speakers.

For smooth, steady, satisfying performance, equip your set with Eveready four-pillar Tubes. They cost no more, why not buy the best? Your dealer will demonstrate.

ALASKAN MINING OUTLOOK BRIGHT, PARKS ASSERTS

Governor Issues Annual Report on Territory.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—(AP)—The outlook for the Alaskan mining industry next year was described as "most encouraging" by Gov. George A. Parks today in his annual report to Secretary Wilbur.

"Reports from all districts indicate," he said, "that there are more prospectors in the field than there have been for years. Favorable predictions for next year are further justified by the substantial expansion of operations in and production from gold lode properties throughout the territory.

"The operating programs of the larger dredging companies have been stabilized, and an increased production of gold may be anticipated from the placers, especially in the Fairbanks district. Representatives from mining companies seeking new properties have visited nearly every section of the territory during the year."

Fishing Returns Drop.

Returns from Alaska's major industry—fishing—were reported to be less both in quantity and in value than the previous year, but the decline was attributed to market conditions and not to lack of supply.

Specific recommendations made by the governor included:

"Relief of local unemployment by construction of rivers and harbors projects that have been recommended to congress, and the completion or repair of existing projects. Items for the improvement of Dry Pass, Sitka harbor, Stikine river, Kodiak harbor, and for further improvement of Wrangell narrows, Wrangell harbor, and Nome harbor have been recommended to congress. The Ketchikan harbor improvement is not completed and repairs are necessary to the Lowell creek project at Seward. Construction work on these projects would employ many men and be of inestimable benefit to the territory.

"In addition to the above projects reports have been submitted for the improvement of Petersburg harbor, Craig harbor, Gastineau channel, and Salmon river at Hyder. The early consideration of these reports is urged.

"The national forests in Alaska contain the most densely populated sections of the territory, and within these areas the unemployment situation is most acute. There are within these forest many road projects that have been recommended by local authorities. Construction work should be undertaken on these projects this season.

Schools Are Needed.

"Schools and hospitals are needed in many sections of the territory to care for the native people. A ten year construction program has been recommended.

"The hospital boat of the Yukon river serves a large territory and gives medical aid to residents in isolated places. The present boat is old and should be replaced with a new vessel completely equipped for the service."

CORN HARVEST IN IOWA DELAYED BY BAD WEATHER

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 24.—Not more than 60 per cent of the husking of Iowa's record breaking corn crop has been completed, Director Charles D. Reed of the federal weather bureau estimates.

Husking made very little progress the last two weeks in west central and northwest Iowa, owing to the unseasonable cold wave, which sent temperatures below zero on two nights and left snow six to ten inches deep in cornfields, he said in his weekly summary.

Better progress in husking was made in the extreme eastern counties, which are not snow covered. The average temperature for the state in the last week was 22.7, or 12.2 degrees below normal for the season.

Considerable complaint was reported received of horses dying from cornstalk disease. The Eastern Iowa Veterinarian association reported considerable hog cholera.

Consolidated Cigar.

I have some shares of Consolidated Cigar common. I would like advice on the company's status.—H. H. S

Consolidated Cigar corporation is one of the largest cigar manufacturers in the industry. Its leading brands are El Producto and Dutch Masters. Others are El Sidelo, "44," Harvester, and Mozart.

During the last few years the company has made extensive progress in mechanizing production. It now produces from 80 to 85 per cent of its output by machine. This has enabled it to reduce operating costs and to concentrate production.

Net income for the first nine months of 1932 was $718,000, which was 1.56 times prior preferred dividends, 1.01 times preferred dividends, and equal to 43 cents per common share. For the corresponding 1931 period net was $1,527,000, or $3.50 per common share.

The company produced 415,000,000 cigars in 1931, 425,000,000 in 1930, 412,000,000 in 1929, and 434,000,000 in 1928. Net income in 1931 was $2,110,000, or $22.01 per share of prior preferred, $50.76 per share of preferred and $5.04 per common share. Net for 1930 was $2,361,000, or $5.86 per common share. Net for 1929 was $3,302,000, against $3,602,000 for 1928 and $2,910,000 for 1927.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $19,897,000 and current liabilities were $2,742,000. Cash was $1,215,000 and notes payable were $1,500,000. Working capital was $17,155,000, against $17,399,000 the year before. On Sept. 12, 1932, it was announced that the $1,500,000 bank loans had been paid off.

On Aug. 15, 1932, stockholders voted to reduce the stated value of the common from $11,856,000 to $2,500,000. This enabled the management to write good will down to $1 from $7,906,000.

Funded debt totals $340,000. There are outstanding 94,634 shares of 6½ per cent cumulative prior preferred, 28,533 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred, and 250,000 no par common shares.

Dividends are being paid on both classes of preferred, but nothing has been paid on the common since the 77 cent disbursement on April 1, 1932.

The prior preference deserves a fairly good rating. The preferred is medium grade. The common is speculative.

Interest Cut on War Loans Seen Remote

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Cheap money is a phrase which is being used a good deal these days. It's heard particularly with reference to the policy being pursued by the federal reserve board. A great deal of emphasis has been placed on the effectiveness of cheap money as a business stimulant and recently there has been a good deal of puzzling over the apparent failure of low money rates to help business.

Attention has been called to the low rates at which the U. S. treasury has been able to float its short term securities, some of which were sold at a price to yield as low as .12 per cent on an annual basis. The treasury has been able to do this in part because of the demand for short term liquid paper by banks who wish to maintain liquid positions until such time when confidence returns and enables them to expand their more profitable commercial business.

Talk of U. S. Refunding.

There has been some discussion recently of the possibility that the treasury will attempt to refund part of its war loan indebtedness at a lower interest rate. Bankers who have been asked concerning this possibility express the belief that such a program will have to await a further return of confidence.

At the present writing there are indications that the banks are inclined to extend credit a bit more liberally than in recent months, but a real change in credit condition awaits the refunding of much of the present short term securities into long term obligations according to the opinion expressed in financial quarters.

It is logical to believe that the first step in this direction will be taken by the government. When the public shows a willingness to buy long term governments at moderate interest rates the time will not be far off when industry will be able to raise funds. Banks who now have so much invested in government securities will turn to more profitable kinds of paper. At the present time there is a scarcity of good trade paper which has led them to put so much of their funds in government issues.

Biggest Loan 4¼s.

The U. S. Liberty Fourth 4¼s, of which there are $6,250,000,000 outstanding, represent the largest single issue in the national debt. The treasury has the option of recalling any part of the issue, with six months notice, on any interest date beginning Oct. 15, 1933, until maturity on Oct. 15, 1938. The issue bears as high a coupon rate as the government now pays. Whether the treasury will refund any part of this issue before maturity will depend on market conditions, it is said.

"Manifestly, the government is not likely to call for redemption an issue not due for five years in order to re-issue another maturing in five years," C. F. Childs & Co., government bond specialists, says in a current bulletin. "Therefore, Fourths reasonably may remain undisturbed until an issue with a longer term than five years can be marketed. That may not be an expectation until the budget is balanced. Furthermore, a total of $2,744,000,000 treasury bills, certificates and notes must be redeemed during 1933. That task, together with deficit financing, may provide ample exercise without undertaking an additional major refunding operation."

SALES OF AUTOS IN MIDDLE WEST DROP IN OCTOBER

Automobile sales in the middle west during October were considerably smaller than a year ago and also declined from the September totals.

Sales of new cars at wholesale prices were 56.4 less than in September, 69 per cent less than a year ago. At retail, new car sales dropped 17.8 from September and 43 per cent from a year ago. Inventories of cars also declined 20.2 per cent from the previous month. Sales of used cars fell off 4.7 from September.

The monthly report of the Seventh federal reserve district showed relative improvement in the furniture industry, the small recession of 5 per cent in current orders for October comparing with a 13 per cent decline in October, 1931, while shipments gained 10 per cent this year against a loss of 4 per cent a year ago. Operations averaged 41 per cent of capacity, two points under September and six points under the rate maintained in October, 1931.

BANKERS BLDG. UNABLE TO MEET DEC. 1 INTEREST

Default Reported Partly Due to High Taxes.

BY AL CHASE.

Announcement was made by the Adams-Clark Building corporation last night that it will be unable to meet Dec. 1 interest payments on the forty-one story Bankers' building, at the southwest corner of Adams and Clark streets, which it owns.

The interest due is on $4,765,000 of first mortgage leasehold 6½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds which are reported to be largely held in the east and on the Pacific coast.

The situation is attributed to abnormally high taxes and the sharp reduction in rentals now prevailing. A reorganization plan has been developed under the direction of H. L. Harker, president of Harker & Hamlin, Inc. The Bankers' building was completed in 1927. Its tenants are largely financial and investment houses.

Englewood Arms Plan.

Owners of bonds in the Englewood Arms Apartment building, at the northeast corner of 62d and Green streets, today will receive a plan for the reorganization of that bond issue whereby they will receive income bonds for their present securities. A new corporation is to be formed which will take over the property if the bondholders' protective committee is successful in bidding in the property. Apparently the reorganization plan means that the present equity owners are to remain in control and the bondholders remain bondholders, for no mention is made of the bondholders' receiving any stock.

The capital stock of the new corporation will be placed in a voting trust of ten years' duration, the trustees of which will be Barnet L. Rosset, chairman of the bondholders' committee; Earle G. Krumrine, a member of the committee, and Robert Levy, the principal stockholder in the existing corporation, or, in other words, the principal equity owner.

The new corporation is to enter into a management contract with Mr. Levy whereby he'll operate the property as resident manager with a salary of $100 a month and an apartment in the building without rent.

Pay 5 Per Cent—If Earned.

The bondholders, who are asked to deposit their securities with the Metropolitan Trust company, will receive a pro rata amount of income bonds maturing in ten years, which will pay 5 per cent interest—if earned.

The plan is rather vague regarding the stock issue. How much, what class, and what dividends it calls for, if cumulative, are not announced. Whether or not a sinking fund has been provided for retirement of the income bonds if any income over the necessary 5 per cent is received, is not stated.

"Funds now in the hands of the trustee may be sufficient to care for the necessary expenses incidental to the reorganization," Mr. Rosset states, "but if the amount is insufficient the committee feels assured that additional funds can be obtained through the sale of a first mortgage on the property, to mature in not less than five years and bear interest at a rate not to exceed 5 per cent."

No Receiver Appointed.

The bond issue, underwritten by the Straus Brothers Investment company, now reduced to $127,500, defaulted on April 1. Foreclosure proceedings were started on June 8 and a decree of foreclosure entered on Nov. 4.

No receiver was appointed, Mr. Rosset points out, as the committee and the trustee felt that the best results could be obtained by leaving the owner in possession. A surety bond was provided by the owner assuring that all rentals he collected would be turned over to the trustee.

Inasmuch as the equity of redemption and junior mortgage interests will be available for reorganization purposes, there'll be no fifteen month delay, Mr. Rosset states.

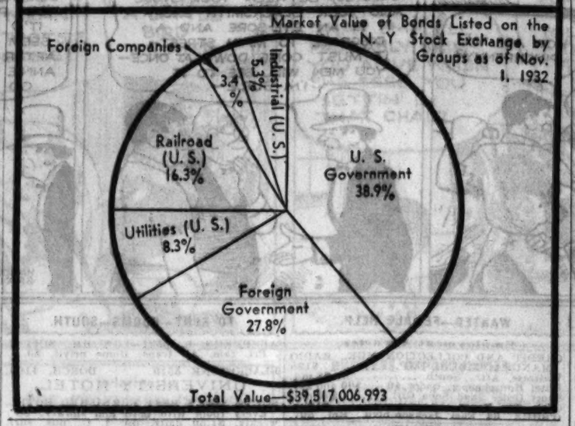
U. S. Government Issues Are Most Valuable of Listed Bonds



Trade in West Tends Toward Steadier Level

For the first time in two and one-half years, business activity in the far west shows a tendency toward stabilization, according to the first public release of the index of far western business compiled by Bank of America, large Pacific coast branch banking system. The index number for October is 59.4, representing the relatively small three point change from the index figure of 62 in May.

A tendency toward stabilization in the area is indicated by a comparison of this year's three point fluctuation with last year's decline of 11.7 for the corresponding period from May to October and the decline of 48.1 points in the index record from October, 1929, to last May. From 70.5 in January, last, the number declined sharply to 62. in May. Since then the decline appears to have been fairly well checked with the monthly record as follows: June, 61.1; July, 62; August, 59.1; September, 61; and October, 59.4

First Report on West.

This latest offering to the studies on American business has been constructed by the Bank of America, from records on car loadings, power production and bank debits, adjusted for seasonal variation and trend. It is to be released monthly. The area covered in the reports embraces the states of California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, and part of New Mexico.

As to the functions of the index, L. M. Giannini, senior executive vice president of the bank, said:

"Business houses and security holders have long complained of the dearth of business data from the far west. Owing to difficulties in assembling material, representative business services which report on the south, midwest and east, superficially pass over or omit the area between the Rocky mountains and the Pacific ocean.

Hoped It Will Aid Trade.

"The bank's index of business activity is designed to assist the manufacturer, shipper, industrialist, business man and banker, especially in the east, the midwest and the south, in gauging his operations that relate to the far western market."

Each of the three series composing the index, it is announced, is in itself a general measure of activity. Freight car loadings reflect primarily trade activity, electric power production is principally an indicator of industrial production and bank debits to individual accounts measures trade and financial activity. The index is expressed as a percentage of a computed normal.

CANADA IS AT END OF BORROWING POWER, MEIGHEN ASSERTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 24.—Canada virtually has reached the limit of her borrowing powers, has reached the point where there must be a right about face or there is going to be a crash in which railway men will suffer most, labor will be seriously hurt and all Canada will be in chaos, Arthur Meighen, government leader, told the senate railway committee today.

The former prime minister's grave warning was uttered in reply to demands of the railway brotherhoods that further sacrifices on the part of locomotive engineers, firemen and other workers be avoided in connection with drastic economies provided for in legislation now before parliament.

Meighen pointed out that $900,000,000 had been borrowed in the last nine years to keep the Canadian National railways afloat and the suggestion that the Dominion should go on borrowing must be answered by a thunderous "no."

He put it straight up to the senate railway committee to face the music and pass the bill providing for forced economies such as pooling of traffic receipts, joint use of facilities and terminals, running rights and the elimination of wasteful competition by Canada's two railways, the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National, one privately owned and the other owned by the government.

FACTORY JOBS AND PAY ROLLS SHOW INCREASE

Washington, D. C. Nov. 24.—(AP)—The federal reserve board today reported that factory employment and pay rolls which increased in September showed further increase in October and November, with more than the seasonal amount at textile mills and substantial gains in steel mills, lumber mills and carbuilding shops.

The board's monthly review of general business and financial conditions said, however, the volume of industrial production after increasing considerably in September remained unchanged in October and wholesale commodity prices declined in the first three weeks of November to the level of early summer. Employment in the canning and automobile industries continued downward.

In the textile industries, which made rapid advances in August and September, there was a slight decrease in consumption of raw materials, while the output of finished products increased somewhat. Shoe production, which had increased in recent months, showed a seasonal decline. Operations at steel mills increased from 17 per cent of capacity in September to 19 per cent in October, which trend was continued in November.

General Motors Workers More Numerous in October

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The General Motors corporation announced today an increase of 3,863 employes in October over September throughout the country. In September there was an increase of 2,053 over August. The company reported that while this expansion did reflect a seasonal influence it did not indicate an improvement in employment.

BANK CLEARINGS IN 22 BIG CITIES CONTINUE DROP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 24.—Bank clearings continued to decline in the week ended Wednesday, the total for twenty-two leading cities in the United States in that period falling 25.5 per cent below the amount for the same period a year ago, acording to Dun's Review. In this city clearings declined 27.9 per cent, while the total for the other cities was down 20.7 per cent.

Clearings in the last week were smaller than in the preceding week, but the reduction was less than the corresponding drop of a year before. However, clearings to date this month are the lowest in years, although normally in November they run ahead of October.

Tax Valuation Unfair.

TO THE EDITOR—Our home for the past 45 years—a frame 1½ story cottage in poor condition is taxed now and always have been on valuation out of proportion to the swell new homes of our neighbors. Our structure is more than 50 years old.

Expert advice tells me that if I complain to the assessor he will not reduce my value, but will only increase my neighbors, of whom I should complain, and so have theirs raised to bring mine into line. If I do so it will make living with them in the same block about impossible. [My neighbors' fine improvements are three and four years old.] What can a man who tries to be a good citizen do? I am poor—my neighbors rich.

Here is another rank injustice: I own a few vacant lots that are valued, in these hard times, for taxation at a figure higher than I tried to sell them at in the flush times three or four years ago and could not. If the value given on tax bill is 37 per cent of the fair value, then I am taxed on a basis more than 2½ times what I tried to sell for in flush times. My expert informant says I have no remedy—that the board will not reduce values of land and I would simply waste time by making complaint.

I am a good citizen, but if our tax eaters keep on their present lines a situation will develop in this country that will make the French revolution look like a game in the kindergarten.

J. H.

ANSWER—Don't hesitate to seek an adjustment of your taxes if you don't believe they are fair and equitable. Our governing bodies have attempted to make fair appraisals, but you must remember an occasional error is possible when thousands of individual properties are valued.

Call or write J. L. Jacobs, chairman of the board of appeals, County building, Chicago. Your complaint will be welcome and you can expect courteous treatment. From the information we have Mr. Jacobs is honest and fair, making every effort to promote these characteristics in the efficiency of his department.

WHEAT PRICES AT WINNIPEG DRIFT LOWER

WINNIPEG, Nov. 24.—(AP)—With Chicago closed for Thanksgiving day, trading on the grain exchange here today proved narrow and dull, and while prices remained firm during most of the morning and some export was reported, values slid off fractionally in the closing minutes to register losses of from ⅛ to ¼ per cent.

November closed at 46⅜, December at 45, May at 48¾, and July at 50¼.

A little buying was done by seaboard houses, both on the Atlantic and the Pacific, but there was nothing to indicate anything more than a scattered export business, probably totaling something over 600,000 bushels. Liverpool opened firm but declined fractionally at the close, as did Buenos Aires. Broomhall reported a very small demand for Canadian wheat.

Support on Dips.

Fair sales of wheat seemed to have been made since the close yesterday, not all of which could be assigned to export interest. There was a suggestion of concentrated support being ready on the dips, but the latter were never at all serious. Country wheat marketings dropped below the 1,000,000 bushels mark yesterday, so that no serious hedging pressure had to be faced.

Only a small aggregate cash wheat business was done as a result of the limited export interest and the quiet futures market and sales of coarse grains were insignificant with the possible exception of some oats business worked out of Vancouver.

Prices Lower in Argentina.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The wheat and corn markets today continued the downward trend exhibited at yesterday's close. Wheat was quoted at 12 centavos per 100 kilograms and corn at 9 centavos.

The harvest in the north is proceeding actively, that in the west has begun, the yield in the central areas is irregular. In the south and southwest where harvesting has not started the quality and quantity are reported higher than last year.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

Wisconsin—Fair in south, somewhat unsettled in north; colder in northwest portion Friday and Saturday and Friday night and Saturday in east and south, with generally

Lower Michigan—Partly cloudy to cloudy warmer in south portion Friday; Saturday unsettled and colder, possibly some local rain or snow in north by Friday night or Saturday.

Upper Michigan—Unsettled Friday, possibly local rain or snow, colder by or before night; Saturday unsettled and colder, local snows in north portion.

High Tariff Blamed for Farm Woes

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Farmers and their problems are being given the greatest attention by big business executives and leaders of industry throughout the country. Referring to the reports of activities, Siebel C. Harris, vice president of the Chicago Board of Trade, has issued a statement in which he says while farm relief is a very laudable ambition and represents an objective which every sane person in this country should be very glad to assist, it calls for a little plain thinking and plain talk on a good many phases of American business and industry.

"We think it quite obvious that any improvement in agricultural prices must result either from a cut in production or an increase in the outlets for agricultural products, commonly known as increased demand," he states. "Numerous attempts have been made to reduce production and they have been futile for the most part due to the fact that the farmer has the land available, he has nothing to do with it but till it and it is the logical action for him to take. It would, therefore, appear that there is a greater likelihood of price improvement through the enlargement of demand at a time when many people in the world are suffering from impoverished conditions and when there is certainly not a glut of foodstuffs the world over in relation to potential consuming power.

Shipments Decline.

"Illustrating the fact that the low price is largely due to lack of demand for surplus products, in the season of 1928-'29, when wheat prices were very much higher than they are today, world shipments of wheat and flour totaled 913 million bushels. In the 1930-'31 season they totaled 787 million bushels. This year, with prices the lowest in history, Broomhall estimated world imports of 720 million bushels for the season, but recently he said that imports to date have totaled only 210 million bushels against 319 million during the same time last year and, as we pointed out, there is every indication that actual world shipments for the season will run considerably under 700 million bushels. Now what is the reason for this?

"An examination of the facts shows that Germany, Italy, France, and the United Kingdom have all reduced imports materially, and the three former countries in particular have been able to do this by the increase in home grown crops. In other words, they are living on native supplies. In order to produce these native supplies they have put into effect tariffs on wheat which have raised prices to domestic consumers to very high levels. In Germany the duty on wheat has been more than $1 per bushel. In Italy and France, while the duties have not been quite so high, they have been tremendous in relation to the price of wheat in exporting countries.

Blames Tariff Wall.

"Why have these continental countries taken this attitude? Largely because the United States has erected a tariff wall against their manufactured articles, which makes it impossible for them to ship goods in here on a big scale and receive credits with which they can buy our surplus farm products. It is simply asinine to assume that the United States can remain in the position of a creditor country, holding the bulk of the world's gold supply, refusing admittance to foreign manufacturers, and expecting foreign countries to buy our surplus agricultural goods. It is a mathematical problem that cannot be worked out, and it has resulted in the smallest international trade in American wheat in a decade, with no evidence of any improvement in sight as long as this situation exists.

"What is the corrective for this condition? It seems to us that the American manufacturer, who appears to be imbued with the idea of helping the farmer, must willingly concede some relaxation in tariff arrangements which will permit a resumption of trade in manufactured products from Germany, France, and Italy, and the United Kingdom on at least a fair basis. Our legislative theories of the past several years have been predicated on the assumption that agriculture should be put on a basis of equality with industry. There is a splendid opportunity to make that theory effective. The trouble is that when it comes down to a concrete case of any particular manufacturer making such a concession in order to help the farm situation, he immediately raises the point that it will hurt his business.

ADVISES BRANCH LINE IN NEBRASKA BE ABANDONED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Over the protest of the Nebraska state railway commission and private interests Examiner R. R. Molster today recommended to the interstate commerce commission that it authorize the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway to abandon its forty mile branch from Coburn to Wynot, Neb.

The company, in its appeal for permission to discard the line, said operation of the branch has resulted in heavy losses and that the "burden of such losses is greater than the inconvenience which local communities will suffer from abandonment of the line."
